PRESIDENT ENDS HOLIDAY FUN TO DRAFT MESSAGE

Prepares His Yearly Report on Union.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—President Roosevelt today began writing the annual report on the state of the Union, a task prescribed for him by the constitution, for submission to the second session of the 74th congress, which meets a week from tomorrow.

The President entered into his work after enjoying an old fashioned Christmas with four generations of his family about him in the White House. To avoid interruptions Mr. Roosevelt retired to his private study on the second floor of the executive mansion. He did not enter the executive offices during the day.

At noon he conferred with Acting Budget Director Daniel W. Bell, to gather loose strings of the 1936-'37 budget, on which he has been working for two months. The President will give his budget message to congress a day or two after his annual message.

Message Will Be Brief.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated that his annual message, as usual, will be a brief one. His first annual message, delivered in December of 1933, contained about 800 words. His more recent predecessors in office have employed from two to seven thousand words in performing the required task.

The message, White House aids indicated, will be confined largely to the claiming of recovery progress for the New Deal. It is not expected to advance any startlingly new legislation because the administration is entering on a campaign year and has been pushing brain trusters and their ideas into the background in focusing attention on vote getting.

It was reported the President was having difficulty in formulating his message so as to give credit to his alphabetical units because his most potent unit, the NRA, has been held unconstitutional and others are awaiting Supreme court decisions. In fact, it was pointed out, on the day the message probably will be delivered, Jan. 6, the Supreme court may hand down one or more decisions adverse to the New Deal.

Brain trusters are confident that buried in the message will be a determination to carry on the program which has been advanced in the last 34 months and described by the President himself as a course "a little to the left of center." However, they believe this assertion will be soft pedaled, as they concede it is not attractive bait for voters, and, what is more important, for potential campaign contributors.

In the implied assurance for full steam ahead for the New Deal the message is expected studiously to avoid any reference to any means of continuing New Deal objectives should recovery units under court attack be held unconstitutional. New Dealers on the inside of White House affairs say the President will meet these problems as they arise through special messages to congress.

Further indication that the message will be brief has been given in the administration's announcement that a short session of congress is being sought. The major bills will be an appropriation measure and a new neutrality bill to replace the one which is to expire within a few weeks after the opening of congress.

Session Hinges on Court Opinion.

Plans for a short session depend, however, upon what the Supreme court does to the six major pieces of legislation now before it for measurement against the constitution. If the court should, for example, outlaw the AAA, congressional leaders believe the session might be prolonged for months as a legal substitute would be sought to enable carrying out of the New Deal farm program.

It is possible the President may deliver his message on Jan. 3 rather than on Jan. 6 so that his report may not contrast embarrassingly with Supreme court decisions. It is expected, however, congress will meet the 3d, which is a Friday, to put itself in order and adjourn until Monday to hear the message delivered as usual in person.

Mr. Roosevelt has been jotting down notes for incorporation in the message for some weeks. Today was the first time he found opportunity for detailed work on the documents.

5° BELOW COLD IS DUE TODAY; THEN WARMER

A measure of relief from the cold wave which first arrived in Chicago on Christmas day and returned yesterday in more severe form is promised today in the official weather forecast.

Forecaster A. W. Cook said that while the mercury probably would slide down to 5 below zero early today—the coldest of the winter—it would change direction in the daylight hours and probably reach a maximum of at least 10 above in the afternoon. Tomorrow is expected to be still milder, with a high of 20 degrees or more.

Afternoon High Is 3 Above.

At 7 a. m. yesterday the temperature was 2 above zero, having fallen ten degrees in six hours. The highest reading after that was 3 above at 1 and 2 p. m. In the late afternoon there was a gradual drop that carried the reading to an even zero at 7 p. m. At 2:30 a. m. an unofficial reading of 10 below zero was recorded at the Chicago airport.

Fair Skies Forecast.

Fair weather is indicated for all of Illinois today, but some snow is expected in Michigan and in northern Minnesota.

The reaction to warmer weather already had set in over the Canadian prairies and the plains states south of the border last night. On the other hand, it had become much colder over the eastern half of the country, particularly in the gulf states and the southeast. There were light snows in parts of the lake region, in the Ohio valley, and in the northern Rockies.

City streets and Illinois highways which had been blocked by heavily drifting snows on Christmas day were all cleared sufficiently for travel yesterday.

All Marked Roads Open.

The state highway department reported that all marked roads had at least one lane open for cars and that two lanes would be in service today.

Downstate cities had lower temperatures than Chicago. It was 6 below at Bloomington, 10 below at Peoria, 4 below at Quincy, 7 below at Ottawa, and 8 below at Rockford. The digging out of the highways near Effingham permitted the resumption of bus service in the afternoon after a delay of 24 hours. Near Tuscola Mr. and Mrs. Elsa Reeder and their two children suffered frozen hands and feet when their automobile stalled in a snowdrift.

East Suffers Severely.

The east, however, suffered the full severity of the general snowfall. At Wildwood Villas, N. J., all able bodied men were summoned to dig the community out of 15 foot drifts piled up by a 31 mile wind which whipped

THE FLIGHTS

'JAFSIE' ADVERTISES IN THEATER MAGAZINE FOR STAGE BOOKINGS

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Dr. John F. Condon, "Jafsie" of the Lindbergh kidnaping case, now is available for theater "bookings," according to an advertisment today in the magazine Variety.

Condon, who was the intermediary in the Lindbergh ransom negotiations, has made several public appearances.

"Now available for personal appearances in vaudeville or motion picture theaters—'JAFSIE'—Dr. John F. Condon," says the ad.

"Most enigmatic, colorful, and widely publicized personality in America, Condon recently played to terrific grosses in Boston and Lynn, Mass."

Condon, retired Bronx school teacher, was a star witness at the trial of Bruno Richard Hauptmann, the convicted kidnap slayer. He parried with Hauptmann's defense attorneys to his own apparent enjoyment and that of the courtroom crowd. He was seven hours on the stand.

Terrier Gives Her Life to Save Six from Fire

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Skeeter died a heroine today after saving six lives. The fox terrier awakened the W. L. Wood family with frantic bedside barkings. Their rural home was filled with smoke and part of it was in flames. In the confusion of flight Skeeter was trapped and killed.

Science Finds 2 Preventives for Paralysis

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Discovery at the Rockefeller institute of a nose wash which protects monkeys from infantile paralysis and is now ready "for trial in man," was reported to the Society of American Bacteriologists at its opening session today.

A second, entirely different sort of infantile paralysis preventive found in vitamin C, the vitamin from oranges, lemons, tomatoes, spinach, cabbage, and lettuce, was reported from Columbia university. The vitamin at Columbia prevented infantile paralysis in monkeys, but under circumstances so peculiar that treatment is not yet ready for trial on children.

The Rockefeller institute nose wash was based on the known fact that infantile paralysis attacks through the nose, and particularly through the nerves of smell.

Two of 100 Take It.

Tannic acid and sodium alum were tried as nose washes. One was about as effective as the other. Neither was 100 per cent effective, but out of 20 monkeys with noses treated with sodium alum only two caught infantile paralysis when all were exposed to it. The tannic acid was about equally effective.

"The resistance," says the report made by A. B. Sabin, P. K. Olitsky, and H. R. Cox, "could be maintained over a period of several weeks by one daily installation of the chemical."

Evidence that the protection was entirely in the nose was found in the fact that after weeks of this treatment the monkeys' blood contained none of the antibody substances which give general immunity to the paralysis.

Exact Dosage Effective.

Vitamin C was injected by Claus Z. Jungeblut at Columbia into the bodies of twenty monkeys. All were injected subcutaneously. The protection seemed to lie in the size of dose. Four milligrams of vitamin C injection was complete protection in this experiment, while larger doses in no case gave much protection.

Jungeblut said the experiment was based on the fact that vitamin C kills infantile paralysis virus when the two are mixed artificially.

Infantile paralysis attacks man's central nervous system. Normally present in that system, Jungeblut said, are sufficient amounts of vitamin C to kill the infantile paralysis. Hence, he said, the question rises whether the natural resistance of the great majority of human beings to infantile paralysis may not be their vitamin C.

Stop School Vaccinations.

Dr. William H. Park of the city health department said today that vaccination of children against disease had been stopped in New York after a warning against vaccines published in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

Vaccinations were ordered stopped, Dr. Park said, several weeks ago after the warning first appeared. The vaccinations had been directed here by a committee of physicians and laymen under the Roosevelt fund.

"The committee," he added, "apparently got cold feet after the publication of this report and started to defer further vaccinations until next spring. Meanwhile, we shall continue to experiment with the vaccine on Rhesus monkeys."

OL' HEZIKIAH PUTS THE BANKERS RIGHT UP A CREEK, YASSUH!

Topeka, Kas., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Hezikiah Brown, colored, lost a foreclosure action to a Topeka bank. The judgment gave the bank title to 19 of the 20 acres in Hezikiah's plat adjoining Shunganunga creek. Kansas law permits a defendant to retain one acre of his own choosing as his homestead, the only string being it must all be in one piece.

Hezikiah chose a 15 foot strip starting at the creek bank and running around the outer edge of the property back to the creek.

NUDISTS SCOFF AT ZERO BLASTS; BOAST 83 CAMPS

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Now that it's 10 above or thereabouts, how about the nudists?

"They're fine, thank you," says Dr. Ilsley Boone, Baptist minister and president of the International Nudist conference.

"We've got more camps in the country than ever before—eighty-three. What's a bit of snow and ice to a good nudist?"

"Of course, this is a bit of an off-season," Dr. Boone commented, "but we're growing."

It appeared last night that the supreme sacrifice of Mrs. Alice Hayden, 23 year old mother who shot and killed herself Christmas night to make possible the marriage of her husband, James, and Josephine Carden, an 18 year old brunette with blue eyes, was all in vain.

Josephine, who won the affections of the inconstant Hayden by being a joyous companion, while the dutiful Mrs. Hayden stayed at home busy with her housework and the care of her baby, was present in the Hayden home at 43 North Leavitt street at the time of the suicide. Now, she doesn't want to marry Hayden. She made known this decision last evening in the home of her mother at 3447 Franklin boulevard.

"He wasn't the only boy friend I had," she declared. "He was just one of 'em. He took me around a little, but the only present he ever gave me was a box of candy for Christmas. I don't think I love him and I doubt if I ever see him again."

A Changed Attitude.

This attitude was much at variance with the one Miss Carden had adopted up to and immediately after the tragic death of the wife. Testimony, including her own, at a coroner's inquest yesterday tended to show that she and Mrs. Hayden had regarded themselves as absolute rivals for the affections of Hayden—and that Mrs. Hayden felt she could dissolve all the difficulties and make the other two of their tragic trio happy by ending her own life.

Her only reward for that sacrifice was the unimaginative verdict of the coroner's jury: "Suicide while despondent over marital difficulties." Her child, Geraldine, 2 years old, is motherless; and Hayden, if Miss Carden persists in her decision that she doesn't want him now that he is free, has lost both the women who told him they loved him.

Girl Invited to Home.

The tragedy took place in the Hayden flat where the three central figures in the case were gathered on Christmas evening. Hayden, who is 23 years old and has a police record, invited Miss Carden there at the request of his wife, who informed him she would "like to talk over our situation with Josephine."

The girl accepted. She stepped into the living room a little later and looked around. It was not furnished overly well, but there was a little table Christmas tree gleaming with a string of lights and she took her stand by this. The three talked together, then Mrs. Hayden suggested that her husband go out for a walk. He obeyed.

Both Agree They Love Him.

While she was gone the two women agreed that they loved him, dearly and desperately. Shortly before he returned Mrs. Hayden said to her rival:

"If he really loves you and you are in love with him, you should be with him always."

When Hayden stepped back into his living room there was a scene such as a dramatist might have arranged. The two women looked at him in silence. Then his wife addressed him.

"Which of us do you love most?" she demanded.

DUCE GETS NAVY READY TO FIGHT; RECALLS 13,000

Orders Gun Experts Back in Oil Threat.

ROME, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Italian naval preparations were ordered today for any contingencies in the unsettled European atmosphere, reliable sources reported tonight. They said 13,000 naval specialists had been recalled for service by Premier Mussolini.

Strengthening of the fleet was decided upon in view of the fact that the league of nations may decide next month to impose an oil embargo on Italy, it was believed in informed quarters.

The threatened imposition of an oil embargo has been denounced by Italy in warlike terms, and some observers have predicted such an act would bring war between Mussolini's government and powers supporting the embargo.

Served in Gunrooms.

The majority of men reported recalled today have served in the gun or powder rooms of naval vessels.

Two of the most powerful British warships in the Mediterranean, it was learned, will exchange positions soon. The battleship Ramillies is scheduled to arrive at Gibraltar Jan. 1 from the eastern seas, and the battle cruiser Renown will leave at that time for Malta and Alexandria.

Claims Italian Plane Shot Down.

ADDIS ABABA, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The Ethiopian government reported today that its soldiers had shot down an Italian airplane at Daggah Bur.

The airplane was flying in a reconnoitering expedition in company with another. Officials reported from Harrar that the pilot—not immediately identified—was beheaded.

Accused of Aiding Two Others.

Officals charged him with being an accomplice of Josef Hinterzatz and Ladislas Pharago, who were expelled from Ethiopia Dec. 21 on charges of espionage and pro-Italian activities.

Kiriakoulakis is being escorted by train to the French Somaliland frontier.

The Ethiopian government also, informed sources said, is now employing European counterspies in an attempt to break up what is believed to be a big espionage ring.

Kiriakoulakis is the sixth person to be deported from Ethiopia under charges of espionage. Deportation is considered the supreme penalty for foreigners, as no whites are executed in Ethiopia.

ACT TO PROTECT RAILWAY

BY SIR PERCIVAL PHILLIPS.

[Special Correspondent of the London Telegraph and The Chicago Tribune.]

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DJIBOUTI, French Somaliland, Dec. 26.—Bids have been asked by the French railway administration here for the maintenance of passenger and goods service by trucks between Djibouti and the Ethiopian frontier in event the railway line is cut by the Italians.

Such a precautionary measure at this late date indicates there is no agreement with Italy to keep the line open if the Italians advance farther into the interior. A movement threatening the railway evidently is regarded as a serious possibility.

Repair Shops In Ethiopia.

Trains could still be operated on French territory, but as the main repair shops are at Diredawa, Ethiopia, the efficiency of equipment would not be assured. The truck service would operate four times a week by the new road running parallel to the line as far as the last French station. There is no civilian traffic of importance in this area and the line is intended to serve military posts guarding that portion of the frontier.

Caravan traders who have just arrived here bring reports of great activity behind the Italian lines in Ogaden province, southern Ethiopia.

It is believed that preparations which have been going on steadily during the "fast of Ramadan" [Mohammedan ninth month] will culminate in another attack on Harrar soon after the end of the fast tonight. During the fast the Moslem troops have not been fit for strenuous operations and, according to native sources, the Italians realized it would not be wise to utilize such troops for an offensive.

Rumors of Disaffection.

There have been many rumors of disaffection among the native levies due to the hardships of the campaign, the lack of enthusiasm for fighting against co-religionists and the absence of interest in the political questions affecting the future of the frontier of the Italian zone.

The Italians disembarked reinforcements of white troops at Mogadishu this month together with large quantities of munitions and gasoline.

A great number of additional fueling bases now have been established along newly built roads east of Gerlogubi. This confirms the belief already expressed by travelers who have been at Mogadishu that Gen. Rodolfo Graziani has believed his forward supply dumps inadequate to support a long sustained attack.

The Italians now appear to have all the gasoline required for the immediate future on the southern front. They have refused consignments recently offered for sale here, whereas previously they bought every available case, paying spot cash in foreign currency.

CALLS JEWRY OF WORLD TO FIGHT FOR 'FREEDOM'

JERUSALEM, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The mobilization of world Jewry to resist the establishment of a legislative council in Palestine and to combat the menace of the "disgraceful Nuremberg laws" of the Hitler régime was ordered today by the executive of the World Zionist organization. The organization, headed by Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president, asked that the Jewish masses in all lands be organized immediately.

The Zionist executive declared that solidarity is essential because "the Palestine government, which undertook to sponsor the Jewish return, intends to establish a constitutional régime which gravely jeopardizes the freedom of our development and the progress of immigration and settlement."

Tavern Window Smashers Captured After Car Crash

Policeman William Mandell of the Racine avenue station, off duty, was seated in the Brown and Koppel tavern at 2003 Division street last night when three men drove up, smashed the two plate glass windows in the tavern and speeded way. Mandell ran outside and fired at the car. It crashed into a parked auto in front of 1936 Division street and the three men ran. One escaped but Mandell captured the other two. They gave their names as Joseph Shenker, 25 years old, 1826 Evergreen avenue, and Irving Kosoff, 32 years old, 2307 Iowa street. The police said the three men had been in a fight in the tavern several nights ago and returned last night to break the windows for revenge.

Seized as Stabber; Faces Return to Prison Farm

Charles Baker, 25 years old, who says he is the son of a school janitor in Downers Grove, returned last night to the rooming house at 6454 Grove avenue from which he had been ejected a month ago for nonpayment of rent. He entered and tried to stab the landlady, Mrs. Evelyn Roark, 34 years old, the police said. He was seized by Englewood police. A check of his record showed he had escaped a year ago from the state prison farm at Vandalia, where he had been sent to serve a term for tampering with an automobile, was recaptured a short time later, and then escaped from the county jail at Vandalia. He is being held for Vandalia authorities.

Philippine Clipper Cuts 4 Hours Off Manila Time

Alameda, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—More than four hours were lopped off the flying time between the Philippines and the United States by the Philippine Clipper, which arrived today with the second load of ocean air mail. Ending a 2,400 mile flight from Honolulu in 17 hours 27 minutes, the big flying boat completed the 8,000 miles from Manila in 58 hours 52 minutes.

LAVAL SAVES HIS CABINET; FEAR IT WILL FALL TODAY

French Premier Faces Defeat in War Debate.

PARIS, Dec. 26.—(AP)—By a quick maneuver, Premier Pierre Laval saved his government in the chamber of deputies today, but fears increased among his supporters that the cabinet would fall tomorrow in a debate on the Italo-Ethiopian conflict.

The premier, recognizing the likelihood of defeat, withdrew a question of confidence put by his war minister, Jean Fabry, who had demanded that the chamber repulse an amendment to an army conscription bill. By the amendment the army service of the eldest sons in families of five or more would have been reduced from the present two years to one year.

Herriot Sees President.

Although Laval's plans in the Italo-Ethiopian situation and his policy of keeping France out of war were not completely settled, he was reported by deputies to have told the cabinet that France would take no military or naval move toward Italy unless there was provocation by Italy.

Edouard Herriot, minister of state and former head of the Radical Socialists, talked for nearly an hour with President Lebrun, but whether he agreed to back Laval in an effort to avoid a cabinet crisis was not revealed. Herriot is credited with a stanch belief in a firm policy by the league of nations against Italy.

Laval, who political sources said strongly opposes enforcement of military sanctions against Italy, was understood to have told Herriot at a cabinet meeting that France would fulfill its league obligations.

Points to German Army.

The premier felt, however, it was said in political circles, that only some military or naval action by Italy, such as an assault on British ships, would make it necessary for France to take military precautions such as mobilization of the fleet or army.

Fabry, urging the chamber of deputies to formally enact the present two year service requirement for conscripts, which was put into effect by decree, raised the specter of the menace of Germany's army.

Asserting that Nazi armaments were "increasing with a constantly accelerated rhythm," Fabry said Germany soon would have an army of 1,000,000 men to threaten France.

He declared France was able at present to marshal only 400,000 soldiers to hold the frontier fortifications against 800,000 troops which he said were now available to Reichsfuehrer Hitler.

Army of 1,000,000 Men.

Leon Archimbaud, military expert of the chamber's finance committee, declared recently Hiler would have between 900,000 and 1,000,000 men under arms within several months, while France would have only 654,000 at home and in the colonies.

Fabry, in opposing the amendment to the conscription bill, argued that the army would be reduced to 16,000 men each year if the eldest sons of families of five served only one year. He asserted that "without them we perhaps would be unable to maintain our defenses."

The chamber voted 1,700,000,000 francs [about $110,500,000] for defensive works against air raids, such as bombproof shelters.

Robbed of Truck, $100, Checks, and Cheese Cargo

Samuel Garfinkel, 4201 Gladys avenue, stopped his truck loaded with cheese at Sawyer avenue and Cermak road for a trafic light last night, when two men boarded it. They made him drive to a point somewhere in Cicero, where they robbed him of $100 and $200 in checks and drove off with the truck. Its cargo of cheese was valued at $400, Garfinkel told the police.

across Delaware bay. Philadelphia experienced blizzard conditions and 13,000 men were put to work in New York City clearing away a snow blanket. In western New York state the fall was from 7 to 12 inches.

Norfolk, Va., had the coldest Dec. 26 in its history and Ohio the coldest in a quarter of a century. Forecasters announced that freezing weather would extend to the gulf coast of Mississippi by morning.

Cold in Georgia, Too.

Atlanta, Ga., was looking for a low of 6 above, the coldest there in two years. A minimum near zero was predicted for points in Alabama.

Police reports last night attributed the deaths of seven men and a woman in Chicago to the cold, at least in part. These covered only cases in which there was prolonged exposure to the elements or heart disease apparently aggravated by the low temperatures. More than 100 deaths over the country were charged up to the cold, but the accuracy of the figures was disputable, as victims of automobile accidents and fires were included.

One Chance in 25,000

When Ole Gustafson, owner of a poultry store at 7053 South Halsted street, hid $35 in his telephone book and then exchanged the book for a new directory in a forgetful moment last Tuesday, police estimated he had oie chance in 25,000 of getting the money back.

Yesterday he got it back.

Frank Juranek, 2510 South Trumbull avenue, employed by the Red Ball Movers, Inc., who are collecting directories for R. H. Donnelley, Inc., 350 East Cermak road, noticed the money in the book as he was dropping a bundle of the directories into a truck.

Juranek took the money to James Lait, delivery supervisor for the Donnelley company. Lait called Gustafson, who received his money.

"The chances for getting the money were slim," Lait said. "About 25,000 books are packed into a box car and it would be impossible to search through them. Fortunately, Juranek happened to see the money. Even more fortunately, he is honest. Gustafson gave Juranek a $3 reward."

SIX KILLED WHEN LIMITED STRIKES CAR DOWNSTATE

Five Victims Members of Flora, Ill., Family.

Salem, Ill., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Six persons, including three children and their parents, were killed today when their automobile was struck by the National Limited, a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train.

The dead are:

S. P. White, Flora, Ill., school teacher; his wife, Irene; their children Philip [12], Mary Ellen [9], and Jean [6], and White's uncle, Hartford Montgomery, 65, Wayne county farmer.

The Whites, accompanied by Montgomery, were returning home after a visit to Mount Vernon, Ill., when the accident occurred.

C. M. Erwin, Baltimore and Ohio agent, who saw the accident, said: "It looked to me as if the car was trying to beat the train to the crossing."

Ford Relative Killed.

Adrian, Mich., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Milton Raymond, 32, a nephew of Mrs. Henry Ford, and Mr. and Mrs. Wiley Patton of Seneca, Mich., were killed tonight when their automobile was struck by a New York Central passenger train at Cadmus, eight miles west of here.

Officers who investigated said Raymond, an automobile dealer, was demonstrating a car to the couple and apparently was driving them to their home.

POLICE ORDERED TO PUT STOP TO ANGLE PARKING

Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed rank, announced yesterday that the city ordinance prohibiting diagonal parking will be strictly enforced by the police. He said that complaints of such parking, especially on Madison street between Pulaski road and Austin boulevard, will be turned over to the captains at a meeting to be held the early part of next week.

"Angle parking is not only a violation of a city ordinance but on some streets is a violation of the state law," Capt. Prendergast asserted. "In order to make the streets safer for motorists and pedestrians it is necessary to enforce all vehicle laws strictly. That will be the department's policy for 1936."

Complaints have been made by safety organizations about the parking conditions on Madison street. Although the street is one of the widest in the city [100 feet], angle and double parking have impeded trafic, it has been reported.

MISS GRIFFITHS ELOPES WITH POLISH COUNT

Gloria Griffiths, daughter of Mrs. Moisant Griffiths, 1500 Lake Shore drive, eloped yesterday with Count Anthony Potocki, formerly of Warsaw, Poland. The couple's movements were cloaked in mystery after they obtained their marriage license in the county building and Mrs. Griffiths declared last night that the marriage was "a great surprise to everyone."

Mrs. Griffiths said that she was informed by telephone of her daughter's marriage but did not know where the ceremony had been performed or where the couple was. She said that her daughter had known the count for two months.

The bride, who was a debutante in 1930, gave her age as 23 years in filling out the marriage license blank. Count Potocki gave his age as 32 and said he resided in Detroit, where he is said to be employed by the Polish government. Miss Griffiths' father, who is divorced from her mother, is George Griffiths, president of John Griffiths & Sons, contractors at 228 North La Salle street. The count is the grandson of Princess Lubmirski of Poland and is a nephew of Count Maurice Zomoyski, former Polish minister to France.

Gets 10 Days in Bridewell for Driving While Drunk

Anthony Marcin, 50 years old, 4500 South California avenue, was sentenced to ten days in the Bridewell yesterday by Municipal Judge Eugene J. Holland on a charge of driving while intoxicated. Marcin was arrested on Wednesday after his car struck an automobile driven by Eugene Orrico, 7002 South Paulina street.

DIES AT WORK IN PLANT.

Paul Hadron, 37 years old, 1052 West 22d street, died of heart disease yesterday in the plant of the Thompson-Nearlon Manufacturing company, 3545 South Morgan street, where he was employed as a coil press operator.

DRIVER KILLED AS AUTO SKIDS AT UNDERPASS

Harold Lynch, 43 years old, 4559 South Halsted street, a civil engineer, was fatally injured yesterday when the motor car he was driving skidded into an underpass abutment on the Wabash railroad in Halsted street between 74th and 75th streets. The Englewood police took Lynch to the Auburn Park hospital, where he died.

Two men and a woman were seriously injured late last night when the automobile in which they were riding crashed through guard gates at Harlem avenue in Oak Park and was struck by a west bound Garfield Park train of the Rapid Transit lines.

They are James Barrett, 28 years old, 2866 North Long avenue; James Lee, 31, of 4305 North Central Park avenue, and Mrs. Harry Brodkins, 25, of 4441 North Central Park avenue. All were taken to the Oak Park hospital. The automobile was dragged about 75 feet after it was struck by the train.

Four persons were injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding was struck by a freight engine on the Indiana Harbor Belt railroad at Harlem avenue and 59th street. The car was dragged for a block.

Mrs. Amelia Weick, 62 years old, of 3133 Wenonah avenue, Berwyn, and Mrs. Louis Krueger of Grant Park were taken to Holy Cross hospital, where Mrs. Krueger was found to have suffered a fractured spine. Mrs. Weick was cut and bruised and had three broken ribs. Fred Weick, driver of the car, and Walter Krueger, a blind poultry farmer living near Grant Park, were badly shaken.

Albert E. Fellows, 1418 Melville place, was killed yesterday in Los Angeles, Cal., when his automobile was struck by a Southern Pacific passenger train.

Up to 4 p. m. yesterday 996 persons had been killed by automobiles in Cook county since Jan. 1, according to the coroner's office. In the same period 775 were killed and 17,555 injured within the Chicago city limits.

CHILD FATALLY SCALDED.

Doyle Shannon, 4 years old, colored, 1930 Fulton street, was fatally scalded yesterday when he fell into a tub of water in which his mother, Cleo, was preparing to wash clothing. He died in the Washington Boulevard hospital.

HUSBAND'S LOVE GOES UP IN VALUE FOR MRS. KOLB

Worth $15,000 to Her Once; $75,000 Now.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

The value which Mrs. Ella Kolb, 2507 Catalpa avenue, places on her former husband's effections has increased since they first separated in March, 1933, according to her testimony yesterday before Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher. She was her own last witness in the hearing of her suit against Mrs. Gertrude Gabriel Kolb for alienating the affections of Norbert U. Kolb, building cleaning contractor, 42 years old, who lives with Gertrude at 6149 North Talman avenue.

Mrs. Ella Kolb in her suit, which is being heard without a jury, values her former husband's affections at $75,000. In March, 1933, however, she went to call on Gertrude, she testified, and offered her $15,000 if she would give up the contractor.

Tells of Death Threat.

"I said, 'Please leave my husband alone and don't break up our home,'" testified Ella, a thin woman with dark eyes and hair. Her tone was petulant. "She said: 'I love that man and I'm going to marry him.'

"I said, 'I'll give you $15,000 if you'll leave him alone. You know you want to marry him for his money.'

"She said, 'I have $50,000 in stocks and bonds myself.'

"Later she told him I'd been there and he threatened to shooot me if I ever saw her again."

It is to present Mrs. Gertrude Kolb's version of this encounter that her attorney, Maurice Turner, will call her to the witness stand in her own defense this morning. The plaintiff's testimony about this alleged conversation was pointed out as possibly serious by Judge Fisher in denying a motion of not guilty at the close of her case. It was "the only element in the whole case" to consider, he said.

Questioned by her attorney, John O. Wagner, Mrs. Ella Kolb said that prior to the March, 1933, separation, her husband had departed for Reno in 1932, saying he wanted a divorce because he was going to live in Germany. He also told her, she said, "that he had nothing against me but wanted a faster life."

A Gift from Reno.

From Reno he sent her a diamond lavalliere worth $75 for Christmas and several postcards, she said. He returned Jan. 26, 1933, after she telephoned him that she would divorce him here. At that time he said, according to her testimony:

"If we've lived together all these years we can live the rest of our lives together."

She had "taken him back" three times after his original departure for Reno, she said proudly, and she would do so again now at a minute's notice.

Before she obtained a divorce here on Jan. 26, 1934, Kolb advertised for new husbands for her over her objection, she said. As replies came in, he took men out to call on her and introduced her as his sister, she testified. The first such suitor, a Mr. Newman, suggested she invest $15,000 in his business, she said, but when he called her later she told him she was Mrs. Kolb.

"Mr. Kolb said he hated to hurt me, so he wanted me to get interested in some one else, and we always would live together and be friends," she said.

Previously Mrs. Margaret Smith, 3221 Wallace street, a private detective employed by Mrs. Ella Kolb to spy on rooms which Kolb and Gertrude occupied on the sixth and seventh floors respectively of the Lake-Lane Apartment hotel, 6214 Winthrop avenue, testified in a nasal voice.

BARNES ORDERS U. S. JURY TO ACT IN BANKRUPTCIES

Igoe to Press Benjamin Case; Bar May Aid.

BY JOSEPH ATOR.

Federal Judge John P. Barnes yesterday ordered that the investigation of alleged recruiting of clients in bankruptcy reorganization cases by lawyers and other individuals be transferred from his courtroom, where it has been conducted intermittently since August, to the jurisdiction of United States Attorney Michael L. Igoe and the federal grand jury.

A short time later Mr. Igoe said that he will appear before the grand jury in person to present evidence involving James H. Benjamin, self-styled expert, concerning reorganization of corporations under section 77-B of the amended bankruptcy act. Any others who may have been involved in the enlisting of clients and "peddling" of bankruptcy cases to lawyers also will be investigated, Mr. Igoe said.

Another outcome of the investigation is to be an inquiry by the Chicago Bar association of the conduct of a dozen or more attorneys named before Judge Barnes, to ascertain whether they committed any offenses for which they may be disbarred.

Bar Has All Evidence.

Judge Barnes ordered some time ago that the bar association be furnished with a transcript of the evidence taken before him, but the association has withheld action until the judge finished his investigation.

Benjamin has been a promoter of various enterprises about Chicago since the time of the world war. Throughout Judge Barnes' inquiry he has been something of a mystery man, and his name has figured repeatedly in the testimony. Several lawyer witnesses said that Benjamin was promoting 77-B litigation, and offered them cases at a price of $300 each.

Among these was former Congressman Tom D. McKeown of Oklahoma, who now is practicing law in Chicago. McKeown, who aided in the drafting of the 77-B legislation, admitted in Judge Barnes' court that he paid Benjamin $700 for "professional services," and admitted attending a dinner in Benjamin's home which previously had been the subject of a session of the inquiry.

Benjamin Admits His Talent.

McKeown said that Benjamin had done "some research work" for him and had turned over to him "three or four" 77-B cases. He also said that Benjamin had made some suggestions for the 77-B legislation, a few of which were adopted.

Benjamin, himself a fluent but evasive witness on previous hearings before Judge Barnes and James C. Leaton, attorney who has acted as friend of the court, characterized himself as a man who helped draft the 77-B amendment.

Benjamin could not be found yesterday when Leaton sought to summon him for appearance.

Previously Benjamin had testified that he was graduated from a law school and passed the bar examination, but never applied to be admitted to practice. At the end of the hearing yesterday Judge Barnes asked Attorney Leaton for his recommendations.

"My recommendation," said Attorney Leaton, "is that Benjamin's actions have been such as reflected by the testimony and evidence before us, that he shouldn't escape with any summary process [citation for contempt of court]. The evidence shows that his activities were such as to bring the courts into disrepute. He has been contemptuous in his arrogance. He threatened one witness with physical violence.

"I think the evidence ought to be presented to the district attorney for action before the grand jury involving obstruction of justice, conspiracy, and also possibly indictments for perjury and contempt of court. As to the lawyers involved, I think the court has taken the proper course in referring their cases to the bar association."

"I think you are right," said Judge Barnes. "Mr. Igoe has already expressed his willingness to look into any possible violations of law."

Under the federal statutes governing contempt of court, a judge may take summary action to punish an offender, or the matter may be referred to the grand jury, on the indictment of which a charge of contempt of court is tried like any other criminal charge.

Hear a "Professional Creditor."

The testimony of the final witness of the hearing, Edward E. Cohn, 2120 Leland avenue, came close to giving a composite picture of the whole situation which Judge Barnes was investigating.

Cohn might be called a professional creditor in bankruptcy cases. He testified that in four cases he was a petitioning creditor in 77-B bankruptcy actions, and that in only one of these, that of the Middle West Utilities corporation, did he purchase at par the securities which gave him his standing in court. In the other cases, he said, he bought building bonds at less than 10 cents on the dollar.

Cohn testified that a friend, M. H. Harris, who also signed bankruptcy petitions as a creditor, called him to the office of Fred E. Busby, who has been active as a "reorganization manager" in various bankruptcies, and who was questioned at a previous hearing. In Busby's office they met Benjamin. Benjamin, Cohn said, took him and Harris to the office of Attorney Walter V. Fackler.

Fackler prepared the Middle West petition which Cohn and Harris signed. Later Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan became their counsel. Still later Attorney George Gannon entered the case. Gannon also testified yesterday and disclosed that Benjamin had told him of "an opportunity to associate myself with Mr. Sullivan." Gannon also said he had given Benjamin $3,250, of which $1,000 was paid during the present month. This, Gannon asserted, was for "technical services" rendered by Benjamin.

"Did you know of these various changes in counsel?" Judge Barnes asked Cohn.

"I knew of Mr. Sullivan entering the case," said Cohn, "but not about all this jiggling about."

The Press Agent Appears.

"No," said Cohn. "The first time I knew Gannon was representing me was one day when I went to a hearing of the case and saw him in court."

Gannon met Benjamin through Glenn E. Hayes, a press agent, Hayes testified. Hayes identified his business as "public relations" when he took the stand, and Judge Barnes demanded, "What's that?"

"Why, the term is self-explanatory," said Hayes, somewhat taken aback for the moment. "It's a profession developed in the last few years whereby a man is supposed to conduct an editorial and publicity office to serve his clients in behalf of the public."

"M-m-m-m," mused Judge Barnes. "To serve his clients in behalf of the public."

An Eleemosynary Institution.

Hayes testified that he met Benjamin through E. J. Costello, who worked for a time in his publicity office. Benjamin, he said, had a list of 30 or 40 bankruptcy cases from which Fackler was withdrawing, in which there was a chance for other attorneys to take Fackler's place as counsel.

In response to a question by Judge Barnes, Hayes said that he understood that attorneys who took the cases would have to give Benjamin $200 or $300 a case for "expenses." Gannon met Benjamin in his office, Hayes said.

"What did you expect to be paid?" Judge Barnes asked.

"Nothing," replied Hayes. "It was outside my regular work."

"In this, as in your other activities, you were a sort of eleemosynary institution?" the judge suggested.

"Well, I manage to get along," said Hayes.

PLAN TO DISPOSE OF TAX PROTESTS WITHIN 6 WEEKS

Emmett Whealan, member of the county board of tax appeals, said yesterday that he expects the board to complete disposition of the 9,682 complaints against the 1934 real estate tax assessments in about six weeks. With the appointment of Paul Drymalski as the other member of the board to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Fred Brummel consideration of complaints can be resumed. The board will start hearing complaints on Jan. 2.

Mr. Whealan already has held hearings on about 20 per cent of the complaints but no final ruling has been made as the law requires concurrence of both members of the board in reaching decisions.

FIVE POLICEMEN HURT IN ST. PAUL STRIKE FLAREUP

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Five policemen and a number of pickets suffered minor injuries in a renewal of violence at the Strutwear Knitting company plant today.

The plant has been closed and some of the equipment removed after a prolonged labor dispute. Workmen have been cleaning up the building, however, preparatory to a possible reopening. As the workmen left the plant late today, under police escort, a group of pickets charged, throwing stones.

In Court Today

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The "Christmas impulse" which assertedly led Ted Healy, stage and screen comedian, to break into the home of Marian W. "Bonnie" Bonnell, a dancer, and start a bonfire with the furniture, is due for a court airing tomorrow.

Healy is charged with suspicion of attempted arson.

"He came to my house, banged on the door, and demanded that I let him in," Miss Bonnell told police. "I fired one shot to warn him."

"After I fired the shot," she added, "he drove his hand through a glass door and opened it. He stormed into the house and while I screamed for help, he broke pieces of furniture into kindling size.

"He placed them in a stack on the stove and then added several expensive garments and some boxes. I ran for help. When I came back with the police and fire department, a huge fire was burning, but Healy was gone."

"Soft Shell" Church Marks 110 Years in Kentucky

Whitesburg, Ky., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The 110th birthday was celebrated in the Old Indian Bottom church at Blackey in this county, the old church—oldest in eastern Kentucky, having been established Christmas day, 1825, by Elder James Dixon with six members. The Rev. Dixon remained steadily as its pastor until his death. The church is known today as the "soft shell" prong of Baptists.

STUDENTS MASS IN CHINA; FIGHT 'JAP AGGRESSION'

BULLETIN.

KAIFENG, Honan, China, Dec. 27 (Friday).—(AP)—Railway communications throughout this province were thrown into confusion today when students rushed stations and demanded free transporation to Nanking to lodge protests against North China autonomy. Students of both sexes participated in the demonstrations. All standing trains throughout the province were filled by demonstrators who refused to vacate the coaches despite the pleas of authorities.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PEIPING, Dec. 26.—Thousands of students of North China, in secret meetings of representatives on Christmas day in Peiping, decided not only to continue but take a still firmer stand of resistance to "Japanese aggression."

This mobilization of strength further increased Chinese-Japanese tension and added to the worries of Chinese officials, who are struggling to check the anti-Japanese movement. They fear that Japanese troops intend to squelch the student demonstrations against Japan with force.

Warning to China.

Maj. Gen. Resuke Isogai, military attaché at the Japanese embassy in Shanghai, predicted serious effects would result from the Christmas day assassination of Tang Yu-Jen, pro-Japanese vice minister of Chinese railways.

"The murder was a result of Tang's efforts to normalize relations between China and Japan," he said.

A spokesman of the embassy said the assassination was "glaring evidence of anti-Japanese sentiment." Japanese military leaders stated the killing "throws a dark shadow over the future of Chinese-Japanese relations."

Martial law was ordered at both Shanghai and Nanking as a result of the shooting.

Vote to Resist Japan.

Before news of Tang's assassination reached Peiping students of Tsinghua university, which has a third of a century of history and tradition of free and independent education since its establishment on funds remitted by the United States from the Boxer indemnity fund, voted unanimously "to struggle against the disintegration of our fatherland, which no portion of our people wishes to see."

An eight page proclamation was issued. It summarized the program of resistance to Japan and explained the reasons for opposition to the Japanese fostered autonomy movement in North China. The statement said in part:

"The autonomy fostered by the Japanese war lords and pressed unscrupulously and shamelessly upon the Chinese government and leaders of North China menaces our territorial and administrative integrity. Hence the formation of the Hopei-Chahar autonomous council, regardless of its present nature, constitutes a decisive step towards the extinction of the Chinese republic."

Declaring the necessity for a united front, the students refrain from criticism of the central government. They focus their attention on the fundamental issues, hoping to cause authorities to take a firm stand against encroachment on China's national life.

Seeking to repudiate Japanese allegations of communistic affiliations, which are opposed by the majority, the students declare:

"Ours is the voice of the intellectual mass of the nation. We hope to call forth sympathetic interest in the United States and other occidental nations."

To expose the autonomy movement, the proclamation states that the Japanese have spent 1,500,000,000 yen [$432,000,000] in Manchukuo. The document says this "investment" is not yet paying returns.

Charges Military Plot.

"Therefore the army has decided to cut another vast area from China as compensation and outlet for further energy since five more provinces are the latest objective," the proclamation says.

"Here Japan is faced with two alternatives. The first is the use of force. The second is the creation of another puppet organization similar to Manchukuo, but since naked use of force has stirred world attention and is likely to precipitate Chinese resistance similar to the Shanghai and Great Wall battles, the Japanese have decided to use puppets, involving widespread intrigue and bribery.

Finally the students express gratification at the widespread response to their appeals and declare that general Chinese resentment is aroused.

"The whole nation has responded to our call, indicating that anti-Japanese feeling has flared up everywhere and China is preparing to struggle for her own salvation," the statement reads.

Autonomists Grab Railway.

Hundreds of armed guards, acting in the name of Gen. Sung Cheh-yuan, chairman of the Hopei-Chahar autonomous council, today seized the main office, including the properties, equipment and funds, of the Peiping-Mukden railway located in Tientsin.

At the same time Sung announced the appointment of Chen Chueh-shen as managing director, the object being to prevent the Nanking appointee, Yin Tung, who is now at Tsingtao, from returning and assuming office.

Nanking yesterday ordered Lu Meng-hsiung, vice director, to act pending the return of Yin Tung. Nanking also announced that the new railway minister, Chang Chiang-au, is coming to Peiping to adjust the issue, thus precipitating Peiping's first open defiance of the central government.

New Chief Born in Japan.

The new director, Chen Chueh-shen, although of Chinese blood, was born in Japan. Recently he served as an interpreter in Chinese-Japanese negotiations.

Immediately following his appointment, Chen called on Maj. Gen. Hayao Tada, commander of the Japanese army in North China.

Yin Ju-keng, head of the so-called East Hopei anti-communist autonomous council, which was organized by Maj. Gen. Kenji Doihara, Japanese special service officer, and has functioned independently of the demilitarized zone, announced that the name of his administration has been changed from "council" to "government."

Yin declared that he had seized for the government the salt monopoly revenues and would not permit Nanking central government banknotes to circulate in his district.

Condition Improves

The condition of Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago grain speculator who suffered a relapse yesterday in his suite at the Drake hotel after a month's illness at Passavant hospital, was reported much improved last evening by Dr. Arthur F. Byfield.

Dr. Byfield said Mr. Cutten, who received treatment for a heart ailment at Passavant, apparently reacted to the excitement of Christmas day and precautionary measures were taken. These included the supplying of an oxygen tank to be used if necessary.

The physician said Mr. Cutten was responding well to treatment and that his relapse did not mean his condition was worse than when he left the hospital Monday and was taken to the Drake.

JAP DIET TO VOTE ON BIGGEST WAR CHEST IN HISTORY

Mikado Opens Parliament Amid Great Pomp.

TOKIO, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The 68th session of the Japanese parliament, facing a vote on the largest defense appropriations in the history of the empire, was formally opened today.

Emperor Hirohito, in a scene resplendent with gold braid and ceremony, from a special dais in the house of peers, read the usual speech from the throne, admonishing his legislators to perform their duties faithfully.

Before him were gathered the cabinet and more than 800 members of the two houses of the imperial diet, as parliament is called. Many ambassadors and ministers of foreign powers were in the galleries.

Real Work Begins Jan. 21.

Real work of the session will not begin until Jan. 21, for tomorrow the houses will adjourn for the long New Year holidays.

Grants are expected to be voted to the army and navy totaling 1,060,000,000 yen, constituting 46.8 per cent of the total budget for 1936-'37, which is 2,271,000,000 yen, also a record. [The yen is currently quoted at 28.8 cents.] The majority of the legislators are imbued with a nationalistic spirit which looks on most of the world as potential enemies.

Foreign relations are expected to play a leading rôle in debates of the diet. The world naval situation and the London naval conference are almost sure to be exhaustively discussed.

The chief reason for the record naval appropriation in the new budget, 552,000,000 yen, is the determination of the navy ministry to have the fleet built entirely to the limits permitted by treaties some time in 1937, when the pacts will have lapsed.

Campaign on Continent Costly.

The army is demanding the largest appropriation in its history, 508,000,000 yen, to support its position on the Asiatic continent, in complete possession of Manchukuo and thrusting its pressure into North China.

Count Nobuaki Makino, a dominating figure in the imperial court and one of Emperor Hirohito's closest and most influential advisers, resigned today as lord keeper of the privy seal on grounds of ill health. Count Makino is 75 years old.

Count Makino pleaded growing infirmities in yielding his post, but political authorities recalled that militarists have long agitated for his replacement, objecting to the presence of a statesman of Makino's liberal views so close to the throne.

When a group of ultra-patriots killed Premier Tsuyoshi Inukai May 15, 1932, Count Makino also was marked for assassination, but he escaped safely from an attack on his residence.

JAPAN FORBIDS PRESS TO PUBLISH CARTOONS OF CHIEFS OF STATES

[Copyright, 1935, By the New York Times.]

TOKIO, Dec. 26.—As a sequel to the Vanity Fair affair, the home office has requested all Japanese newspapers and magazines to refrain in the future from publishing caricatures of the chiefs of states.

The circular originated, according to the press, in representations made by the German embassy here against cartoons of Reichsfuehrer Hitler which the embassy pointed out affronted the honor and pride of the German people.

Editors are discontented with the official action, which restricts the cartoonists' field. They point out active politicians in the fighting arena have not the same reason to be protected as the Japanese emperor, who does not mix in politics.

URUGUAY TO ASK SOVIET MINISTER TO QUIT COUNTRY

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay, Dec. 27 [Friday].—(AP)—The government, it was learned from an authoritative source early today, has decided to ask Soviet Minister Alexander Minkin to leave the country. Officials have ordered precautionary measures because of a rumored possible armed revolt.

The soviet minister will be handed his passport because of "ramifications" of the recent extremist uprising in Brazil, it was stated in informed circles.

Despite denials of precautions by the government motor cars and trains leaving and entering Montevideo are being closely watched, while troops have tightened their supervision of the Brazilian and Argentine borders.

Montevideo police raided the homes of several oppositionists, but found nothing to confirm the rumors. Even government supporters apparently have been under surveillance, it being reported that the houses of two of them were raided and that one was arrested and later released.

HIT BY MYSTERY BULLET WHILE IN BARN; DEAD

Willow Springs county highway police last night started an investigation of the death of Herman Heersma, 39 years old, 9323 South 56th avenue, Willow Springs. Heersma's wife found him lying unconscious at the foot of a ladder in their barn last Tuesday noon. She thought he had injured himself on a nail and phoned Dr. E. G. Schuffler of Oak Lawn.

Heersma was taken to the Little Company of Mary hospital, where a small wound was found on his forehead. Dr. Schuffler told the county highway police last night an X-ray had been taken because Heersma was on relief and had no money to pay for an X-ray. Late yesterday, however, when Heersma's condition had become worse his brother-in-law called at the hospital and guaranteed payment of the X-ray costs, the police said they were told.

The X-ray pictures showed a .22 caliber bullet was lodged in the patient's brain. He died, however, before an operation could be performed. The police said they examined the barn and found several fresh bullet holes. The police said they believed Heersma was shot by a boy using the barn as a target.

Fire Necessitates Detour of Michigan Ave. Trafic

Flames originating in the basement last night damaged the Parkway Tea room at the southeast corner of Superior street and Michigan avenue. Firemen were forced to thaw out water plugs before they could get pressure and were handicapped by dense smoke. Trafic in Michigan avenue was detoured for more than an hour while the fire raged. The damage was estimated at $10,000.

Benzine Blast in Rockford Home Critically Burns Man

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Alfred Wilcox, 30, was perhaps fatally burned tonight when benzine which he was using to bring out watermarks on his stamp collection exploded at his home. Fire which followed the explosion was extinguished by Mrs. Wilcox and John McDowell, a roomer at their home. The clothing was burned from Wilcox's body and at a hospital doctors said he would die.

CHOOSE STYLES THAT FIT IN WITH THE HOLIDAY DAYTIME ROUND

We have made it a point to select dresses that will not only see you smartly through the holidays, but will keep an important place in daytime fashion for months to come.

The dressy black-and-white frock is the life of a midseason wardrobe. The white pleated jabot may be replaced by other accents. 12 to 20. (Above.) $29.75.

Sunburst tucking gives a dressy touch to this crepe tunic frock, and two clips drape the neckline to one side. Two-tone gray or two-tone blue. 14 to 20. (Above.) $29.75.

Marquisette sleeves put this frock in the "informal dinner" category—but its street length makes it appropriate for less dressy occasions, too. Note the draped front fullness. In black or blue. 36 to 42. (Shown in the center panel.) $29.75.

For the young woman who wears one of the larger misses' sizes—16 to 22—this dress is especially designed. It gives you that well-groomed look, without being the least bit prim. In black or navy crepe, with smart tucking detail, and a white collar and flower. (At left.) $29.75.

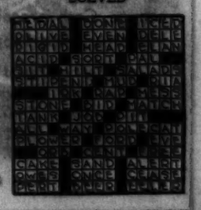
YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE SOLVED



4 OFFICERS DIE IN FIRE AT CCC CAMP; 2 BURNED

Army Officials Press Inquiry Into Blaze.

Waterbury, Vt., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The death toll of a fire which early today destroyed the officers' quarters at a Civilian Conservation corps camp here rose to four tonight when Lieut. Charles H. Brooks succumbed to burns. Three officers perished in the flames that destroyed the wooden building.

Lieut. Brooks of Northfield, died at Heaton hospital, Montpelier.

The fire was believed tonight to have been caused by an overheated stove or an explosion of coal gas. It was discovered by Lieut. Sylvester M. Parshley, who, with Lieut. Robert Crane, dragged Brooks, shrieking with pain, from the building. Parshley was seriously burned. Another officer burned was Lieut. Charles Howard.

Officers Press Inquiry.

His screams awoke other officers, many of whom jumped through windows to safety.

Army officers tonight pressed an inquiry into the tragedy.

The three officers who burned to death in the blaze were Capt. Roland D. Potter, 52, Northfield, former football and athletic coach and director of athletics at Norwich university; Capt. Edwin W. Boothby, 37, of Watertown, Mass., assistant inspector of CCC camps in the New England area, and Lieut. Leonard B. Bushey, 26, of Concord, N. H.

All were reserve officers in the army. Capt. Boothby was married only a month ago.

The fire rapidly swept through the long L shaped, one story building. Tar paper roofing fed the flames and lessened the time the men had to escape. The bitter cold prevailing at the time added to the victims' misery as they leaped from their beds and fled with whatever pieces of clothing were handy.

Majority on Leave.

Tonight Lieut. Col. Henry G. McLean, commanding the camp, appointed Maj. J. W. D. Stevens to head a board of inquiry. One unofficial theory was that a coal gas explosion started the fire.

The camp's usual force numbers 2,100 veterans and 46 officers, but most of the men were away for the holidays. Lack of their aid prevented any early attempt to extinguish the flames if that had been possible.

NEW YEAR'S EVE TAVERN CLOSING? MAYOR SMILES

New Year's eve celebrants in the city and county can have all the "innocent fun" they want and will encounter no police interference unless they violate the law. This was announced yesterday by city and county officials, who indicated that the 1 a. m. closing hour ordinance for taverns and bars will be waived to allow the coming of the new year to be observed in traditional manner.

Mayor Kelly was asked whether he would make a statement regarding the closing hours.

"Do I have to make an announcement?" he grinned.

Supervising police captains will confer Monday with Capt. John Prendergast, chief of the uniformed police, on how strict the surveillance of cafés and taverns will be. The captains will be asked to furnish lists of places where trouble may be expected New Year's eve.

Sherif Toman said the county highway police "won't push any citizen around."

MISSPELLS BUT 3 WORDS IN LIST OF 200; WINS MEDAL

Boy, 14, Hurdles Twisters That Stump Teachers.

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Winning five of the first six places, boys outranked the girls at the state grade school spelling contest today, although outnumbered 40 to 12.

Dana Stewart, 14 years old, of Peoria county, won the championship with a brilliant record of 197 correct words out of 200. Lavern Frank, 13, a girl of Paxton, Ford county, and Vincent Wasilewski, 12, Cantrall, Sangamon county, tied for second place with 191 words correct. Miss Frank was given second place after spelling a runoff list.

Several missed half the words, but only three tripped up Dana, a curly haired blond who attends a rural school. He started "jeremiad" with a "g," put only one "l" in "emollient," and misunderstood "magnetize," writing instead "magnifies."

Is Awarded Gold Medal.

Dana is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank S. Stewart. He was awarded a gold medal by John A. Weiland, state superintendent of public instruction.

The order in which winners placed, with the number of correct words on the 200 list, follows:

Second—La Vern Frank, 13 years old, of Paxton, Ford county, 191 words correct.

Third—Vincent Wasilewski, 12, of Cantrall, Sangamon county, 191.

Fifth—Robert Malone of Saline county, 186.

Teachers Stumped, Too.

Many of the words stumped teachers who graded papers. Some of those frequently misspelled by the grade school children were: homogeneous, calligraphy, intaglio, meringue, kinetoscope, candelabrum, ferrule, cyclorama, mausoleum, insatiable, hemorrhage, gyroscope, solitaire, and effrontery.

Last year's winner, Bruce Ackerman, 14 years old, of Tazewell county, was an interested spectator, but he was not permitted to defend his title. Officials decided to bar former champions.

U. S. FLYERS TO BOMB MAUNA LOA TODAY TO SAVE HILO FROM LAVA

HILO, Hawaii, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Army aviators decided tonight to bomb Mauna Loa volcano and its huge lava stream, now advancing rapidly toward Hilo. Seeking to change the course of the eruption and save Hilo's water supply, 12 fighting planes flew here from Honolulu to launch the attack tomorrow, weather permitting.

A 600 foot channel of molten rock coursing down Mauna Loa is within 15 miles of this city of 20,000. Hilo was not threatened directly but the blazing river was within five miles of the Waikoloa ponds, source of Hilo's water.

In the last four days the lava stream has advanced at the rate of 1½ miles a day. At that rate it would reach the city limits in ten days. Experts said, however, the flat areas lying between the lava head and Hilo doubtless would stop it. Should the molten rock reach the other five miles to the Waikoloa ponds, its extreme heat would convert the water into steam. It might also surge on to the Wailuku river, dry up the stream and roll down the river bed into Hilo.

COTTON CONTROL PERIL TO STOCK, DAIRY MARKETS

Planters Put "Rented" Land to Other Uses.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Memphis, Tenn., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—One criticism of the New Deal widely heard in the south is that the Bankhead cotton control not only operates against the "little fellow"—the cropper and tenant farmer—but that it also is likely to reduce a market for feedstuffs, live stock, and dairy products from the north and west. Some of the cotton acres for which the New Deal is paying the owner rentals for not growing cotton have been put to other uses.

This phase of complaint that the brain trust was disrupting agriculture in general was heard soon after the Bankhead act went into effect, and in the last year it has been increasing in volume. Friends of the AAA themselves shake their heads vaguely as they admit cotton raisers are using large areas of "government rent land" in producing stuffs formerly shipped in, and they counter with the remark that it means a saving of "unnecessary transportation," an argument that means less employment on the railroads.

Fear for Market Setup.

At the same time, in Alabama and Georgia, one hears cotton growers expressing fear that the loss of foreign markets under the Bankhead cotton reduction eventually may disrupt the domestic cotton market setup. They argue that Texas and Oklahoma, where production costs are low and where much of the cotton has been selling abroad, may increase as competitors of the eastern cotton states. This criticism is widespread in centers such as Montgomery and Atlanta.

For years the word has been dinned into the ears of the southern farmer that he must diversify. In some sections this change in agriculture has grown apace, in Tennessee, Georgia and other states. It has been stimulated in the last year by the great area of "rented land" taken out of cotton production, estimated by the trade at 15 million acres, more or less.

Products of the "rent land" on which the owner gets a subsidy for not growing cotton can be used on the farm where grown, and farmers have been using them to bring up their live stock and dairy herds. One Texas publication is quoted in the cotton trade, which pointed out that some Texas planters have grown corn on their "idle land," the corn this year, because of drouth, being fed to Kansas cattle. The next step, the trade argues, would be for Texas to go more largely into the meat packing industry on its own account, with the advantage of water haul for its meat products.

Small Farmer Complains.

Meanwhile many a small farm owner who went in for "self-sustaining" farming before the Bankhead act was dreamed of is raising complaints that his cotton crop, upon which he depended for cash income, has been reduced by the commissars more than has the acreage of the single crop cotton growing large landlord.

In Tennessee the rent checks and the doles, local observers report, are relied on by the New Deal to outweigh all the criticisms. Up to Sept. 30 processing and related taxes collected in Tennessee were $12,801,000, while total rental and benefit payments were $16,073,000.

In May, last official figures at hand, 81,545 cases were on federal relief at an average of $15.10 per family per month. The total load was 364,389 persons, or 14 per cent of the state's population, which was about the same percentage prevailing in Illinois in August.

Farm Value Increases.

The AAA has just reported that the value of crops and live stock on Tennessee's 273,783 farms for 1935 was 165 million dollars, an increase of 20 million over 1934.

The AAA paid $6,868,532 to 121,272 farmers, according to the report, for participating in the 1935 crop adjustment program. Corn was worth more than cotton, the 1935 corn crop being valued at 37 million dollars, cotton 24 million dollars, tobacco 17 millions.

The rental checks, the doles, the golden stream of easy money pouring into eastern Tennessee through the hydrants of the Tennessee Valley authority, headquarters in Knoxville, have put the state in shape politically for the New Deal, observers affirm.

Memphis Business Brisk.

Business in Memphis this week appears to have been brisk, with stores and streets crowded with shoppers the day before Christmas. But even among the recipients of "rent checks" the traveler runs into a current of criticism similar to that voiced by share croppers and small tenant farmers. In the hotel lobby a planter from the Mississippi delta commented on the AAA and its experiments.

"Sum it up," he said, "and what have we to date? The AAA reduces cotton acreage, and the landlord gets a check for idle land, while a lot of croppers and field hands go on the dole. Somebody will have to pay the fiddler for the rent checks and the doles. We're losing our foreign markets. The brain trust still is running things. Remember Mr. Roosevelt when he went in said the way to recovery would be experimental, and that as fast as one remedy was found faulty it would be kicked out. Well, we've been waiting for the President to give the gate to the brain trust, and we're still waiting:

"Let me read some figures [he pulled out a clipping]: 'For 30 years the average price of cotton has been 16.70 cents a pound; for 40 years the average has been 15.33 cents; for 50 years it has been 13.90 cents; for 60 years the average has been 14.67 cents. Now cotton is 12 cents a pound, and the dollar is worth only 60 cents.' Seems to me we were better off before we were Russianized."

Relief Commission Answers Client's Charge of Politics

The recent charge of George Boyd, 1951 Congress street, a Republican, that a relief worker told him to "see the Democratic precinct captain" brought a detailed denial and report on the case from the Illinois Emergency Relief commission yesterday. Boyd first made his statement Dec. 17 before Municipal Judge Joseph B. Hermes, a Democrat, who fined him $100 for causing a disturbance in a relief station.

Boyd declared that when he tried to get his relief order increased on Dec. 16, "Mr. Shuley who has charge of the distributing section" at the Main station, 739 South Winchester avenue, took him to one side and told him to see his Democratic precinct captain. Boyd said he refused because he was a Republican and a quarrel and fist fight ensued.

Efforts to Calm Client.

The IERC's report identifies "Mr. Shuley" as A. C. Schutte, head relief clerk. It says that Schutte merely tried to calm Boyd when the latter attempted to break through a washroom door to get to the second floor of the station.

"Mr. Schutte has never discussed Mr. Boyd's political affiliations with him," the report said, "and, moreover, is not in a position to talk to him, inasmuch as the head relief clerk does not come in contact with our relief clients. It would also seem useless inasmuch as Boyd is a transient and, therefore, not voting in Chicago.

"The Boyd family, including his wife and their six months' old child, was accepted by the transient service Nov. 24, 1933, and was referred to the Main district station on Oct. 3, 1934. The family had been traveling through Washington, Texas, Oklahoma, and Georgia, and no legal residence had been established.

Family Given Total of $722.

"During the time the family has been known to this office, they have received $480 in direct relief. In addition to this, they received $242 during his employment on work relief, from December, 1934, to April, 1935."

Boyd received a Works Progress administration assignment last month and at first refused to accept it on grounds that it would be dangerous to his health, according to the IERC report. Later the IERC decided it would be "unwise to force Boyd to accept his work assignment" and he was allowed to continue on direct relief.

Judge Hermes yesterday denied Boyd's statement that he [Judge Hermes] had asked Boyd why he did not follow the relief worker's alleged suggestion that he see the Democratic precinct committeeman.

Adrienne Ames Recovers $10,000 Gems at Airport

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Adrienne Ames, society movie and stage star, today recovered a $9,500 cut emerald and a $500 guard ring which she missed shortly after her TWA airliner hopped off from Pittsburgh, on its way from Hollywood to New York. Radio calls from the plane to the Pittsburgh airport located the missing rings in a washroom.

Cabaret Stagehand Killed by 100 Pound Iron Weight

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Harry Silverman, 45, a stagehand at the French Casino cabaret, was killed tonight when a 100 pound iron weight became loosened from the rope to which it was fastened and fell on his head. The audience was unaware of the accident.

INQUEST OVER 14 IN BUS PLUNGE LASTS HALF HOUR

Hopewell, Va., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The inquest and formal hearing of the bus tragedy which claimed 14 lives in the icy waters of the Appomattox river Sunday lasted only thirty minutes today. No decision was reached.

Capt. Ben Alexander of the tug Stanley, which was preparing to pull a barge through the open draw bridge when the big Greyhound bus hurtled through the guard gate and into the 30 foot channel, testified that the bus was traveling at "good speed."

YOUNG REPUBLICANS WANT GOV. LANDON TO ADDRESS THEM IN EAST

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—A New York delegation of young Republicans departed tonight for Kansas City to invite Gov. Alf. M. Landon, presidential possibility, to address an eastern rally of their party.

David W. Peck, president of the New York Young Republican club, headed the delegation.

"We merely are inviting Gov. Landon as one of a number of possible candidates for the Republican presidential nomination to come east and address us," Peck said. "Our invitation does not indicate any partiality."

Others in the party were George H. Sibley, former president of the New York State Association of Young Republican clubs, and Alexander Hamilton, member of the New York club's board of governors.

DOG AND CAT SET TENEMENT AFIRE; EIGHT RESCUED

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—A 70 year old woman and her grandson, both of whom were about to leap from a third floor window of a tenement in Brooklyn, were among eight persons rescued today during a fire caused by the playful antics of a cat and a dog.

The fire started in the fourth floor apartment of William O'Brien, who with his wife and two children were out of the building at the time. They had left a kerosene oil heater in the middle of the parlor floor. The dog and the cat, left behind, were found burned to death under the charred remains of the Christmas tree, a few feet from the overturned heater.

MRS. BAUR SEEKS CONGRESS SEAT IN 9TH DISTRICT

Announces Indorsements of Ward Leaders.

Mrs. Bertha Baur, Republican national committeewoman for Illinois, yesterday announced her candidacy for the nomination for congress from the Ninth district. The announcement was made from her home at 1511 Astor street, as well as from the Woman's National Republican club of Chicago.

MRS. BERTHA BAUR

It was stated that Mrs. Baur has been indorsed as a candidate by Committeemen Charles E. Peace of the Forty-second ward, James B. Waller of the Forty-third, Robert W. Dunn of the Forty-fourth, and Oscar F. Nelson of the Forty-sixth.

Leader in Many Affairs.

Mrs. Baur has long been a figure in the social, business, and political world. She is the widow of Jacob Baur, founder of the Liquid Carbonic company, from whom she inherited millions. As Bertha Duppler she came to Chicago from Indiana to be secretary to Postmaster Charles U. Gordon. She held this place under three succeeding postmasters and studied law. She was married to Mr. Baur in 1908 and after his death in 1912 carried on much of the business.

Mrs. Baur has been an aspirant for congress before. In 1926 she was defeated by Congressman Fred A. Britten after a colorful campaign. She has been Republican national committeewoman for Illinois for many years and has made an effort to educate women along political lines.

Her Advice to Women.

Her approach is practical, as may be seen by her advice to women at a political meeting:

"Unless you have power you have no value in politics. You can't have power unless you are able to get out a full vote. The only way to do that is to know your precinct and go to work in it. The complaint against practical politics is old stuff. If you want to progress you've got to like your ward committeeman. And don't think he is not smart, because he is."

In a recent booklet which Mrs. Baur issued to guide young Republican voters she made this part of her platform:

"If relief is coming from our tax burden it must come from congress. To check the Democratic spending it is absolutely imperative to increase the Republican membership in both house and senate.

One Platform, the Constitution.

"The Republicans of today have but one platform, the constitution. The Republican party will reëstablish itself by going forward with the constitution."

Water Pipe Bursts, Home in Highland Park Flooded

Police discovered a broken water pipe and a flood yesterday in the home of R. L. Sandwik, 611 Lincoln avenue, Highland Park, superintendent of the Deerfield-Shields High school, who is in Florida with his family. Water flowing from the break on the second floor had run through the entire house and had frozen, the police found. They reported the furnishings in the house, valued at several thousand dollars, had been ruined.

THREAT OF CRISIS ON RELIEF TO BE ATTACKED TODAY

$2,400,000 Shortage Faced in January.

New figures showing the need for an estimated $2,400,000 of additional relief funds in January will be presented to the Illinois Emergency Relief commission when it meets today to consider the threatened relief crisis. No word has been received as to the fate of Gov. Horner's plea to President Roosevelt last Monday for $10,000,000 to supplement the state's available relief funds during the next four months.

It was reported there was little change in previous estimates that the IERC will have to support 130,000 families next month at a cost of $5,200,000, although the latest official information was being held up until the commission meets.

U. S. Relief Ends This Month.

There is no federal relief grant provided for Illinois after this month and the state is prepared to furnish only $2,000,000 from the sales and utility taxes. The IERC is attempting to save about $800,000 out of its December funds to help bridge the gap.

A report on the operations of cash relief in Cook county also was being prepared for the commission, for use in considering whether this form of relief shall be continued with state funds after federal funds have been exhausted.

Several members of the commission at last week's meeting opposed the distribution of cash instead of grocery orders, indicating they would vote against its perpetuation and extension throughout the state. It was charged that cash relief costs 15 per cent more than commodity relief, and that some relief clients have bought liquor with the amounts given them for milk.

Continues Eviction Cases.

Eviction cases involving about 75 families who draw their support from the IERC or the Works Progress administration were heard yesterday by Judge N. J. Bonelli in the Renters' court. Continuances of 14 days were granted in all the cases except one in the belief that all the defendants will receive IERC or WPA checks in this period so they can pay their rent.

Judge Bonelli signed a five day eviction notice against Charles Gibbs, colored, 3147 Calumet avenue, when Gibbs said he had quit work on a WPA project because "it was too cold to work." Gibbs also testified that he was unable to pay his $9 a month rent out of the $55 WPA salary.

All WPA workers employed on unsheltered projects were excused from duty yesterday because of the severe cold.

HOFFMAN DENIES PLAN 'AT PRESENT' TO GRANT HAUPTMANN REPRIEVE

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Gov. Hoffman "at the present time has no plan in mind" to grant a reprieve to Bruno Richard Hauptmann should the Court of Pardons refuse clemency, it was said today in the governor's behalf by William Conklin, his press representative.

The Court of Pardons, which has power only to commute the death sentence, is expected to meet next week. Hauptmann has been resentenced to die during the week of Jan. 13.

Gov. Hoffman, who has the legal right to grant one or more reprieves as long as the total days do not exceed ninety, said previously that the published report he was contemplating a reprieve was "unauthorized."

The Lindberghs spent a stormy Christmas in midocean on the steamship American Importer, on which they are the only passengers. Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh had a tree for their infant son, Jon, but were forced by the rough sea to remain below deck. Their ship, which was scheduled to dock in Liverpool next Monday, may be two days late in reaching its destination.

SEES EXILE AS COURSE OF MANY ERE CRIME ENDS

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Other prominent Americans will follow the example of the Lindberghs and leave their country before the United States takes the steps necessary to suppress racketeering, Robert Daru predicted today.

Daru was special counsel to the United States senate committee on racketeering.

"No complete solution for the problem will be possible unless public opinion becomes so aroused that drastic steps will be acceptable and adherence to the traditional states' rights theory less rigid," he said.

"This is bound to come from a growing awareness of the serious consequences facing the country."

Daru said that local attacks on racketeering such as that being made in Manhattan by Thomas E. Dewey only drive the gangsters to other parts of the country.

4 BANK ROBBERS GET $3,000 LOOT IN GUN BATTLE

Columbiana, O., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Blasts of lead from a machine gun and a riot gun endangered the lives of Columbiana residents today when four bandits covered their escape with a volley of bullets after robbing the Union Banking company of loot estimated at $3,000.

While the robbery was in progress Tracy Tidd, proprietor of a store across the street from the bank, blazed away at the gang's lookout with a riot gun from his second story window.

The lookout turned a machine gun on the window. Tidd said about 40 bullets pierced the glass. A moment later the bandits leaped into their machine, fired a final burst from their gun, and fled. Some observers said a woman was in the automobile.

KILLED CLEANING SHOTGUN.

Joseph Morrison, 39 years old, was killed last night when the shotgun he was cleaning was accidentally discharged in the basement of his home at 43 North Lewis avenue, Waukegan.

LOCATIONS OF 14 VOCATION STUDY CLASSES CHOSEN

Locations of the first 14 Chicago classes in the state wide occupational guidance program of the National Youth administration were announced by the NYA offices here yesterday. Although intended primarily for youths between the ages of 16 and 25, the classes will also be open to older unemployed persons, according to C. Myers Bardine, assistant state director of the NYA, who will be in charge of the program.

When fully operative, the program will sponsor 100 classes in Chicago and 150 more scattered throughout the remainder of Illinois. They will accommodate 20,000 job seekers who want to look into the requirements of various vocations and the opportunities offered by each.

Job Service to Be Provided.

The NYA students will also be given use of a new job counseling service which is being developed by the Illinois state employment bureau in coöperation with the NYA. Here tests will be available to help the students determine whether they have the qualifications required for a specific line of work.

"It is planned through these classes to tell the youth of Illinois what vocations are overcrowded and which ones offer the best opportunities for employment," said William J. Campbell, state NYA director. "Students will be taught what the minimum educational requirements are, what the income expectancy will be, what promotional possibilities they may expect, and what the pension or security possibilities are in various occupations."

Where Classes Will Be Held.

Eckhart park, 1400 Chicago avenue.
Garfield park fieldhouse, 100 North Central Park avenue.
Eugene Field park, 5100 North Ridgeway avenue.
Holstein park, 2200 North Oakley boulevard.
Stanford park, 658 West 14th street.
Hull house, 800 South Halsted street.
Gage park, 55th street and Western avenue.
Goodwill community center, 3334 South Paulina street.
South Side Y. M. C. A., 3039 East 91st street.
Olivet institute, 1441 North Cleveland avenue.
Blackhawk park, Lavergne and Belden avenues.
Illinois Club for Catholic Women, 111 East Pearson street.

In Chicago, the average class will comprise 40 students, meeting twice weekly. The first classes for girls will take up the study of the possibilities in the garment trades. The first boys' classes will consider machine shop trades.

Additional classes will begin as rapidly as teachers are available from eligible sources.

Let Contracts for U. of I. Dental-Medical Building

Contracts have been let for construction of the new medical and dental laboratories building of the University of Illinois at the southwest corner of Polk and Wood streets, it was announced yesterday. The contractors are J. W. Snyder & Co., 307 North Michigan avenue. The plans were drawn by the architectural firm of Granger & Bollenbacher, 333 North Michigan avenue. The building will be in Gothic style, the main part rising nine stories. The structure is being financed from a federal grant of $1,220,000, 30 per cent of which is an outright gift and the remaining 70 per cent a loan.

Pledges Fight on New Deal

FEDERAL JUDGE RULES ALCOHOL CONTROL VALID

Peoria, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The Federal Alcohol administration act creating the New Deal agency for regulating the liquor industry was held constitutional today by Federal Judge Charles G. Briggle in a test case brought by Fort Clark Distilleries, Inc., of Peoria.

"An act of congress," Judge Briggle declared, "is entitled to the presumption of validity and should not be declared unconstitutional unless the court is impelled to do so for the most convincing reasons."

Counsel for the rectifying concern, I. S. Rubelle, in his fight against an order that closed the Peoria plant last month, argued that the New Deal act invaded state rights over intrastate business and deprived his client of due process of law.

He maintained that some provisions of the act were almost duplicates of regulations set up by the NRA code invalidated by the Supreme court.

Judge Briggle's decision said:

"The former objections to the wrongful delegation of legislative authority with reference to the so-called 'code' provisions now has been obviated by this act, and while the plaintiff's position in some other respects is not without merit, yet the court is not convinced that sufficient doubt exists as to the constitutionality of the act to warant the court in granting a temporary injunction."

Judge Briggle denied the plea for an injunction to force the administration temporarily to retract its decision on the application for a basic permit and dismissed defendants Franklin Hoyt, administrator, and Stewart Berkshire, deputy commissioner of internal revenue, because their residence is outside the jurisdiction of this district.

The Fort Clark plant, employing about 30 persons at one time, still is closed. The alcohol administration closed the distillery, asserting it held no basic permit at the time the old code was outlawed by the Supreme court. The company held it did hold such a permit and applied for a new one.

Record Number of Narcotic Trafic Convictions Claimed

With 474 narcotic sellers and addicts serving prison sentences aggregating 1,506 years as the result of government prosecutions during 1935, Mrs. Elizabeth Bass, director of the federal bureau of narcotics for the Chicago area, announced yesterday that the figures established a high record for convictions which has not been equaled here since the enactment of the Harrison anti-narcotic act.

Fights New Deal

Former United States Senator James A. Reed of Kansas City, Mo., spent a few hours in Chicago yesterday on his way to Washington, D. C., to attend the funeral of his former secretary, Hicklin Yates. Mr. Reed said that he intended to do all that he could in the coming campaign "to defeat President Roosevelt's attempt to rape the constitution."

"The real issue," he declared, "is not between Democrats and Republicans, but the preservation of Americanism and the constitution of the United States."

Asked if he intended to desert the Democratic party, Mr. Reed said:

"I am for any one who is for Americanism and the constitution. The policies being carried out in Washington are not Democratic, and they are not American. They are bolshevistic, socialistic, communistic."

"If I have to choose between a Republican who stands for the constitution and an alleged Democrat who proposes to destroy all that has been created in the past, I shall vote for the Republican. In so voting I shall continue to be a real Democrat. My democracy shall not be taken away by any one man or group of men who have attained office by posing as Democrats and who have turned out to be enemies of all the Democratic party has advocated in the past and which the real Democrats of the United States still cherish."

JAMES A. REED LOSES IN SUIT FOR OIL FEES

Sioux Falls, S. D., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Federal Judge Lee A. Wyman, in a decision on file in District court here today, sustained a demurrer by the Universal Oil Products company in the million dollar suit for attorney's fees brought by former Senator James A. Reed of Missouri.

Judge Wyman ruled that the contract between the former senator and the oil company, a South Dakota corporation, was so implied in character that it was impossible of enforcement in accordance with Reed's demands.

Litigation in the suit goes back to 1916 when the Universal company brought action against the Standard Oil Company of Indiana alleging infringement of patents for "cracking" petroleum. Reed and a number of other attorneys were employed to prosecute the suit.

Universal won the suit, receiving approximately $35,000,000 from the Standard Oil company. Reed contended his contract called for "large and liberal compensation" if the suit were successful.

PENSIONS CLOUD RESTORATION OF COUNTY PAY CUTS

"Social Security" Costs Not Included in Budget.

The county board, its president, Clayton F. Smith, said yesterday, may have to elliminate from its tentative 1936 budget a provision for restoration of half of the 15 per cent pay cut which has been in effect for county employés since 1932. The board's finance committee early this month approved the restoration.

Smith pointed out, however, that the budget does not contain any appropriation for administration of the new Illinois old age pension measure recently passed by the legislature. He said that if the board has to appropriate for one-half of the cost of administering pensions in the county, as the state measure provides, the pay restoration may have to be dropped "to keep proposed expenditures within anticipated revenues."

Depends On Amendment's Fate.

He disclosed that an amendment to the old age pensions measure which would require the state to bear the full cost of administering the act during the first two years has been prepared following conferences with legislative leaders in Springfield.

The amendment will be introduced, Smith said, when the legislature convenes early next month. Unless the amendment is adopted, however, the county will have to appropriate about $250,000 in 1936 for this purpose, he pointed out. The cost of the pay raise for county employés would be more than $300,000, according to county officials.

Reports on Job Classification.

Mr. Smith stated that work on a plan for the reclassification of county employés is "progressing definitly," but that it is improbable that it can be completed in time for inclusion in the 1936 budget. He estimated that another three months will be required to complete the plan. The reclassification proposal, introduced more than a year ago by County Commissioner H. Wallace Caldwell and unanimously adopted by the board, would reduce the present 350 job titles in the county service to less than 100.

Smith held that a reclassification would not permit immediate reductions in the county pay roll.

"The chief purpose would be to provide better control over positions and salaries in the future," he said.

Two Tenant Farmers Shot to Death in Mystery Duel

Spartanburg, S. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Two tenant farmers were shot to death 15 miles north of here today in what Sheriff Sam M. Henry described as a duel, the cause of which was obscure. Robert Eugene Masters and Fred Berry, residents of the Gramin section, were the victims.

MARION HEPBURN.
[Acme Photo.]

Marion Hepburn, 17 years old, of Hartford, Conn., sister of Katharine Hepburn, the actress, and a friend, Miss Lois Warren Shaw of Boston, are spending two months at Hull House as volunteer social service workers, it was learned yesterday. They arrived last Friday to begin the work, which is part of their course at Bennington college, Bennington, Vt. Marion, the youngest of six children, bears some resemblance to her famous sister. She said she liked the experience at Hull House, but didn't think she would make a career of social service.

Ask 2 Be Held to Jury for Christmas Death

A verdict of manslaughter with a recommendation that Charles Kidrowski and Walter Dugan, both of 1956 Hervey street, be held to the grand jury, was returned yesterday by a coroner's jury investigating the death on Christmas morning of William Kamradt, 51 years old, 1452 North Western avenue. Kamradt was found dead of a skull fracture at 2136 North Winchester avenue. Kidrowski testified that the three men had been drinking and engaged in a quarrel, but no witness recalled that Kamradt had been struck.

ROSPIGLIOSI IN MIAMI ROW; HIS EX-WIFE HELPS

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Although Marian Snowden has divorced him, Prince Girolamo Rospigliosi says he and the oil heiress "remain the best of friends."

In proof thereof the nobleman cited the fact she telephoned him Christmas day and "offered to help" when he was arrested on a disorderly conduct charge after hurling a water glass which struck a photographer.

The photographer found him with friends in a Miami beach tavern and sought to snap him, he said, without due notice.

"Unfortunately, the glass struck him," Rospigliosi added. "That was an accident. I didn't intend to hit him, but only to prevent the picture from being taken until I was ready."

Two Army Privates Killed in Cavein of Gravel Pit

TEACHER URGES 'REGIONAL' FORM OF GOVERNMENT

Would Divide U. S. Into Ten Areas.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 26.—(AP)—A "regional" form of government for the nation was proposed today before the Southern Political Science association, which also heard the policies of Gov. Eugene Talmadge and the late Senator Huey P. Long branded as "Fascistic."

Dr. J. W. Manning of the University of Kentucky, association president, proposed the regional government, largely to supersede the sovereignty of individual states.

His proposal followed a discussion of the acts of the Georgia governor and the late Louisiana political "dictator" by Prof. H. C. Nixon of Tulane university, who said the administrations of both fell in the category of Fascism, but that Talmadge was "more Fascistic than Long."

Visions 10 Regions.

Dr. Manning said that on major issues the country may be divided into ten more or less definite regions—New England, the middle Atlantic, central, north central, west central, upper south Atlantic, south central, lower south, Rocky mountains, and the Pacific.

"The simplest yet most difficult plan for regional government in the United States," he said, "would be the complete destruction of states as such and the setting up of as many regions as common culture, tradition, and ecenomy suggest."

Would Require "Radical Changes."

This, he said, would require "radical changes in the constitution."

Discussing a method of procedure "under the 'compact' clause of the constitution," he said:

"Another possible change lies in the direction of recognizing and establishing a governmental unit abridging the gap between the state and national government and using this unit as a partial basis of representation in the upper house of congress."

Decries Use of Troops.

Of the Long and Talmadge administrations, Prof. Nixon said:

"In the case of both there was a rough and ready consolidation of powers in one office at the expense of real democracy, and without giving a chance for real deliberation on the steps taken."

He said Talmadge used Georgia troops in a highway board dispute in a "high handed way," and decried Long's use of troops in New Orleans "to control legislation and registration of voters."

Both men met crises, he said, but added they should have solved them differently and probably should have acted earlier.

REVISED SYSTEM CLEARS DOCKET IN FELONY COURT

A system of disposing of Felony court cases without grand jury action wherever possible and a general program of prosecuting only major charges when several are pending against an individual, has ended a jam in the court docket for the first time in more than 20 years, a report from the court said yesterday.

During the 13 months that Judge Matthew D. Hartigan has presided in the court, 1,066 of a total of 3,006 complaints were disposed of with Bridewall sentences, the report shows, eliminating the expense of grand jury indictments and Criminal court trials in minor cases. Work in the remaining 1,940 cases was simplified because, when a defendant had several felony charges against him, the case was sent to the grand jury with the weaker counts eliminated.

"Credit for improvement in the docket goes largely to Judge Hartigan," said State's Attorney Courtney. "By using discretion and common sense he selected for trial in the Criminal court only the cases that properly belong there."

WOMEN ACCUSED AS BOOKIES WIN HEARING DELAY

Hearings for two women arrested Tuesday night in room 411 at 6 North Michigan avenue on charges of keeping a gambling establishment were continued until Jan. 9 by Municipal Judge Eugene Holland in the State street court yesterday to permit the women to prepare their defense. The defendants are Miss Frances Pake, 37 years old, 5406 North Lotus avenue, and Miss Annette Burandt, 18 years old, 3620 South Lincoln street.

Thirteen men seized in six raids on alleged handbooks were freed by Judge Holland when he sustained a motion of defense attorneys to suppress the evidence because police had failed to obtain warants. Mike Potson, owner of Colosimo's café at 2128 South Wabash avanue, was questioned by federal agents about two counterfeit $20 bills which were found in bail money he had posted for five of the defendants. He said the bills were passed on to him at the café. He was not held.

HOLDUP FUGITIVE GIVES SELF UP TO EASE CONSCIENCE

Leroy Franklin, 36 years old, walked into the office of Chief Lester J. Laird of the county highway police in the county building yesterday and announced he wanted to surrender for a robbery committed last August. Franklin said his conscience had been bothering him.

The robbery, Franklin said, was in the Vermilion café in Pontiac, where he had been employed as a singer. Franklin told Laird that he became intoxicated one evening and took $55 and an automobile.

"I drove to Jersey City, N. J.," he related, "and then my conscience began to hurt and I took a bus back here. I want to pay the penalty."

Laird communicated with the sheriff at Pontiac and learned Franklin's story was true and that he was sought in the robbery. Franklin was taken to the detective bureau and will be turned over to Pontiac authorities today.

Mad Dog Bites 2 Policemen; They Must Take Treatment

Sergt. James McGinnis and Detective Harry Schuler, who were bitten yesterday by a small wire haired fox terrier which ran into the detective bureau at 1121 South State street, were ordered to submit to Pasteur treatments after it was discovered the dog had rabies. The animal was put to death by other policemen shortly after it bit McGinnis and Schuler.

Warnings Given Out

Notices to motorists that they must purchase their 1936 state and city licenses before January were being issued by the police department yesterday. A few trafic policemen were distributing them and today every member of the department will be given a batch to serve on drivers who still display 1935 plates and stickers. Motorists who do not have the licenses by Jan. 1 will be subject to arrest, officials have announced.

Secretary of State Edward J. Hughes advised automobile owners who already have received their new licenses to place them on vehicles now. He said this would save the police department much labor and would remind other drivers that the new plates will be required by law on Jan. 1.

Mr. Hughes reported that applications for 515,000 licenses have been received at his Springfield office and that his office at 120 South Ashland boulevard has issued 117,000. More than 10,000 received new plates at the Ashland boulevard office yesterday.

HAVEN HOUSING 300 DOGS ROBBED; NOT A ONE BARKS

Burglars who apparently have a way with dogs invaded the office of the Orphans of the Storm dog haven operated by Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, near Deerfield, Wednesday night and took $200 in cash and a wedding ring, although there were 300 dogs in the haven and two of them were in the office.

Victor Henken, superintendent of the dog orphanage, reported the burglary to the Lake county sherif's office at Waukegan. He said he had not heard a disturbance during the night. The burglars had to climb a six foot fence topped with barbed wire to get to the office. The wedding ring had been left in the office by an employé.

NEW U. S. TAXES SOON UNLIKELY, HARRISON SAYS

Senator Predicts Session Will Be Short.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26—[Special.]—There will be no new general tax legislation pushed through the coming session of congress, Senator Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.], chairman of the senate finance committee predicted today. He studiously avoided hooking up election year and "no new taxes."

The senator also sidestepped comment on methods by which the federal government would defray the nation's public debt, swollen to an all time peak of thirty and a half billions of dollars under the New Deal's easy money fiscal policy.

"As far as any general tax legislation is concerned," said Harrison, "I don't look for it and I don't think it is in the realm of possibility."

Excise Levy is "Out."

Adoption of a manufacturers' excise tax was also "out," according to Harrion. He pictured an unusually short session of congress with appropriation bills and amendments to existing legislation the principal business to be handled.

In the senator's opinion a compromise on the bonus, always politically vexatious, would be reached and a presidential veto would be avoided. Harrison reiterated his opposition to the Townsend old age pension plan and said it would make no progress at the new session.

It was Harrison's first interview upon his arrival from Mississippi. He is one of the batch of senators who must run for reelection next year.

Among the house members who have returned to Washington there is also a well-defined sentiment against new taxes. There will be elections in all the 435 congressional districts next year.

While congressional leaders were putting the quietus on the tax question, the New Dealers were preparing plans for spending from 800 million to a billion dollars on slum clearance and low cost housing during 1936. It was reported that administration backing had been obtained for a housing bill that will be fathered by Senator Robert F. Wagner [Dem., N. Y.].

The Wagner bill, which will be introduced shortly after the session starts, would place the housing projects in the hands of local agencies. The legislation would also provide a subsidy for the poor who are unable to pay the minimum housing costs.

Thus far the various housing schemes of the New Deal have been enmeshed in litigation, trouble over acquiring titles and other difficulties.

Makes Attack On League.

Senator Harrison took up the cudgels for the administration against the American Liberty league and loosened a barrage of satire upon the 12 point plan for "constitutional recovery" which the league announced yesterday.

Sarcastically, in a statement put out by the statistical bureau of the Democratic national committee, Senater Harrison said the Liberty league was "ready to take over the legislative and judicial functions" of the national government and might be magnanimous enough to take over the executive branch as well.

The Mississippi senator called the league a "lobby" and described its statements as "plutocratic propaganda."

SUPERIOR COURT SUBMITS REPORT ON YEAR'S WORK

7,404 Divorce Suits Filed —22 Pct. Increase.

Divorce suits filed in the Cook county Superior court this year totaled 7,404, an increase of 1,348, or 22 per cent, over 1934, according to figures made public yesterday by Clerk Frank V. Zintak. There are now 9,818 divorce cases pending in the court.

Pending chancery cases in the Superior court number 16,304, of which 5,617 were begun in 1935. During the year 5,240 law jury cases were filed and 15,647 of such cases are now pending. In the law nonjury branch there are 6,248 cases awaiting hearing, of which 1,182 were filed this year. The total revenue received by Mr. Zintak's office in 1935 was $401,036, as compared to $398,931 in 1934.

Statistics on cases filed and pending in the Circuit court were not available yesterday. Fees collected in the court during the year totaled $327,748, a decrease of $103,396 from the revenue in 1934. An increase in receipts is expected in 1936, when the Home Owners' Loan corporation will begin to file foreclosure suits, on which fees must be paid.

The annual report of the Illinois Appellate court district in Chicago showed an increase in the number of appeals filed this year. There were 713 cases brought up for review, 23 more than in 1934.

565 Opinions Handed Down.

The nine justices of this court handed own 565 opinions, a decrease of 51 from last year.

There was a change in personnel this year, Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan being appointed to the Appellate branch to take the place of Judge Francis S. Wilson, who was elevated to the state Supreme court last spring.

The Appellate justices assert that they form the busiest review court in the country.

COMMUNITY FUND $55,000 UNDER ITS GOAL OF $3,200,000

The Chicago Community fund was reported at $3,145,000 yesterday. Officials said they expected the remaining $55,000 for the fund's $3,200,000 goal will be pledged by the first part of January. Although the campaign proper was closed early in December, each day's mail brings added contributions. The amount of the goal was determined by the budget needs of the 147 community serving agencies which are to participate in the fund during the coming year.

STORY OF JESUS WILL BE TOLD IN PAGEANTTONIGHT

Park District to Present Tableaux in Plaza.

In shadow and color, the biblical scenes of the holy family will be enacted at 8 o'clock tonight at the Congress street plaza in Grant park. The pageant, sponsored by the Chicago park district, will be repeated at the same hour tomorrow night, and at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Ten scenes from the Christmas story will be silhouetted on the stained glass windows of the miniature church being reproduced for the tableaux.

One hundred children carrying lighted lanterns will form an opening processional, marching across Michigan avenue, up the path bordered by fir trees, leading to the small church. Then, accompanied by musical interludes, the story of Jesus will be narrated through loud speakers.

Three Madonnas Selected.

As a part of the festivities, 1,300 children of the German-American Children's choir, as well as the Irish Society of Drama and Music, the Rogers Park Singing society, and the American Negro Theater chorus, will sing carols, all under the direction of Carl Craven of the Choral Directors' guild.

Miss Sidney Smith Coolie, contralto; Ralph Niehaus, tenor, and Miss Phyllis Dailey, soprano, will be soloists in the impressive ceremony.

The selection of the Madonna followed a city-wide contest to discover the three women resembling Raphael's painting. Miss Edna Groh, selected as the loop's representative, will be the Madonna in tonight's pageant; Miss Rosemary Mahaffey, chosen from the south side, tomorrow night, and the north side's choice, Miss Margaret Raible, will take the rôle Sunday.

The pageant was written and is being directed by Alfred Stury of the festival department of the Chicago park district.

Child Musicians to Compete.

At the Christmas party given by Eleanor Slader, teacher of piano, at the Gage park fieldhouse, 55th street and Western avenue, childish composers will vie tonight with amateur juvenile actors, who will seek applause from their audience to decide ranking entertainers. The children will present music of their own composition and transposition.

Two thousand colored residents of the south park section joined in an outdoor songfest last night at 47th street and South Park way when a ...nt Christmas tree was dedicated to the community. Choristers from Wendell Phillips and Willard schools, Negro churches, Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. choral clubs, and other music organizations, led by J. Wesley Jones, sang Christmas anthems.

URGES BUSINESS TO STRESS SOCIAL GOOD, NOT PROFIT

Social good must have preference over private gain in the next generation of buisness men if another depression is to be avoided, D. D. Lessenberry, president of the National Commercial Teachers' federation, said yesterday at the Hotel Sherman, where the organization opened a three day convention. Mr. Lessenberry is director of commercial education in the University of Pittsburgh.

"We hope the new business man will practice the philosophy that private gain is necessary but that where there is conflict social good must have preference," Mr. Lessenberry said. "Whatever one business does that is wrong is going to hurt all the rest."

Dr. Charles W. Gilkey, dean of the University of Chicago chapel was the principal speaker at a dinner meeting of the organization in the Sherman last night.

During the day the National Association of Accredited Commercial schools, meeting in conjunction with the teachers' group, discussed its fight against "unqualified business teachers."

Contracts for New School and 2 Additions Awarded

The board of education yesterday awarded contracts for construction of one elementary school and additions to two others which will eliminate old portable structures. At the Grace school, Panama avenue and Grace street, a 15 room building will replace the portables used there. The contract is for $263,700. The other contracts are for the LeMoyne school, 851 Waveland avenue, a twelve room addition, $176,400, and for the Lyon school, 2941 North McVicker avenue, an eight room addition, $95,000. The construction costs will be paid out of funds from a $2,000,000 Public Works administration grant.

SLASHES THROAT, DIES.

Kewanee, Ill., Dec. 26.—(Special.)—Joseph Davis, 61, committed suicide by slashing his throat with a razor today. Friends said he had been ill and feared if he did not report for work today he would be discharged.

Pastor Speaks

The Chicago Kiwanis club yesterday staged its annual fathers and daughters' day program at the Hamilton club. Following luncheon Dr. Clarence A. Spaulding, pastor of the River Forest Presbyterian church, spoke. Mothers and daughters spent the afternoon at cards and games, with a magician's show for younger children.

BELIEVE PARDON DENIED DUNLAP FOR 2D TIME

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—A second effort to obtain a presidential pardon for Millard F. Dunlap, 78 year old Jacksonville, Ill., banker, today apparently had failed.

The department of justice announced the records in the case had been returned from the White House without action.

Dunlap and Andrew Russel, former state treasurer and state auditor of Illinois, were convicted in connection with the failure of the Ayers National bank at Jacksonville in 1931.

Russel died in prison. Dunlap, former treasurer of the national Democratic committee, was removed to a federal hospital at Springfield, Mo., a year ago when his physical condition was said to be serious.

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owens, United States minister to Denmark, interested herself in Dunlap's behalf and aided him in his first unsuccessful effort to obtain a pardon.

Dunlap will complete his penitentiary sentence next March.

Wife in Reno Divorces Nephew of J. P. Morgan

Reno, Nev., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Alexander [Sandy] Hamilton, nephew of J. Pierpont Morgan, was divorced by the socially prominent Mrs. Katherine C. Hamilton of New York here today. The decree was granted on cruelty charges. They were married June 12, 1930, at Sterlington, N. Y.

PROFESSORS RAP SALES TAX; HOME OWNERSHIP HIT

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—College professors deplored the growth of the sales tax as a vehicle of government financing, terming it a "regressive" tax, at a meeting today of the Tax Policy league.

Prof. Denzel C. Cline of Princeton university said that "many of the sales taxes probably will remain as a permanent regressive tax under the guise of affording relief to real estate."

The American tradition of home owning was termed "undesirable" by Prof. Grace S. M. Zorbaugh of Ohio State university.

"I'm not at all sure it is a fine thing for people to own their homes," she said. "The attempt to live up to the tradition of home ownership has done perhaps more than all other things to limit the mobility of salary and wage earners.

As an alternative to a sales tax, now employed by 23 states and New York City, Prof. Cline urged a more inclusive income tax with lowered exemptions.

Youth Found Unconscious in Iced Car Is Recovering

Mount Vernon, Ill., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Howard Dunn, 23, of Harrisburg, Ill., was recovering slowly today from a torturous journey in a refrigerator car. Returning home from California, he was found unconscious in the refrigerator car Christmas morning at Markham City, 12 miles east of here. At the hospital here it was reported he had partly regained consciousness today.

2 MEN CLOSEST TO THELMA TODD FACE QUIZ TODAY

Grand Jury Will Trace Relationships.

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The two men in Thelma Todd's life who were said to have known her better than any others tonight were considered the key figures in the final grand jury search for murder clews in her mysterious death.

These two are the blonde actress' former husband, Pasquale di Cicco, a film colony Beau Brummel, and Roland West, "best friend" and business partner of Thelma and occupant of an apartment adjoining hers over the seaside café they owned jointly.

Capt. Tom Winn, detective for the district attorney's office, said he was investigating an unverified "story that Miss Todd was struck by a man with whom she is supposed to have been arguing in her café a few nights before her death." The man was said from other sources to be "one of the central figures" in the case.

A report that a throat laceration on Miss Todd was noted when the autopsy was being performed was denied by County Autopsy Surgeon A. F. Wagner. He said the only mark on the body was a slight bruise about her lips, apparently suffered when her head struck the steering wheel of her automobile after she collapsed from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Emphasis on the dead star's financial problems has followed the receipt of a statement by West that Miss Todd actually had invested none of her own money in the café. Miss Todd's name, the statement said, was used only as a drawing card.

TRIAL JUDGE'S WINKS AT N. Y. JURORS FORM BASIS FOR APPEAL

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Two jurors who served in a $60,000 damage suit today filed affidavits declaring they had observed Justice Edward J. Byrne, who presided, "mimicking the attorney for the plaintiff" while the case was being heard and that Justice Byrne had "winked and gesticulated at the jury."

The affidavits supported a motion by Attorney Alfred Feingold for a new trial of a suit brought by David Becker of Brooklyn against Dr. Joseph Freedman, a staf physician at Coney Island hospital in January, 1931, when the plaintif's son, Stanley, 8, died there.

WHAT IS A LIBERAL?

Senator Borah has raised the point of liberalism in the Republican party. He has made it his paramount issue, has put it above his own personal ambitions. We all talk about liberalism and seldom take the pains to give it a bill of particulars. When Mr. Borah says he's against the old war horses of the party such as may still be in the stables we think we know what he means. When Albert Beveridge was a young and almost green new member of a then august senate he and Nelson Aldrich, the dreaded leader of the Conscript Fathers, recognized in each other natural enemies. Aldrich was the grand marshal of the old guard and Beveridge was a young crusader.

Stated in terms of men liberalism seems to be defined, but the definition is more in seeming than in true meaning. We all recognize the kind of liberal who is liberal with other people's property. In one sense you might roughly get to the characteristic of a liberal in his best sense by thinking of him as a man of good will whose honest purpose was to promote the general welfare with carefully considered measures and who was not definitly in public life to promote the special welfare of any groups or elements of citizenship using politics to get advantages they should not have.

If the political opposite of a liberal is a conservative, another generally meaningless word, it is no true characterization of the conservative to say that he is a servant of vested interests. A man in public life who serves the few against the many is a lobbyist, an agent, or call him what you like. If a conservative is to be regarded as one who protects true values with all the enlightenment of which he is capable, there could be no finer type in politics. If a liberal is one who permits his avowed good intentions to lead him into experimentation regardless of results, he could easily on occasion be more dangerous than a corruptionist who always took a thought whether he was going too far. The one might be a more admirable moral character but nevertheless cause more people to suffer from his indiscretions.

We will not get anywhere safely by describing liberalism as wholly meritorious and conservatism as quite injurious. Many a political ill-doer, whether intending evil or not, has masked himself as a liberal. Many a man of unstable temperament and thoughtless ways has gained a large following by advocacy of specious reforms which would be of great injury to his own following if he were given authority to undertake the enterprise. All is not gold that glitters in the political sun.

Sound political judgment will not put much trust in phrases adopted because they have come to convey impressions of superior merit to many people. Such phrases may obscure much unscrupulousness and cover much thoughtlessness. A policy of ostentatious generosity and humanity may be so shot with error as to be brutal in its effects upon people who looked to it for their greater good. There are laws governing the affairs and relations of men which cannot be repealed or amended by legislative acts. It is unwise to ignore them.

There is a historic division in the political action of the English speaking people which puts on one side people who have great confidence in the theory of political medication and on the other side people who by instinct or from experience and thought have come to the conclusion that the body politic has more safe remedies in its own natural processes than will be found in the kit of the political M. D.'s. As is generally the case when people thus divide, there is truth on both sides, and on middle ground workable and prudent compromises are to be made.

Putting Mr. Borah's issue into some particular instances, it could be said that if Mr. Tugwell, Senator Norris, Dr. Townsend, Upton Sinclair, La Guardia, Dr. Frankfurter, and others who might be mentioned are liberals, the Republican party wants no more of them than it would want, if it were wise, of such men as may be typified by the old timers, many of them dead, such as Boies Penrose, Nelson Aldrich, Joseph Cannon, and others of the old guard of the days when gentlemen sat about a table and ran the party and the country with supreme confidence in their ability to get precisely what they wanted. This is not intended to hold the memory of these boss politicians up to scorn but merely to emphasize the fact that the methods of the men who, for instance, renominated William Howard Taft have passed into oblivion unless it is to be the fate of the Republican party to hasten there itself.

If by liberalism it is meant that the Republican party is not to return to the automatic mechanism of an automobile assembling plant, with everything on a conveyor, the prescription can be accepted. If liberalism means that the Republican party to catch votes is to outrun all competition in chasing butterflies, the wrong doctor has been called.

TERROR HERE AND IN EUROPE.

The flight of Col. Lindbergh with his family, sole passengers on a small ship headed for England, as has been remarked elsewhere, crowned the humiliation of the United States in its failure to deal with the question of its domestic order. Every American must feel that. He feels that the goddess of liberty has been branded on the brow. It is proper that this sense of shame should endure until a correction has been made to remove the reproach.

The American people will not at this time plead the extenuations they might. An extenuation would do nothing to bring about a better state of affairs. We all know that a country newly settled, in part by unscrutinized applicants for entry from every race and land in the world, will have problems which an older country, having emerged from its lawless youth, will avoid. But indignation and not alibi is indicated for the American people just now. There is, however, a fact which can be noted here.

The people of the United States are less secure on their streets, in their homes, in their property, and in their lives than the people of a large part of Europe. Their justice protects them less, their politics is against them and their criminal world has immunities derived from many conditions, all of them astounding and discreditable. Europe, on the contrary, produces a more secure social order. It has, however, a greater terror. There is the ever present fear of war.

The citizen who walks his streets in confidence and turns out his light at night without apprehension never knows how soon he may be in the trenches fighting in a war which he would lose even if he won. No American goes about in daily fear of this, and over most of Europe it hangs like impending doom. Dread is the common lot of Europe, and although America has its wars no citizen looks into the immediate future with eyes glazed by fear of what he may see. European governments can subdue the criminal who lives in the alley, but the people are at the mercy of the criminal who sits in the council of state.

FREE THE RAILWAYS FROM RED TAPE.

All through the period of agitation for the regulation of highway transportation, which was finally consummated in the passage of the motor carrier act last September, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE consistently maintained that the railways, a certain section of the public and the administration were on the wrong tack; that the real solution of the problem in the public interest was possible only through the adoption of THE TRIBUNE'S platform, "Free the railways from red tape." THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE remains unconvinced that the regulation of competitors will in any way improve the financial dilemma of our railways because the heart of the trouble is a rigid bureocratic domination that has expelled business principles from railroading.

While this newspaper can take credit as the originator of the idea, acknowledgment is due the support of the Traffic World, which advocates equality of regulation of all forms of transportation, whether accomplished by the extension of government interference or the lessening of the railway bonds. Even that stanch defender of railway revenues, the Railway Age, has recently complained of government interference in railway activities. Recent converts include Mr. R. V. Fletcher, general counsel of the Association of American Railways, who has ventured the opinion that perhaps Great Britain with its shipper contract rates has made a step in the right direction; Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, who has advocated the abolition of the interstate commerce commission, and Mr. Harry A. Wheeler, secretary of the Railway Business association, who has suggested that government control of railways must be relaxed because of the futility of attempting to extend equal regulation to other forms of transportation. Now the American Farm Bureau federation has adopted a transportation plan that contains a plea that the railways be given an opportunity to meet competition, together with a request for the repeal of the ratemaking section of the motor carrier act.

Some day our citizens will realize the transportation mistakes of the last generation. While government regulation held a very efficient system of railways in chains, the commerce of the country built another complete form of transportation around it. Now with a consequent tremendous overcapacity of carrier facilities—railways, trucks, buses, boats and barges—we are still extending highway services beyond their economic range and the government is digging wasteful canals, not intended for the heavy moving commodities suited to this form of transportation, but on which the government alone could afford to maintain service to accommodate the local trafic. Because the railways are denied the right to manage their own properties, both passengers and freight that can be most economically handled by them are seeking all sorts of contrivances to avoid payment of railroad charges, which can best be described as a system of rates and fares established by burocracy for railway use with neither sound theory nor good common sense to recommend it.

A MONUMENT TO WAYNE.

[Des Moines Register.]

Ohio's delegation in congress is sponsoring a bill providing for the erection at Greenville, O., of a suitable building to commemorate the signing of a treaty there by "Mad Anthony" Wayne for the United States and Little Turtle for the chiefs of the Indian tribes.

The treaty, signed Aug. 3, 1795, gave to our government title to the Northwest territory, that between the Ohio river and the Great Lakes and east of the Mississippi river.

It was the capstone of the services of Gen. Wayne. His victory over the Indians at Fallen Timbers the year before made possible his diplomatic success at Greenville, which, in its turn, swept the United States' western frontier further toward the Pacific in a single step than could any dozen such battles.

Our revolutionary figures have inspired many a handsome monument to the heroes of war. Greenville presents an opportunity to erect one to an individual whose services with the sword were overshadowed by those with his pen.

As to the cost of a modest monument—well, building it will provide work, and the social value certainly rates higher than not a few projects for which we are piling up a debt.

LINDY MAY GET better protection from kidnapers over in England, but with five hundred reporters, nine hundred and fifty photographers, and eight hundred London bobbies, besides several thousand rubbernecks, gathered on the dock it doesn't look as though he is going to have much more solitude there than he had here. And besides all this, awed by the necessity of guarding the exile and his family, the king is liable to order Lindy followed around by the Forty-fourth Welsh Borderers, the Seaforth Highlanders, the Middlesex Rifles, the Surrey Light Infantry, the Black Watch, the King's Own Household Guards, the Thirty-second Devonshire Heavy Artillery, the Scotch Greys, the Cornwall Horse Artillery, two divisions of bombing planes, and officers, marines, and sailors from the Mediterranean and channel fleets. The English always take everything very seriously.

THE CHARGE has been made since relief has been changed from orders on the groceries to cash payment of four dollars a week that many people on the dole spend their money for likker and in riotous living. Maybe they spend their four dollars a week on sixteen cylinder, streamlined automobiles and yachts and polo ponies. Four dollars a week will buy lots of these things nowadays—lykell, lykell, lykell!

SIR ROGER CASEMENT COMES HOME.

(For John A. McGarry.)

Fog on the Liffey quay and drums in the Dublin street,
And a caisson rolls along,
And a dead man rides to Glasnevin
Through the hush of an Irish throng;
And the ghosts of the men of Easter Week march in the sea-born mist,
Pearse, McDonagh, and Plunkett,
Colbert, O'Rahilly, Clarke,
Skeffington, Connally, McDermott,
Comrades once lost in the dark;
And they march past the Royal College,
And they march past the Castle wall,
And repeat their oaths for an Ireland free
Over their brother's pall;
And the bier moves slow, and the prayers drone low, and the drums of requiem roll,
And the gulls fly over Dublin, and the bells of Ireland toll.

Bugles over Glasnevin where the cromleehs of Ireland rise,
And a dead man rides through the gate
Where under the clouds of Ireland
The heroes of Ireland wait;
And the flags of the counties of Ireland droop, Limerick, Kerry, and Clare,
Wexford, and Cork, and Mayo, and his own lost Antrim there;
And the dead men meet him as brother,
O'Connell long back from Rome,
Parnell, McManus, and Rossa,
Free only in death to come home;
And the people kneel by the gravestones, and they pray for his soul's release,
And remembering Pentonville Prison, they sob, "May he rest in peace!"
And the bugle sighs, and the people rise, and the banners lift and swing,
And the gulls fly over Dublin, and the bells of Ireland ring.

SENATOR BORAH in commenting on the killing of Senator Schall by an automobile asks, "How long will this reckless destruction of life go on in the streets and highways of the United States?" I wish, Mr. Borah, you would ask that question of the Illinois legislature. They won't even pass a drivers' license law. No, not even after most of its teeth had been carefully extracted. It was a very mild, I'll-slap-you-on-the-wrist law finally, but it might have saved a few lives at that.

PREVENT COLON ULCERS.

FROM time to time we have had a good deal to say about inflammation of the large bowel [the colon].

In our zeal for the maintenance of health some of us have punished the colon severely. We have added to our diets so much roughage [cellulose], such as the hulls of grains and fibers of all sorts, that we must not grumble when the colon rebels. Of course, we understand that mechanical injury lowers resistance and thus paves the way for the planting of bacteria upon the delicate mucous lining of the large bowel.

There is one type of infection that is prone to occur during middle life and is characterized by the formation of ulcers in various parts of the colon. The onset is usually gradual and is attended frequently with periodical attacks of diarrhea followed by constipation, the latter being replaced by a new attack of diarrhea, etc. Thus a vicious cycle may be established and continue with increasing severity. The ulcerated areas may not be infected at first, but become so sooner or later, and the patient will exhibit the cardinal signs of a severe illness—loss of weight, weakness, and fever.

We know that ulcers may bleed. Hence, the bowel discharges will often show signs of blood. If the condition continues for a long period, ademia due to the continuous loss of blood will follow.

Sometimes the diagnosis may be made by an examination of the stools, which are blood tinged, liquid, and usually contain a considerable quantity of pus. Furthermore, the number of bowel evacuations each day deplete the system of needed water and the patient's tissues show not only the effects of drying, but of actual starvation, because much of the food that is eaten passes through the intestinal tract unabsorbed.

The disease is a chronic one, for the most part, and may require months of careful management before it can be conquered. Temporary improvement may be followed by a relapse that can sometimes be traced to indiscretions in diet or overactivity and hence excess fatigue.

The human intestine is a rather sensitive tube and although it will endure a large amount of insult there comes a time when the reaction is violent. Many authorities believe that the persistent use of strong cathartics is not only an unhygienic but an unnecessary procedure. Instead of aiding the bowel to function naturally we figuratively blast a channel through the intestines by means of an all too convenient cathartic which — in many instances—is irritating in character. Many believe that the imperfect chewing of food is also a causative factor.

Should ulceration of the colon be established, rest in bed is imperative and every effort must be made to increase the patient's resistance. All irritating substances [fibers and stringy or pulpy vegetables and fruits] must be omitted from the diet. Nevertheless, food that is taken should be highly nutritious, as the patient needs more rather than less nourishment.

Physicians have come to recognize the importance of a prompt attack upon the disease and numerous plans of treatment, many of which are successful, have been devised. If the ulcers are located low in the descending portion of the colon, certain types of irrigations may be of value. Not infrequently, however, colonic irrigations do more harm than good and, when used, only an expert should supervise their administration. Vaccines made from bacteria found growing in the ulcerated areas have been of great help.

As soon as the patient is able to leave his bed, outdoor air and sunshine will aid in building resistance, thus overcoming the infection.

Prevention lies in not abusing the colon. We must not assume that it is made of cast iron. Should a tendency to occasional diarrhea exist, foods to be excluded are those containing fiber, that are highly spiced, or that are strongly salted. Strong laxatives should be shunned. An enema is not as simple, but it is safer.

SODA AND COLDS.

J. G. H. writes:

1. I have heard that taking baking soda will break up a cold.
2. Is taking 30 to 40 drops of camphor in hot water good for a cold?
3. What is the best diet during a cold?
4. What is good for cold sores?
5. What can be used for a mouth wash during a cold?

REPLY.

1. With the onset of a cold the patient may need alkalis. These are readily supplied by orange juice, lemonade, or limeade. Sodium bicarbonate (baking soda) is available in most households and may be used. After the first two or three days soda is no longer of value.
2. Camphor is a more or less antiquated remedy for colds.
3. The diet should be light and simple. A cold is an infection, the inflammation being localized in the respiratory mucous membranes. Overloading the stomach is harmful, and meats, gravies, and fried and richly spiced foods are, especially to be avoided. One should partake freely of fluids, fruit, and fruit juices.
4. Spirits of camphor is useful.
5. A half teaspoonful of salt in a glassful of water makes a cleansing mouth wash or gargle.

SMOKING PIPE.

H. A. G. writes: I am contemplating starting to smoke a pipe and would like your views on the subject. I am 20 years old.

REPLY.

Depending upon the quantity, cigarets are the mildest form of tobacco, cigars next, and the pipe third. If you must smoke wait until you are 35.

FRIEND OF THE PEOPLE

RIGHT TO INHERIT.

Evanston, Ill., Dec. 13.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In the state of Kansas, A, an uncle, is now deceased; B is a good friend; C, a nephew, is myself. Just a few days before A died he made a statement to B that if anything happened to him he wanted everything to go to C because C had been good to him in the past by providing for him and sending money. This was verbal and not in writing. B at the time wrote it on a piece of paper and kept it for reference. 1. Would this statement help C get his property if B would testify to that effect? A was a bachelor. C has a claim for over $2,339 against the estate, and the farm is worth about $3,200. If C withdraws his claim and holds the land under [2] his deed, [3] will he have to pay inheritance tax on the $900 which is the difference between his claim and the value of the land? All bills have been paid except court costs, administrator and attorney, and there is enough cash to pay them off. 4. Who has to pay the attorney's fee if the administrator got one [5] to protect himself? R. A.

1. No.
2. We do not understand this reference to a deed.
3. His right to inherit will depend on whether there are closer relatives. If he makes no claim as a creditor then presumably anything that he takes by inheritance [i. e., the $3,200] in excess of exemptions will be subject to inheritance tax.
4. The fees of the administrator's attorney are paid out of the assets of the estate in the ordinary case.
5. You do not make clear whether it was to protect himself in an individual capacity or to advise on the ordinary legal questions arising in probate and to handle the usual court proceedings.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM ACROSS THE SEA

BY ALEX SMALL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CAIRO, Egypt.—The first sights you see in this city give you one reason why the British are here.

You are beset by swarms of beggars in long greasy nightgowns—all offering to do some unnecessary service for you. At every street corner you are bawled at by hawkers of lottery tickets, of soap and shoe strings, of buttons and postcards. If you move out of the beaten path of the more or less westernized center of Cairo, they are after you to show you sights "not in any guidebook."

The government does little to abate the nuisance. It warns the tourist only to take authorized guides and to pay them the official rates. Beyond that, you have to fight for yourself. The visitor rich enough to afford it finds it best to put himself in the hands of one dragoman and let him do all the grafting on condition he protect you from the others. The condition, the widely traveled know, is common to the orient.

You are confronted in Cairo with a population which is living on the margin of subsistence. Part of it every day must get necessities by begging or by doing futile odd jobs or by picayune cheating. The poverty, to be sure, seems to be lightly borne. It is not dull and heart-breaking, as it is, for example, in some European countries.

The Egyptians have climate in their favor. They could ballyhoo it, if they had the enterprise. Egypt is practically a rainless land and freezing temperatures rarely occur. Little shelter is needed by humble people—a mat on the floor of a hut, anywhere, or laid out under the stars in an alleyway, is sufficient for sleep.

Poverty is relieved, too, by all the movement and color of the orient and by the fatalism of Islam. These ragged crowds are out in the open all day long, buying and selling, jabbering and gesticulating. Every deal involving the passing of one piastre [worth about one American nickel] is an adventure.

If worst comes to worst, Allah is above all and is merciful to human woes. Especially if one enjoys the delights of parenthood, as every oriental does [the Koran is especially severe about barren women], one need not worry about the children's future. They need no shoes, and somehow, when they are old enough for solid food, Allah will provide an extra handful of beans.

You hardly need to see tables of statistics, then, to realize that Egypt is an overpopulated country. Its present population is roughly 14,500,000 [1927 census]. In 1800, when Napoleon on his expedition to Egypt took the first census, it was 2,500,000. The first census the British took here, in 1882, showed a population of about 7,000,000.

Egypt, however, is a comparatively large country. Its almost 383,000 square miles make it considerably larger than Italy or France, each of which supports a population almost three times as great. But the cultivated and settled area covers only about 13,600 square miles. The "miracle of the Nile" makes this country habitable. Most of Egypt, Nile or no Nile, is desert anyway. The river does its miracle only along the narrowest sort of a strip—from Cairo south through more than seven-eighths the length of Egypt. Above the Aswan dam the green strip ceases altogether. In the small area of El Faiyum, just southwest of Cairo, special conditions have created a fertile basin.

The Nile delta stretches practically from Cairo north to the Mediterranean coast [in a straight line less than 150 miles], and in that fan-shaped area only can a dense population be supported. The rest of Egypt, with here and there the tiny spot of an oasis, is good at best for watering the flocks of nomads. Only about one per cent of the Egyptian people live outside the fertile area.

Egypt, then, is a country in which there can be no trifling with the food supply. The Nile must do its yearly miracle. If it does it poorly [and sometimes that happens], there is distress. In ancient times there would be famine, as the Bible story about Pharaoh's dream of the seven fat kine and the seven lean kine, symbolizing the years of plenty and famine, shows.

There is a population problem here which requires the most competent handling and constant vigilance. That problem existed before the British came here, or before Egypt ever woke from her oriental sleep about a century ago. Then the problem was different, or was resolved in a different way.

The population formerly was small because nature was allowed to take its course. Food shortage, disease, and bloody internal strife counteracted exuberant Egyptian fertility. Now western engineering and western sanitation—introduced almost entirely by the British—have allowed recklessness in breeding to produce their results. Egypt is populated to its limit, if not beyond.

STRAWS.

Oak Park, Ill., Dec. 23.—I, too, conducted a private poll on the question of the day.

The people I queried—

1. Could read.
2. Were not Socialists.
3. Were nonparticipants in boondoggling.

The result is obvious: unanimously against the present administration.

EDW. H. BORN.

Dubuque, Ia., Dec. 23.—We read in the Voice of the People that some one conducted a canvass in the lobby of our principal hotel and found that most of the salesmen interviewed were for Roosevelt. They evidently weren't the same salesmen I see in my line of business.

I come in contact with dozens of traveling men per month. More than half are from down south; many of the others likewise voted for Roosevelt, and still others came to have great hopes of him and of the New Deal. But in the last year I haven't heard one of them say a kind word for the administration or anything connected with it. They have been disillusioned. I don't know how many, if any, received Digest ballots, but I know how they voted if they had a chance.

Maybe they are prejudiced by the fact that their industry [lumber] was one of the most maimed by NRA. Maybe a lot of other people are equally prejudiced by the New Deal detriment that none of us can escape. Anyway, the tremendous swing in sentiment indicated by all straw votes must have its origin in the general awakening of a vast number of people to the unhappy realization that New Dealism is prejudicial to their best interests.

J. D.

Fargo, N. D., Dec. 23.—I'm a traveling man and cover a good many states. My honest opinion is that any sane man can be elected President next year on the Republican ticket. H. J. M.

GOETHE STREET.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—May I be permitted space to voice a protest against the renaming of Goethe street to Potomac avenue?

It is, indeed, a small tribute to name a street in our great metropolis for one of the greatest thinkers of his time and, if I may venture a personal opinion, the greatest intellect yet produced by the Germanic race, one whose works will go on and on through the decades and will inspire many generations to come.

Perhaps our city fathers have not had the opportunity or possibly lacked the desire for the study of this great immortal's works.

What if it is the despair of street car conductors and others who do not realize the importance of this great name? I know that Goethe represents that which is great and fine to half a million people of the Teutonic race in Chicago.

HELMUTH VON MEHL.

POLICE ACTIVITIES.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—The writer was an interested spectator one afternoon last week as he sat in the window of a certain building inside of the loop. Two large touring cars unloaded eight able bodied detectives, who spent the whole afternoon searching buildings and men who were suspected of accepting a bet, with the net result, one arrest, one man, who, the writer has since learned, was promptly discharged by the judge the next morning.

Pickpockets are plying their trade unmolested; men in business places are held up in broad daylight; women are afraid to walk home after dark and do not feel safe when they get there. Why doesn't the mayor use his police to remedy these deplorable conditions? No one ever sees a policeman outside of the loop, except the few on crossing duty.

A CITIZEN.

WPA MUSICIANS.

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 21.—I read with much disgust your article on the front page concerning boondoggling WPA musicians. I unconditionally say that this article, along with the story published about Gov. La Follette's Christmas greetings, is the worst piece of rot, the most vile form of pun upon a sincere purpose that has ever been published in your newspaper.

I realize, of course, that your prolonged attack on New Deal expenditures is a part of a well founded policy with which most of us agree wholeheartedly, but please, if I may ask, will you try to clearly attack this WPA, or whatever it is, with a little thought for the musician or worker who is more than glad to be hired for his services than to be on relief and accept charity?

DON MANNING FAIRCHILD,

PLACING THE BLAME.

Chicago, Dec. 22.—It is of great interest to note that the editorials of your publication place the blame for the terrible things which are being done by the present administration in Washington squarely where it belongs—on the Democratic party which fosters that administration.

This is the second attempt by this party to destroy, first, the Union, and now constitutional government in our country, and for the second time the Republican party alone stands as a bulwark to maintain the liberties of the people and American ideals of government.

Lincoln placed confidence in the people that when they fully understood they would act and vote right.

FREDERICK H. WOOD.

SOMETHING THEY ATE.

Chicago, Dec. 18.—According to that lovely bit of intellectual satire in Tuesday's TRIBUNE entitled "Something They Ate," you strive to make it very clear that there is some stigma attached to being English.

Of course, greasy American fried potatoes, half cooked eggs and scorched bread, so nonchalantly misnamed "toast," is undoubtedly cooking par excellence, but somehow, being English, I still prefer my steak and kidney pudding.

The writer of that editorial, of course, is grateful that he has been given the mind of an epicure to truly appreciate the culinary delights of coffee and sinkers, but until they make more reliable cures for dyspepsia—I'll refrain.

ALEC C. SCOTT.

EMPTY PENS.

Chicago, Dec. 23.—Your correspondent, G. H. Van Cleve, Chicago, admits that the Roosevelt administration has in no way attempted to restrict or limit the raising of cattle, and that the fact that so many of the stockyard pens were empty during our President's recent visit, together with the high prices we are paying for beef, is in all probability due to this year's terrible drouth, the effects of which will be felt for all of two years more, so agricultural authorities inform us. The administration has enough to answer for without pinning the effects of nature's drouth on it.

CHAS. DAY MOORE.

OPEN LETTER TO MR. HOOVER.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—You are perhaps correct in dating the bank panic March 3, 1933, as it would have affected your friends, Ogden Mills, Al Smith, Andrew Mellon, the railroads, wholesale houses, packing houses and perhaps 25,000 like them. But as it affected my neighbor the Greek restaurant keeper, the small baker and delicatessen keeper as well as their sons and daughters, also the janitor, scrubwoman, clerk and about fifty million like them, whose life savings were spurloa versenkt when the banks closed up one after another in 1931 and 1932, we all seem to date the bank panic quite a few months before March 3, 1933.

51 SOUTH BEND FIREMEN HURT IN STORE BLAZE

Fire Defies Control for Seven Hours.

South Bend, Ind., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Fifty-one city firemen were in the two hospitals here tonight receiving treatment for exposure and smoke inhalation suffered in fighting a stubborn blaze which destroyed the H. L. Green company department store.

Damage was estimated at $150,000. Some of this was done by smoke and water to nearby business houses.

In the St. Joseph hospital there were 26, including Capt. Henry Czajkowski, 53, who was reported in fair condition late tonight after treatment in an oxygen tent. He had been overcome by smoke and had been in a critical condition earlier tonight. None of the others was in danger. At the Epworth hospital 25 had been entered for the night or until released by physicians.

Open First Aid Station.

Dr. R. R. N. Carter, city health officer, was directing a first aid station in the Y. M. C. A. building on the opposite side of the block in which the fire was located. He said that he had sent 60 to the hospitals and had others resting at the Y. M. C. A. Some of those injured or overcome earlier had returned to duty.

Three companies were on watch for the 11 fire department districts of the city, with all available men of the other eight companies on duty at the downtown fire. The full double shift of 120 men had been called out on the general alarm shortly before noon.

Burns After 15 Hours.

The fire was still burning in the basement of the building late tonight, more than 15 hours after it was discovered and seven hours after it had been reported under control. Stock stored in the basement continued to send up smoke, although water from 25 lines of hose had been poured into the building. Hose lines, some of which had been borrowed from the adjoining city of Mishawaka, were being taken up late tonight with the aid of American Legion volunteers. The veterans also assisted police in keeping trafic diverted from the fire area and in removing firemen who had been overcome.

Private ambulances made almost continuous trips from the first aid station to the hospitals in order to keep the police ambulance free for emergency use.

DRAMA BANNED IN BOSTON ASKS FOR CHICAGO O. K.

"The Children's Hour," a drama which had a long run in New York last season, but which was recently denied a booking in Boston by the stage censorship board of that city, is ready for an engagement in Chicago if the city authorities do not offer objections to its subject matter. A copy of the published text of the play was placed in the hands of Barnet Hodes, city corporation counsel, yesterday, by Rollo Timponi, manager of the Erlanger theater, and Miss Thoda Cocroft, representative of the American Theater society.

"Herman Shumlin, producer of the play, is prepared to send it to Chicago within a few weeks," said Miss Cocroft, "if he is given to understand that there will be no repetition of the 'Tobacco Road' closing."

"The Children's Hour" deals with accusations made against two women school teachers by an evil-minded child, starting a scandal which ruins the women's careers. It has a background in morbid psychology.

Youth Identified as Robber Who Fatally Beat Victim

Walter Klosek, 18 years old, 1634 West 44th street, was identified at the police showup last night as the youth who fatally beat Theodore Para, 17 years old, 4418 South Honore street, at 44th and Paulina streets on Dec. 18 and robbed him of $8, the receipts of a club dance. The identification was made by Bruno Panavas, 15 years old, 4411 South Wood street, Para's companion. Klosek admitted he had a fight with Para, but denied he robbed him.

Family of Three Found Dead at Table of Gifts

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—A family of three was found dead today seated at a table piled high with Christmas gifts and tinseled decorations. An open gas jet beneath a pot of coffee which had boiled over showed how the trio met death. They were Charles McLaughlin, 34, an electrician; his wife, Catherine, 30, and their son, Walter, 2.

Bernard Majewski Accepts School Board Appointment

Bernard Majewski, member of the Chicago Exposition authority, said yesterday that he would accept his appointment by Mayor Kelly to the board of education. The appointment will be submitted to the city council next week.

O'CONNOR GRAFT CONSPIRACY CASE IS NEARING JURY

T. E. Diamond, one of O'Connor's attorneys, wound up his arguments this morning and his colleague, Fred H. Free, started his summation. Prosecutor H. M. Havner's final argument and District Judge Earl Peters' instructions are all that remain before the jury retires for deliberation.

Meanwhile charges that a new "payoff system" is being employed to protect Woodbury county gamblers were made here today by Police Inspector Joe E. Young, appearing before the city council. Young demanded the resignation of Gordon C. Hollar, public safety commissioner.

Landslide Routs 25 Nuns at Coast Women's School

ERNEST BYFIELDS PLAY HOSTS FOR XMAS REUNION

Ernest R. Byfield, president of the Hotel Sherman company, and a number of his relatives and former relatives [severed as such by the divorce courts but remaining as friends] are having what might be termed an Exmas reunion this week.

Quite a Large Party.

Among those attending the reunion gatherings are:

1. Mr. Byfield, his wife, Mrs. Kathryn Prest Rend Byfield, and their daughter, Gene Byfield, 4 years old.

2. Mr. Byfield's former wife, Mrs. Gladys Rosenthal Byfield Tartiere of Paris, France; her husband, Raymond F. Tartiere, London and Paris stockbroker, and their daughter, Elaine Tartiere, 5 years old.

3. Ernest Byfield Jr., 21 years old, and Hugh Ward Byfield, 13 years old, sons of Mr. Byfield and the present Mrs. Tartiere, and John Tartiere, 21 years old, son of Mr. Tartiere by a former marriage.

4. Rita Rend, 6 years old, daughter of the present Mrs. Byfield by her former marriage to William P. Rend II.

5. Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin J. Rosenthal of the Ambassador hotel, parents of Mrs. Tartiere; Mrs. Francis C. Prest of Winnetka, mother of the present Mrs. Byfield; Francis C. Prest Jr. and Mrs. John Magie, brother and sister of Mrs. Byfield, and Mrs. Joseph P. Rend, mother of Mrs. Byfield's former husband.

Byfield Divorce in 1928.

The present Mrs. Tartiere was divorced by Mr. Byfield in 1928 and married Mr. Tartiere the following year. Ernest Byfield Jr. has lived with his father and Hugh Ward Byfield with his mother in France. The present Mrs. Byfield was divorced from Mr. Rend in 1929.

According to Mr. Byfield, the reunion "came about naturally." The Tartiere party arrived in Chicago early in the week and were guests at a first party in the Hotel Sherman on Monday. There have been other gatherings since.

"We all like each other a lot," Mr. Byfield explained, "and have maintained the friendliest of relations among ourselves."

TWO HELD AS THEFT SUSPECTS.

Steve Rusnal, 27 years old, 5801 South California avenue, and Joseph Moran, 50 years old, 1915 South Halsted street, were held for a police showup as robbery suspects yesterday. Moran was found carrying a pistol.

WIFE A SUICIDE, HUSBAND LOSES HIS GIRL FRIEND

Two Calmly Tell Story of Christmas Tragedy.

As Miss Carden expressed it in her testimony at the inquest, Mrs. Hayden "didn't seem desperate or excited at all; just quite calm and collected as she left us there and walked into the bedroom where the baby was."

Just a minute or two later there was a shot. Mrs. Hayden, standing beside the crib of her 2 year old daughter Geraldine, had fired a bullet into her own head. She died as she was being taken to a hospital.

The story was told without fervor and without apparent reluctance at the inquest by Hayden and by Josephine. There was no disagreement of fact in their stories of how a love torn trio had been reduced to a couple.

"May the Best Woman Win."

Outside the room in which the inquest was held Miss Carden, a little later, defended her conduct.

"I knew for months that Jim was a married man," she said, "but he and Alice had been separated part of the time and he told me he didn't love her any more. Somehow I never thought I was breaking up a home. I've got a married sister and I wouldn't want any other woman to make her unhappy.

"Mrs. Hayden was good looking and I just thought it was a case of may the best woman win. I didn't think she'd take it that way. This has been a great shock to me and I'm blaming my inexperience for what happened."

Josephine is the daughter of Mrs. Mary Carden, a widow. There are six children in the family and she is the second oldest. She was busy with the housework at home last night—"trying to forget," she said.

Tells of Striking Wife.

In his testimony Hayden had told of quarrels with his wife about his activities in love outside the home. He admitted that he struck her and gave her a black eye last Friday, but denied that they quarreled Christmas day. The pistol with which she shot herself, he declared, was his. Mrs. Hayden, he said, had taken it from the drawer in which he kept it and had hidden it from him.

"I didn't think she was going to kill herself," he added. "She seemed calmer than usual Wednesday when she asked that Josephine come to see her. I got the idea she was going to be reasonable and accept an offer of a divorce. I had offered to pay her ten dollars a week. But she had never been willing to talk things over sensibly before."

After the inquest was over Hayden declined flatly to talk to interviewers. What he thinks about Miss Carden's decision that now, with no obstacle in the way of their union, she doesn't want him, is a mystery.

OTHER YULETIDE TRAGEDIES

Two other Christmas tragedies were investigated yesterday by coroner's juries. In one of them a love triangle was blamed and in the other domestic incompatibility was believed to have been the cause.

Gus Wesley, 22 years old, 2735 West 15th place, an automobile salesman, at one hearing was ordered held to the grand jury for the murder of Russell de Franco, 24 years old, 1639 South California avenue, early Christmas morning. Wesley, who surrendered to the police after the shooting, asserted that he shot De Franco because the latter had broken up his home.

Separated Five Months.

Wesley did not testify at the inquest but the details of the shooting were related by his wife, Gertrude, 22, years old, in whose presence the shooting took place. She told the jurors that she had been separated from her husband for the last five months and that during the last few months De Franco had been seeing her at her mother's home at 1535 South California avenue.

She said that she had been invited to a Christmas eve party at the De Franco home and that when she left there with De Franco to go to her own home her husband shot her escort.

An inquest into the death of Charles Hanson, 40 years old, 523 Catherine street, La Grange Park, who was said by the police to have shot and killed himself Christmas morning when efforts to effect a reconciliation with his estranged wife failed, was continued yesterday pending the recovery of his wife, Alice, 35 years old, whom he wounded seriously.

Her brother, Lawrence Barden, had told the authorities that Hanson shot his wife and himself after a quarrel in Barden's automobile near Hinsdale.

Three Editors Quit After Refusing $2.50 Yule Gifts

WOMAN WORKER DIES VICTIM OF SCIENCE MISHAP

U. S. Service Recalls Other Martyrs.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The public health service today recorded on its special honor roll the first woman laboratory technician to die in line of disease research duty — Anna Pabst, 39.

ANNA PABST. [A. P. Wirephoto.]

Her life was the sixth sacrificed to scientific endeavor in the service in the last decade.

An animal Miss Pabst was injecting with meningitis serum in the National institute of health laboratories Dec. 17, squirmed suddenly, causing some of the culture to squirt in her eye. Prompt cleansing was ineffective.

Stricken Dec. 21.

She was stricken with meningitis while Christmas shopping Dec. 21, and died in Emergency hospital Christmas night.

Paying high tribute to her work as researcher and co-author of several scientific studies on meningitis serum, the public health service today praised also the five men who in the last decade met similar deaths; and the scientists who have fought back from the very door of death after serious attacks of the diseases with which they work.

In 1924 G. H. Cowan, laboratory assistant at the Rocky Mountain Spotted Fever laboratories in Hamilton, Mont., died of that fever. Four years later, L. A. Kerlee, another laboratory assistant, died in the same place in the same manner.

Starts as Deck Hand.

The name of William Lindgren is held in special honor in the service because he started as a humble deck hand on a ship, and became a self-made expert laboratory technician through sheer interest in the subject.

In 1922 he became infected with tuberculosis while transplanting cultures, and injecting animals with virulent human tuberculosis, in the laboratories here. Six years later he died of the disease.

H. B. Anderson, laboratory assistant, died in 1930 of psittacosis [parrot fever] at the time when an outbreak of that disease occurred in the National Institute of Health, then deep in research on its baffling appearance in this country. Several of the scientists had severe cases, but lived to save other lives by using their own immunized blood as serum to fight the disease, a method of treatment they discovered.

Dies of Rabbit Fever.

M. L. Nolan, laboratory assistant, died of tularaemia [rabbit fever] in 1931, a disease on which he was then working.

Dr. Charles Armstrong almost died of psittacosis. Later, serum from his blood, flown across the continent, saved both Mrs. William E. Borah, in Idaho, and Dr. H. E. Hasseltine, in California.

Among others suffering severest illnesses through diseases on which they worked were Dr. R. E. Dyer, typhus; Dr. Edward Francis, Dr. Alice Evans and Dr. W. T. Harrison, undulant fever.

OFFICIAL WEATHER FORECAST

WPA Worker Gets 90 Days in Chicken Theft Attempt

Clyde Secrest, 35 years old, 4811 Erie street, a Works Progress administration laborer, who was arrested Monday when he hid in the ice box of a National Tea company store at 554½ South Cicero avenue after attempting to steal chickens from the store, was sentenced to 90 days in the Bridewell yesterday by Judge Matthew D. Hartigan in the Felony court.

Quarrel Over Christmas Carols Brings $100 Fine

Anthony Seiler, 61 years old, 2844 Farrell street, wanted to hear Polish Christmas carols over the radio. His wife, Frances, 56 years old, preferred Polish mazurkas. They quarreled. Anthony struck Frances. She had him arrested at noon Christmas day. Yesterday Municipal Judge Francis Borrelli fined Anthony $100 for disorderly conduct, and he went to the Bridewell to serve out the fine.

Chicago Christmas Benefit Clothes 62,000 Children

Col. A. A. Sprague, treasurer of the Chicago's Own Christmas Benefit fund, sponsored by Mayor Kelly, informed the mayor yesterday that 62,000 children of poor families received clothing purchased from the fund. The fund totaled $300,000, raised by benefit shows and contributions. Delivery of the clothing began Christmas eve and was continuing yesterday.

Day By Day Story of the Experimental Farm

By Frank Ridgway

"Daffy" Over Hybrids.

December 26, 1935.

"THE whole world seems to have gone daffy on hybrid corn at the same time," said a corn breeding expert the other day. The "world" referred to is King Corn's great kingdom with its vast population of corn growers in the central west.

These corn growers are having difficulty in finding hybrid seed corn to plant next spring. Since the Tribune experimental farms began growing hybrid corn strains two years ago hundreds of requests have come to this newspaper asking for information about where hybrid seed corn may be secured. Comparatively small amounts of seed of the superior hybrids are yet available and many farmers must wait until seed can be produced.

The word hybrid is old among scientists in the plant and animal field, but it is new to many farmers who have followed the practice of going out in their own fields at the end of each season to pick seed corn to be planted the following year. The dictionary's definition of a hybrid is that it is "the offspring of the union of a male of one race, variety, species, or genus, with the female of another; a cross-bred animal or plant."

The mule is an example of a hybrid in the animal world. The perpetual rose is a hybrid of the plant world. The offspring of a tame sow with a wild boar is a hybrid.

There is nothing particularly new about hybridizing, but there is something new in the offsprings that have been produced in the corn breeding world. From these rare crosses much progress has been made in increasing yields of plants for silage and ear corn, corn resistant to insects, and corn with stalks that stand up in windstorms while ordinary corn is blown down.

A corn borer resistant strain of corn has been produced in Michigan. A. J. Patch of the Michigan State college at East Lansing says that this corn borer resistant corn is a development from an original cross between maize amargo and commercial varieties of field corn. It is much different from our varieties and the cross obtained in Michigan is one of the few successful attempts. The resistance of the corn to attacks by borers is due to the bitter taste of the corn stalk, but this taste does not affect the corn's palatability for feeding live stock, according to Mr. Patch.

W. B. Nevens of the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, says that hybrid corn varieties, which are growing in popularity because of their superior grain producing qualities, have now shown that they may also excel ordinary varieties for silage purposes.

He found that hybrids contained higher proportion grain, had greater lodging resistance, and had slightly higher yields of dry matter in the crop harvested for silage. Sixteen hybrid varieties used in the trials at the college were, on the whole, superior to Station Yellow Dent, a high yielding strain of Reid Yellow Dent used in the check plots. Both hybrids and the open-pollinated variety made large yields of silage ranging from 10 to 13 tons an acre.

Mr. Nevens adds that one of the most significant advantages of the hybrids was their resistance to lodging. Ninety-one per cent of the hybrids were standing erect on Sept. 13 and 14 as compared with 84 per cent of the Station Yellow Dent variety. Another advantage of the hybrids was their higher proportion of grain. Fifty-two per cent of the total dry matter of the hybrids consisted of ears, whereas, the ears of Station Yellow Dent amounted to only 47 per cent of the total dry matter.

"Since the experiment has only been carried through one season, the results should not be taken as conclusive evidence of the superiority of hybrid varieties for silage," according to Nevens and his co-workers. "However, the trials did prove that hybrids may be used very satisfactorily for silage production as well as for grain production."

New Malipiero Symphony Gets Mild Welcome

John Weicher Is Licked in Bruch Concerto.

BY EDWARD BARRY.

Malipiero's Symphony in Four Tempi was rapidly received last night at its first presentation in Chicago. The Symphony orchestra is playing it this week in the eleventh pair of Thursday-Friday concerts.

An historical view of criticism counsels the most extreme caution in dealing with new works. Therefore I shall say only that the Malipiero symphony seems on first hearing to be deficient in first rate melodic inspiration and inept and unconvincing rhythmically. There are too many hackneyed meters and too much Respighian lyricism without Respighi's powerful and sustained line. The work is competently but not sensationally orchestrated.

John Weicher, the businesslike principal violin of the orchestra, played the Bruch Third Concerto. The audience responded enthusiastically and recalled him for several bows.

Weicher's style is dignified, his emotional approach conservative, his technique adequate. These qualities fit him well for the task of interpreting the Bruch opus, especially its first and second movements. An old fashioned virtuoso fiddler of the hair-tossing school could find something to his liking in the finale, but might be stopped by the two earlier divisions of the work.

Between the Malipiero and the Bruch, Frederick Stock and his men played the Mozartian Fourth Symphony of Beethoven. If you object to the adjective being used to describe anything of Beethoven's later than the Second Symphony, please play the Adagio of last night's work on your phonograph and immediately after it the corresponding movement of the earlier composer's G Minor.

The Fourth, Seventh, and Eighth Symphonies are the reverse side of the gold coin that Beethoven left as legacy. [No, this has nothing to do with Mozart any more.] The value and completeness of his benefice lies in the perfect two-sidedness of the man, or his many-sidedness, if a more fortunate metaphor had been chosen.

Beethoven never pretended that any of his symphonies represented a full picture of life, for he was first of all a musician, and reluctant to assign windy philosophical meanings to his works. A chance remark of his [possibly made in jest] may have started all this business about fate and struggle and final triumph in the Fifth. I wonder what lovers of such a yarn make of the Fourth and Eighth, which after all must represent just as mature a philosophy as the Third and Fifth.

The explanation of the contradiction probably lies in the simple fact that the composer was not so naive as to believe that any one outlook on life is necessarily and exclusively valid. He never tried to prove anything with his music, and labored as lovingly and successfully on the smiling landscape of the Fourth Symphony as he did on the darkling two that precede and follow it.

The New Hats Are Tiny; Have Pointed Crowns

BY RHEA SEEGER.

The newest things in town . . . the pointed crown hats, as different and distinctive as anything unpacked in weeks. They're snappy new ideas that will do grand things for that funny in-between feeling about your clothes. There are flattering brims—brims that reach just far enough over the eyeline without being overwhelming. The crowns reach sharp peaks and add anywhere from two to three inches to your silhouette.

These new headlines have been copied from Chinese toppers and they're well worth the excitement they cause. Smooth smart black felts are especially good. The one with a double cord that fastens at the side and then slips through a noose ending with two black tassels is just as good looking on the head as it sounds.

Other pointed crown hats have goofy little bunches of flowers artfully attached for no good reason at all, but they are fetching little numbers with which to shock the jaded spectators who still have visions of tinsel and red ribbons lingering in their eyes.

Don't rebel against the microscopic areas of these new arrivals. It isn't any fun to wear the same sort of hat all the time. Save your weakness for cartwheel creations for summer and wear these exciting new tiny lids now while they are new and interesting.

What you will like, after weeks and months of bandeaux, are the netlike snoods that are attached instead of the ribbon or bandlike bandeaux. These snoods are part of every new hat so far. They cling and fit tighter than the bands, and besides being new they will keep your neck and back coiffure curls in neat formations.

Chicagoans at Lake Placid for Holidays

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE party of young people that left Christmas night to spend the rest of the holidays enjoying winter sports at Lake Placid must have felt as though they were doing the equivalent of carrying coals to Newcastle, for they could have stayed at home and had plenty of winter sports.

Winter sports in the Adirondacks and in flat Illinois are a bit different, however, as even the most loyal Illinoisan must admit, so probably the Chicagoans who had elected to spend the holidays at Placid felt no regret at leaving Chicago and its thick blanket of snow.

This particular group wasn't as gay a one as it might have been, however, because of the illness of their grandmother, Mrs. Mahlon Thatcher, at her home in Pueblo, Colo. Mrs. Robert C. Wheeler, who had planned to go to Placid with the young people of her family—including Robert T. Wheeler, who is a student at Yale; the former Winifred Wheeler and her husband, Henry L. McIntyre; Miss Virginia Waller, Thatcher Waller, who goes to the Choate school, and Judy Waller, who goes to the Latin school, went instead to Pueblo on Monday, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. William Waller Jr.

The Robert J. Thornes and their youngest and only unmarried daughter, Miss Narcissa, left Monday to spend the holidays at Lake Placid. Miss Thorne is studying journalism at Northwestern university and they will return in time for her to resume her studies after the Christmas vacation.

Mrs. Thorne then will put away her heavy woolens and the things she will find useful and comfortable during the next two weeks and pack some lighter weight clothing, for she is going to Arizona to visit her daughters, Mrs. George Gillespie and Mrs. Alexander B. Spence, and their husbands. The Gillespies have a ranch near Phoenix, where the Spences live.

The Marvin B. Pools of Lake Forest and their son, Philip, who goes to Hotchkiss, also had Christmas dinner at the Lake Placid club, and so did Mr. and Mrs. William Bartholomay Jr. of Libertyville and their daughter who is a student at Sarah Lawrence college.

Winter Sports Lovers Enjoy Chicago Cold.

Residents of the suburbs who enjoy cold weather and the sports it makes possible wasted no time on Christmas in planning sleigh rides or skating and tobogganing parties to take advantage of the heavy snow, and even in town, where it is more difficult to enjoy such recreations, there were a number of old-fashioned bobsleds pulled by horses in the streets near Lincoln park Wednesday afternoon. They succeeded in making it even harder for the poor motorists who were having trouble enough with deep snow and skiddy ice, but every

STAY-AT-HOMES seldom hear a really satisfactory account of the travels of their friends. At best they get only a fragmentary and dullish summary that includes the fact that the travelers were or were not seasick, that they had a lovely time, that they had some jodhpurs tailored in Jodhpur, India, and that the Galapagos Isles were a disappointment. Greatly prized, therefore, is the little booklet sent by the Donald F. McPhersons of Winnetka as a Christmas greeting to their friends, a diary of their recent voyage around the world on the Stella Polaris. "A Family Journey" the slim little blue volume is titled; "Diaries Unedited and Unimportant."

Travel Diaries.

* *

HERE is a casual and charming record containing all the things people want to know about their friends' travels. The diaries of both Mr. and Mrs. McPherson and their daughter Fanny are used in the chronicle. Thus when Mr. McPherson passed up going to dine at Government house in Bombay, Mrs. McPherson's account, as set down in her diary, is interpolated. Likewise her description of luncheon at the viceroy's in Delhi. The following excerpt, describing that incident, will, perhaps, give some idea of the informal and racy charm of the diaries:

* *

WEDNESDAY, April 2, Delhi. —We drove out to New Delhi in a decrepit but typical Indian taxicab—an American car of a vintage four or five years past. . . . Upon arrival at the entrance to the viceregal lodge it was a comfort in this strange land of loin cloths to see a company of Scotch kilties, rugged and strong, guarding the gate. As we went in we met up with mounted Sikhs on their magnificent horses, with straight backs, turbaned heads, and square bearded chins. They directed us smilingly toward the entrance, where were even bigger and better A. D. C.'s to direct us as to our social obligations. The first words were, with an eye upon the chart, "Mrs. McPherson, you will sit at his excellency's left." After a turn through the outer room and up a few steps we were shepherded to a most imposing room on the second floor designed to surpass even the magnificence of the native princes—to show the power and pomp of the British raj; a long room, splendidly proportioned and lined with portraits and busts of those Britishers whose lives had been devoted to the creation of British India. More intimate were the tables, upon which stood photographs and remembrances of friends of the Wellingdons. A charming and important room.

* *

WE found some eighteen or twenty people already there, formally standing in line. . . . Their excellencies were announced by a white and gold braided A. D. C. . . . The other women, all of whom were British, curtsied. . . . I simply shook hands, as did Fanny II. Dirty looks from Victor [Elting]. In we went to lunch—a long, sumptuous table, on which were three large silver bowls filled with pink verbenas, between which were empty silver jars—a beautiful light mahogany table top, with scanty Indian lace table covering—the plate of the choicest silver and design. On the walls were more portraits, and the chairs were backed by punkies. Through the windows at the nether end we looked over the exotic gardens to which Lady Wellingdon has given so much care.

I was seated at his excellency's left. On my left sat a rather dull Indian prince. The viceroy was delightful—genial, a most distinguished, hard working, sincere, simple man. . . . He made sport of my gaff at Bombay and my lack of respect for him that day. Said for punishment he would take me in a corner later and teach me how to curtsey. He asked about Mr. Silas Strawn and talked a great deal about Canada, where he had been governor general. . . .

* *

AND on Friday, Feb. 22, Mr. McPherson and Mr. Elting took a launch from the Stella Polaris to Apia, formerly German Samoa: A pleasant drive of eight or ten miles through the "environs" where live Germans, New Zealanders, and half castes —and many native "round houses"—to the green lane which marks the beginning of the path up the mountain to the tomb of Robert Louis Stevenson. A steep, hard climb of two miles—native boys and men pushing and pulling the softest of our troop. I puffed and sweated up. The view, before entering the jungle growth of the mountain side, might have been England or New England. The tomb, beautifully situated at the top of the hill, about 750 feet up. . . . Being an admirer of Stevenson, I was stirred by the tomb—his gallant self-composed epitaph, "The hunter is home from the hill," and the lovely one to his wife, whose ashes are there. The natives love him so that the epitaph is also in the Samoan tongue on one side. They built the road or path to his tomb themselves—forty strong—carried his casket up—a heart breaking job it must have been. I walked down alone and bathed with two or three others in a rushing stream of clear fresh water in a pool under a waterfall. The spray and the falling water and the cool depth made it one of the most pleasant spots in my memory. . . .

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

An operetta which has the music of the Johann Strausses, father and son, for its plot and the première of the "Blue Danube" waltz for its climax is blessed, at its inception, with an ideal formula for lyric entertainment. Such is "The Great Waltz," which began an engagement in the Auditorium theater last night after a year of popularity in New York. Its theme was an extremely happy idea, and its development, in staging, costuming, and performance, is brilliant.

This production is a rich and captivating blend of the charm, the romance, and the musical atmosphere of Vienna when that old imperial capital was at the height of its fame for gayety and graceful living. The story that it tells makes sense, for it comes straight out of the memoirs of the two composers from whose works the score was arranged.

Its singing is excellent; its costumes and stage pictures are sumptuous, and the whole affair, presented on an ambitious scale, is notable for its artistic mood. Much has been said about the lavishness of "The Great Waltz" as a specimen of stagecraft; about its revolving stages, its mechanisms, its fireworks display at the climax, its pageantry, and it is, indeed, an unusual example of managerial ambition. But mere bigness and showiness are the least of its virtues; it has style and taste and sustained charm as well.

This is an operetta which refuses to follow the old fashioned formulas. Its lovers are never frustrated; its Russian countess is a fairy godmother instead of a villainess; and there is no chest heaving of fake emotions in the finales. It tells a straightforward story, without the conventional excrescences of buffoonery by unnecessary wags, about the jealousy of the waning waltz king of Vienna—Johann the First—for the young man who is fated to become his successor—Johann the Second. In a word, it's a father vs. son plot, and one which makes some effective scenes of plausible drama.

Young Johann is gracefully played by Guy Robertson, always a sound fellow for lyric heroes in costume. The girl who loves him truly from his depressed music teacher days to his great night victory with "The Blue Danube" is Marion Claire of operatic achievements and winning personality, and the Viennese dresses of the 1840s make her a delight to the eye. Her singing in a rich program of solos and duets—all to Strauss tunes—is delightful. The great lady who arranges the trick which overthrows Papa Strauss and enthrones the junior Johann is Gladys Baxter, another fine operetta singer.

A ballet in the full blown classical style, prepared by Albertina Rasch and led by a clever young dancer named Vivien Fay, was as effective as an excerpt from the repertory of the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe, and was much applauded. The fireworks display at Dommermayer's garden and the concert scene of the dénouement—the "Blue Danube" début—are episodes of high spectacular value.

From Junior League Play

Hilary Maher and his cousin, Barbara Foster, will be seen in the interesting predicament pictured above at performances of "The Witch of Salem" tomorrow and on Jan. 4 at the Chicago Historical society as a part of the Chicago Junior league's children's theater season.

Hilary's mother, Mrs. Philip Maher, and her sister, Mrs. John Bitter, are the authors of this playlet, and one other, "The Pearl Diver," both of which are on the same program.

Seven Snake Specimens Added at Field Museum

Seven specimens of poisonous snakes have been added to the reptile exhibit in the Field museum. Species of the Florida coral snake, the pygmy rattlesnake, and the wide banded western form of copperhead, all found in the United States, and a Central American fer-de-lance and three types of European vipers are now included in the exhibit. The specimens are reproduced in cellulose-acetate, through a process invented by Leon L. Walters of the museum's taxidermy staf, from actual snake models. The artificial specimens retain the brilliant colorings of the reptiles better than the original skins.

FRIENDS, FOES ATTEND SCHALL FUNERAL RITES

10,000 Pass Bier as His Body Lies in State.

Minneapolis, Minn., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Honored in death by national and state political leaders, including some of those who had been his bitter foes in life, Minnesota's blind Republican senator, Thomas David Schall, was buried today in Lakewood cemetery.

He was laid to rest following a Masonic ritual, a eulogy by the Rev. Charles Fox Davis, and a volley from a National Guard firing squad.

At services in the cemetery chapel, where admission was by invitation, Senator Schall's family, 100 honorary pallbearers, and less than a hundred other close friends assembled. In the audience, seated in the second row from the front, was Gov. Floyd B. Olson.

The body of the senator, who died in Washington Sunday from injuries received when he was struck by an automobile last Thursday, arrived in St. Paul at 8:30 a. m.

It was estimated that during the day more than 10,000 persons had passed before the bier.

As the funeral was being held it was made known that tomorrow a successor to Schall's seat in the senate would be named by Gov. Olson. While the governor made no indication who would be chosen, it was expected that the appointment would go to Elmer A. Benson, state banking commissioner.

JOHN HOWLAND, ATTORNEY, DIES IN BALTIMORE

Word of the death yesterday of John Howland, attorney of Washington, D. C., in Johns Hopkins hospital at Baltimore, was received here last night by Mr. and Mrs. George A. Poole, 221 East Walton place, the parents of Mr. Howland's wife, the former Elizabeth Poole.

Mr. Howland, who was 30 years old, was an attorney for the Reconstruction Finance corporation. He was a graduate of Yale university. He had been ill of pneumonia and typhoid fever for two months.

Miss Poole and Mr. Howland were married in December, 1933, in New York City. Besides his widow, Mr. Howland is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Catherine Howland McGee and Mrs. Louise Howland Drake, and by a brother, Elihu Stanford Howland. He was a son of the late Dr. and Mrs. John Howland of Baltimore.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning in Bethlehem chapel of the Washington cathedral.

BRYN MAWR GIRL GETS CLASSICAL PRIZE OF $1,000

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—A classical prize of $1,000 was awarded by the University of Cincinnati tonight to Miss Jean Holzworth of Portsmouth, N. Y., a senior at Bryn Mawr college. The announcement was made at a dinner of the Bi-Millenium Horatianum committee of the American Classical league.

Under the stipulation of the contest contestants were required to translate one of Horace's poems into English, write an essay on Horace and Augustus and compose an original Latin poem in Horace's meter.

Miss Holzworth will be required to spend the prize during eighteen months of foreign travel, three months of which must be spent in Italy and Greece.

Anton Hallberg, 85 years old, a Chicago resident for 63 years, who died on Christmas day in his home at 7741 Indiana avenue, will be buried tomorrow in Oakdale cemetery after services at the Swedish Bethany church, Garfield boulevard and Wells street. Mr. Hallberg was born in Ganleby, Sweden. He is survived by ten children, six grandchildren, and two great grandchildren. He was a retired blacksmith.

FUNERAL SERVICE TOMORROW FOR W. ARTINGSTALL

Engineer for City Dies Suddenly at Home.

Funeral services for William Artingstall, 61 years old, a consulting engineer for the Chicago department of public works, will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow in St. Ita church, 1220 Catalpa avenue. Burial will be in Calvary cemetery. Mr. Artingstall died of a cerebral hemorrhage Christmas morning in his home at 1305 Thorndale avenue.

Mr. Artingstall was born in Chicago in 1874 and was graduated from Cornell university in 1899. He was resident engineer of the sanitary district from 1899 to 1901. The following year he was assistant chief engineer of the Florida Southern and Gulf coast railroad and later spent four years as designer for the sanitary district. In 1907 he became engineer for the city harbor and subway commission. During the world war he was an engineer for the United States Housing commission and rejoined the city as consulting engineer in 1923.

Mr. Artingstall, whose father, Samuel G., was city engineer for two terms between 1886 and 1895, is survived by his widow and six children. He was a member of the American Association of Engineers, the Western Society of Engineers, the Illinois Engineers Society and the Knights of Columbus.

SLAIN VICTIM'S BODY IS FOUND BESIDE TRACK

The frozen body of a man tentatively identified through finger prints as that of Sam Latella, 38 years old, a convicted counterfeiter, was found last night on a Chicago and North Western railroad embankment near a paint factory at 1446 West Kinzie street. He had been shot through the back of the head.

Lieut. Edward Birmingham of the Racine avenue police said the body had been lying there at least four hours when it was found shortly before midnight. He said the man had been shot elsewhere, for there was little blood in the snow and no evidence of a struggle. Police said their records showed Latella, then residing at 607 South California avenue, was sentenced to serve two years in the penitentiary at Leavenworth for counterfeiting on May 29, 1934, by Federal Judge Patrick T. Stone.

William W. Craig's Will Divides Estate of $12,000

The will of William W. Craig, assistant secretary of the Pullman Trust and Savings bank, disposing of a $12,000 estate, was admitted to probate yesterday by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge O'Connell. Mr. Craig, who lived at 119 West 112th place, was killed Oct. 20 in an automobile accident. He was 49 years old. Ten-fourteenths of the estate are bequeathed to friends and the four remaining one-fourteenth shares are left to the Chicago Home for Incurables, the Palace chapter Masonic lodge, the 111th street Y. M. C. A., and the Calumet district western division of the Boy Scouts.

News of the Radio Stations

BY LARRY WOLTERS.

The new year will bring new music to the local air lanes. Several orchestral changes are in the offing. There is considerable likelihood that Jack Hylton, the British maestro, will be on the air with his Chicago orchestra and English crew of entertainers from the Drake hotel.

If the deal goes through [it is likely to be settled this week-end when Hylton returns from a tour of one night stands], Hylton will replace Horace Heidt on the W-G-N schedules. Heidt has had a record stay at the Drake—he has been there since last May and has become extremely popular in Chicagoland.

Another W-G-N change is due the middle of January when Joe Sanders leaves the Blackhawk after a stay of seven months to make a tour of college towns. Will Osborne's orchestra, a favorite in the east, will supplant Joe. It will be Osborne's first local appearance. Ted Weems will take the place of Shep Fields at the Palmer house on Jan. 10.

There'll be several changes on WBBM's schedules, too. Henry Busse will take over the bandstand now occupied by Leon Belasco at the Chez Paree on Jan. 10. Featured with him will be Christie Wilson, whom Richard Cole brought to prominence in the south the past season, though she got her start on one of W-G-N's Midnight Flyers parties. Charlie Gaylord, with Jack Fulton Jr. as soloist, will replace Seymour Simons at the Stevens on Jan. 3. Simons will go to Milwaukee.

Phil Levant will follow Len Keller at the Bismarck and on NBC Jan. 17. Singing with Levant will be Dorothy Miller, formerly with Harold Stokes, and Larry Johnson, who also has sung on W-G-N.

Lanny Ross, Show Boat tenor, and Carol Deis of the Log Cabin revue are to be crowned king and queen of the winter carnival at Lake Placid, N. Y., tomorrow. . . . Conrad Thibault, baritone, will return to the Show Boat fold after an absence of several months next Thursday evening. And Charles Winninger, the original "Capt. Henry" of the Show Boat hour, will return to the air after an absence of many months on the Hollywood Hotel show at 8 tonight on CBS. He will re-create for the radio audience his rôle of "Capt. Andy," which he played in the Broadway production of the Edna Ferber-Jerome Kern operetta which has been adapted by the movies and is soon to be released.

Hundreds of songs, many of them theme melodies with which broadcast programs have been identified for years, will be deleted from the offerings of the National Broadcasting company, the Columbia system, and almost 100 independent stations beginning Jan. 1, it became known yesterday.

The action of the broadcasters was precipitated by the retirement of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., from its affiliation with the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers, effective Jan. 1. The tunes of music publishing concerns controled by Warners will not be played by the radio chains, and these include much of the music written by Victor Herbert, Jerome Kern, and George Gershwin.

It was this tangle which kept Fritzi Scheff from singing "Kiss Me Again," as scheduled Christmas eve.

Didn't you like Fred Allen's Christmas night gift to listeners? Ten seconds of uninterrupted silence? . . . Also, it was pleasant to hear that Lionel Barrymore has been engaged to play Dickens' "Scrooge" every Christmas day as long as he can.

Mrs. Philip Hoffmann Dies; Wife of Wilmette Banker

Funeral services for Mrs. Barbara Smith Hoffmann, wife of Philip Hoffmann, vice president of the Wilmette State bank, will be held tomorrow from St. Joseph's church in Wilmette. Burial will be in St. Joseph's cemetery. Mrs. Hoffmann, who was 65 years old and a member of a pioneer north shore family, died Wednesday in her home at 512 Ridge road, Wilmette. Surviving, in addition to the husband, are a son, Robert, and four daughters, Mrs. Thomas Baynes, Mrs. Marcus Mick, Mrs. Julia Dunning, and Mrs. Frances Fisher.

Funeral Service Tomorrow for Gustav W. Lorenz

Funeral services for Gustav W. Lorenz, 69 years old, 1463 Winnemac avenue, commission broker, a resident of Chicago for 50 years, will be held at 3:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in the chapel at 1458 Belmont avenue. Mr. Lorenz was injured fatally last Monday in Monmouth, Ill., when a taxicab in which he was riding was struck by an interurban car shortly after he had attended the funeral of his wife, Eva, in Monmouth. Surviving are two daughters and a son. Burial will be in St. Lucas cemetery.

Mrs. Anna Meyer, Sister of Lieut. J. W. Buckley, Dead

Mrs. Anna Meyer, lifelong resident of Chicago and sister of Lieut. John W. Buckley of the Sheffield avenue police, died last night in her home at 6627 South Whipple street. She was 61 years old. Surviving are her husband, Martin; a son, Joseph; a sister, Miss Catherine Buckley, and Lieut. Buckley. Funeral services will be held Monday morning at St. Rita's church.

RITES HELD FOR SIDNEY GORHAM, LEADING LAWYER

Funeral services for Sidney S. Gorham, a leading attorney and expert on municipal corporation law, were held yesterday afternoon in Emmanuel church, Kensington and Elm streets, La Grange. Mr. Gorham, who was 61 years old, died of a heart attack Monday while attending a meeting of the board of directors of the John R. Thompson Restaurant company at 350 North Clark street.

The funeral sermon was read by Dean Irvin Goddard, pastor of the Emmanuel church. Active pallbearers were law partners of Mr. Gorham in the firm of Miller, Gorham, Wales & Adams. The Chicago Bar association was represented by 28 lawyers. Among others who attended were John R. Thompson and Judges Joseph Sabath and John J. Lupe of the Superior court.

The body was cremated in Oak Woods cemetery.

SLASHES FEES ON TAX CASES IN LAKE COUNTY

Judge Perry L. Persons of the Lake county court in Waukegan yesterday initiated the use of a new power of county judges to reduce fees allowed investigators in state inheritance tax cases. He announced that henceforth the maximum fees in such cases will be $300 in Lake county.

In closing the estate of Mrs. Maria Robbins, 280 Laurel avenue, Highland Park, who died early this year, Judge Persons reduced bills of three investigators which had been allowed by Charles Noll, assistant attorney general in Lake county.

The reductions, averaging 35 per cent, affected A. C. McHenry, A. J. Sutkus, and Milton Voorsanger, all of Waukegan, who had been assigned by Noll. The estate totals $44,991 and will be divided among three children. The tax to the state is $1,699.

BAKER REFUSES WIFE ALLOWANCE AND SLAYS SELF

Fred J. Frank, 43 years old, owner of a small bakery at 5917 Princeton avenue, died last night in St. Bernard's hospital of a self-inflicted bullet wound. Frank shot himself after sending a clerk to telephone his estranged wife, Florence, 4054 West 21st place, to tell her that he would be unable to pay her the $10 weekly allowance awarded in a separate maintenance decree. The clerk found Frank unconscious at the rear of the bakery upon his return. A .32 caliber pistol was beside the wounded man.

Mrs. Frank told police her husband had been ordered to pay the allowance for support of their daughter, but that he had been negligent, often sending only $1 at a time.

SEEKS U. S. LIMIT OF 60 MILES AN HOUR FOR AUTOS

Decatur, Ga., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Congressman Robert Ramspeck announced today he planned to "propose in the coming session of congress a bill limiting the speed of automobiles to 60 miles per hour."

"This can be done by prohibiting the manufacture for shipment into interstate commerce of machines capable of greater speed, and also prohibiting the operation of such machines in interstate commerce," he said in a statement.

"I had hoped the manufacturers themselves would meet this problem, but it appears now that they will not do so without mandatory legislation."

DEATH NOTICES

In Memoriam.

CLIFFORD—In loving memory of Jessie L. Clifford, fond wife of Frank H. Clifford, who died one year ago today.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days.
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
A beautiful memory she left behind.
She had a nature you could not help loving,
A heart that was purer than gold;
And to those who knew her and loved her
Her memory will never grow cold.
FRANK H. CLIFFORD.

CLIFFORD—Jessie L. Clifford. In loving memory of our dearly beloved mother and grandmother, who passed away one year ago.
Surrounded by friends I am lonesome,
In the midst of their joy I am blue;
A smile on my face, but my heart aches,
Longing, dear mother, for you.
LOVING SON AND FAMILY.

CHOICEST FOODS WAIT NEW YEAR'S EVE REVELERS

If You Go Wassailing, Ale Kettle's Ready.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

Revelers on New Year's eve will be supplied with an abundance of the choicest foods by merchants of Chicago and surrounding towns. Delicatessen shops and special departments of general food stores are stocked up with an unusual assortment of prepared articles for jolly supper parties.

Food merchants announced yesterday that they were ready to meet the needs next Tuesday night of the young and the old who have that inherent curiosity bred into them to sit up and wait for the chimes to ring out the old and ring in the new. A veteran merchant who has catered to the needs of New Year's eve funmakers for generations says he is ready to supply the "trimmings" for any occasion.

"If they want to carry from house to house kettles or flagons filled with warm, spiced, and sweet ale, as we once did in my old country, I am ready for them," he said. "I have all the foods they'll need to go wassailing." His cases were filled with cakes, candies, crackers, cheese, sausage and pickles.

Specials for Church Parties.

Caterers have foods especially for "watch night" church parties, and for home parties where merrymakers crack nuts and roast apples waiting for the New Year to be announced. Those who want to stay out until the roosting cocks flap their wings and crow at daybreak, will find foods to munch as they go trooping from tavern to tavern in making their round of calls.

In other words, there is food in city and suburban stores and shops for all who plan to celebrate on New Year's eve whether they have innocent festivities, go calling from house to house, and serve the hosts with bits of cake and sips of sweet cider, dance in the streets, toot modern bullroarers, or fire "muskets" under windows. Many merchants are offering these special New Year's eve foods at bargain sale prices.

Few Bargains on Routine Foods.

Most of the price tags on other foods used in preparing the "regular three square meals a day" are less attractive.

Butchers still are finding it difficult to sort out the cuts for bargain counters each week-end. Down at the stockyards live stock farmers are being paid more for cattle, hogs, and sheep than they were a week ago. This already is reflected in the prices of dressed meats. Practically all dressed meats are higher than last week excepting beef, which is about the same, despite the fact that beef cattle are 25 to 50 cents a hundredweight higher. There is a plentiful supply of dressed beef which is holding prices down to about last week's level. Hogs are higher, with porkers weighing less than 250 pounds bringing 30 to 60 cents a hundred pounds more than a week ago. Fat lambs are selling at from 40 to 50 cents a hundred pounds above last week's prices, and dressed lamb is 50 cents a hundred pounds higher, according to federal reports.

Some Roasts Are Cheaper.

Beef pot and rib roasts and link sausage are among the few cuts offered by butchers at prices slightly under last week. Fresh perch is a few cents a pound less than last week in many shops, while haddock and herring are higher. Most of the other items in butcher shops are selling at last week's price level.

Green beans have about doubled in price since last week and comparatively few stores are offering them for sale. The crop was so badly damaged by cold weather in Florida that wholesale shipments have been much reduced during the last few days. Prices vary in the different stores according to the quality of the beans.

Fresh peas will be slightly higher in most stores today and tomorrow than a week ago, but wholesale prices are now showing a downward tendency. Apple prices remain low despite the holiday demand. Heavy shipments of Jonathans, Grimes Golden, McIntosh, and Delicious varieties from Illinois and Michigan, and Roman Beauties and Jonathans from western orchards have forced wholesale prices down slightly since last week.

Cranberry Prices Reduced.

Cranberries are about two cents a pound lower in most stores. Both prices and quality of fresh tomatoes are more uniform than they have been in recent weeks. Most of the tomatoes are coming from Florida, Mexico, and Cuba. Some are being shipped from hothouses in Ohio and Illinois. Wholesale prices are lower than last week.

Flour and sugar, both on sale just previous to the Christmas holiday, have been put back up to the prices of two weeks ago. The lower grades of cold storage eggs are about two cents a dozen higher than last week. Butter is down one cent a pound in most stores.

HOW TO PREPARE MEAT EXPLAINED IN NEW BOOKLET

New Points for Even Experienced Cooks.

These days every one, in true modern fashion, wants to know the latest—the very latest—about everything. Well, did you know that there are now revolutionized and simplified methods of cooking meat? No longer do you need to baste the cooking roaster.

Furthermore, roasts are placed in a moderate oven right from the beginning of the cooking period. Searing both sides of steaks and turning frequently is outmoded along with the searing of roasts! These are just a few of the interesting and practical hints in Mary Meade's new booklet, "Modern Meat Lore."

Odd Terms Explained.

If you have a hazy notion of the meaning of certain meat cookery terms—"braising," for instance—here's your chance to get quite straightened out. If you'd like to know a little more about the preparation and cookery of the various meat sundries—brains, tripe, kidneys, and so on—here are some grand tips on this rather confusing subject.

The sincere boosting of this new meat cookery book would not be quite complete without touching on a weak spot of every enthusiastic housewife—the new and interesting recipes for inexpensive cuts of meat which are also included.

"Modern Meat Lore" may be obtained by sending 20 cents, stamps or coin, to Mary Meade, THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, or pick up a copy at one of the Tribune Public Service offices, 1 South Dearborn street or Tribune Tower, for 23 cents.

CHICKEN FLAVOR ENHANCES NEW BOUILLON CUBES

BY MARY MEADE.

Not just one more idea for successful holiday hostessing today. Even though you may approve it for that, we've a suggestion that's intended as a pick-me-up for end-of-the-year cooking. And we'll tell it without coaxing. It's the use of chicken bouillon cubes in all sorts of absolutely unrelated dishes such as salads and appetizers!

A friend passed on the idea to us a couple of weeks ago, and ever since then we've been savoring brand new [to us] joys in the way of glazed canapés and hors d'œuvres, and salads, both fruit and vegetable. The delicate yet rich flavor of the chicken seemed to us particularly pleasing in these dishes, and the fact that it's introduced through the convenient, concentrated cubes makes for grand simplicity of preparation.

An avocado canapé is one you'll enjoy serving, particularly when its subtle flavor is pointed up with that of chicken. Make it like this: Crush and dissolve two chicken broth cubes in three teaspoons of heated lemon juice. Cool and mix with the mashed flesh of a large ripe avocado, adding a few grains of cayenne if desired. Spread on crisp toast circles and garnish with a small criss-cross of pimiento.

Glazed canapés always are fun. We found simple anchovy and riced egg yolk ones particularly good with the clear, jellied, chicken coating, but you undoubtedly will enjoy experimenting with others. Lay the small canapés fairly close together in a shallow refrigerator pan, and cover with a jelly made with five chicken broth cubes, two cups of boiling water, the juice of half a lemon, and two tablespoons of granulated gelatin softened in a little cold water. This is poured over the canapés after it is cold and partly congealed. After a final chilling, the canapés are separated by a knife dipped in warm water.

The same jelly may be used for another variety of glazed appetizers. To make these, place rolled anchovy fillets in the bottom of small individual molds, top with a ring of pimiento and a ring of green pepper, next a slice of hard cooked egg, and finally a small slice of tomato. Fill the molds with the partly congealed chicken jelly, chill until firm, and serve cold. Naturally, these glazed appetizers are of the sort that ask plates and forks for successful consumption.

A salad of chilled canned asparagus and grapefruit sections is perfectly delicious with a zippish chicken flavored dressing, strange as that may sound. To make the dressing, dissolve three chicken broth cubes in two tablespoons of hot lemon juice, cool, and mix with one cup of mayonnaise, a dash of tabasco, and three tablespoons of chili sauce.

The Briar Pipe

By Stuart Palmer

SYNOPSIS.

Violet Feverel is killed, apparently by having been thrown from her horse Siwash. She was taking an early morning's ride in New York's Central park. Miss Hildegarde Withers, teacher and student of criminology, helps her friend, Inspector Piper, investigate. They suspect murder. Miss Withers finds a briar pipe on the spot where the dead girl had lain. Mrs. Maude Thwaite and her husband, Rufus, are owners of the stable where Siwash is kept, and Latigo Wells, manager. Maude Thwaite desired to own Siwash. At Violet Feverel's apartment Miss Withers and Piper overtake Violet's half-sister, Barbara Foley, about to elope with Eddie Fry, Violet's boy friend and a race track gambler. Violet was divorced from Doc Gregg, and had had him put in alimony jail. Thomas, who with his wife, Mattie, are old retainers of Doc's father, Pat Gregg, comes in search of Violet. Old Mr. Gregg thinks he is going to die. Thomas shuts st feul plazi. Don Gregg had been released from alimony jail on a fake writ before his wife's death, though he has an alibi and is not held. The autopsy of Dr. Bloom, medical examiner, reveals Violet Feverel was killed by a BB bullet which hit her throat. An expert tells Miss Withers that the "murder" pipe's owner has false teeth. She buys apples with which she hopes to find who among the suspects has false teeth. Piper and Miss Withers call at the Gregg home. Pat Gregg hints there may be a second murder after the big race on Saturday at Beaulah Park. Abe Thomas admits it was he who got Don out of jail. Latigo Wells is fired from Thwaites'. The day of the race arrives. Miss Withers and Piper and all the suspects attend. Miss Withers wins on Walkby, a long shot. She knew he had been Violet Feverel's selection. After the race Miss Withers and Piper head for the Gregg home, driven there by Capt. Joel Tinker of the local police. Barbara, Latigo Wells, Eddie Fry, and Doc Gregg are there. Pat Gregg has died of a stroke, the local doctor insists. Abe Thomas had attended the race.

INSTALMENT XLI.

AN AUTOPSY DEMANDED.

"Well, that gives you a sort of alibi, anyway," Piper admitted as Thomas drew away in ruffled dignity.

"An excellent one, I should say," Miss Withers put in.

"Nobody needs an alibi!" insisted the doctor, with unnecessary heat. "I tell you, this is a natural death."

But everyone furnished perfect alibis, all the same.

Don Gregg didn't speak very clearly at first—his tongue seemed leaden and thick. Miss Withers noticed that he kept staring toward Abe Thomas. "We were all at the track—and as the doctor is willing to write a death certificate, I don't see what need there is . . ."

"You won't order an autopsy, then?" queried Capt. Tinker.

"Or course I won't!" young Gregg snapped back.

"Then I will," said the state policeman, after Piper whispered to him. The inspector said that he knew just the man to perform it. "I'll phone Dr. Bloom," he said.

"You didn't leave the house all day?" demanded the school teacher.

Mattie Thomas shook her head. "Of course not! I didn't even get up and dress. You see before Abe left he took Mr. Gregg his lunch, so I could stay in bed. I was in bed most of the day—I always sleep when I've got nothing to do."

"And nobody came here?" Miss Withers asked.

The woman shook her head. "How could they? Nobody's been to this house since the nurse left last night. If they did come they couldn't get in without ringing for me to open up . . ."

Capt. Tinker was still on the friendliest terms with the inspector, but he made it clear that this case had happened in his own bailiwick.

"I can't see enough evidences of foul play to make it worth while to hold any of these people," he told Piper. "Unless you have objections?"

"It's your show, captain."

The captain was hastening down the stairs to bring the good word to the six frightened people who waited there. The inspector was about to follow when Miss Withers beckoned to him.

"Look around this bedroom," she said.

The inspector took in the room, with its closed windows and its rumpled bed. "Looks like Mrs. Thomas was a bit slow with her housework today," he said.

Miss Withers nodded. "For a man who died painlessly and instantly in his armchair in the cupola, that bed is in quite some disorder," she suggested. It was true—one sheet looked as if it had been tied into knots.

"Oscar, this is real murder," she kept repeating. "We can only glimpse it vaguely through the smoke screen that a clever killer has thrown everywhere—but this is the real, genuine, eighteen carat killing."

"Okay, but where are the clews?" Piper wanted to know. He studied the windows carefully, but all were tightly screened. As he walked across the room, Miss Withers noticed that his shoes grated. There was a faint film of sand on the floor. On an impulse she opened the closet door, but it was empty except for a few suits of clothes. On a hanger was Pat Gregg's checkered coat and vest, which matched the trousers which the body still wore.

Without a qualm she picked the pockets, finding them quite barren of interest. The billfold held little more than an ownership card for the station wagon, some unpaid bills for horse feed, and a note scribbled on perfumed blue stationery.

It was dated a little more than three weeks previously, and signed with a flourish—"Violet Feverel."

"I hereby acknowledge receipt of $900 back alimony," it read. "Paid to me this day by Mr. Patrick Gregg in behalf of Mr. Don Gregg."

"This receipt," said Miss Withers thoughtfully, "secured his freedom for Don Gregg—for a few moments. That Feverel woman must have had a good laugh as she had him clapped back into jail for default of what alimony had piled up while he was locked in behind bars."

There was some meaning in all this, Miss Withers was sure. Her mind seemed full of disorganized, uncorrelated material. "Oscar, it's like having the first two and the last two letters of a word in a crossword puzzle. All we need to do it to fill in the blank spaces . . ."

"Yeah," agreed the inspector. "All we need to do is to figure out how any one of our suspects can be two places at the same time!" He laughed dryly. Then—"What are you staring at, Hildegarde?"

"Two places at the same time . . ." she repeated thoughfully. "Oscar, it just struck me that——"

She broke off short. With a sudden rush of ice to the back of her neck she noticed that the doorknob was beginning very softly to turn.

Her first impulse was to scream, and her second to duck down behind the bed. Paralyzed, she stood and pointed. Finally the inspector caught on. It was not in him to debate—he flung himself at the door and wrenched it open. "Thomas! What in——"

But it wasn't Abe Thomas. It was young Don Gregg—looking as if his years had come upon him all at once. There was a strange pinched look about his nostrils, and his eyes were bloodshot.

"The captain says to come downstairs," he said quickly. "Nobody is supposed to be up here until my father's body is taken away."

He held the door open, and they hurried through. At the head of the stairs Miss Withers noticed the tall grandfather's clock. It was not ticking now.

"'But it stopped short—never to run again, when the old man died'," she quoted with a shiver, staring at the inert pendulum.

Don Gregg looked at her curiously. "No, it didn't," he explained. "Thomas just came up and stopped it. Said it didn't seem decent for it to go on ticking now."

Downstairs Capt. Tinker had been thinking things out for himself. "I don't see any way that this could tie up with your murder case in the city," he said to the Inspector. "Especially on account of what Dr. Peterson says. But if you want to lend us your medical examiner, sort of sub rosa, so to speak . . ."

Miss Withers nudged the inspector, and he nodded. "I certainly do," he said.

Tinker nodded. "I'll stay here in charge until he comes," he decided. "He ought to see the body where we found it. I'll have our own coroner here at the same time, and then they can collaborate down at the mortuary in the village."

"How very cozy!" Miss Withers remarked. She was suddenly anxious to get out of this house, away from the dull stare of Don Gregg.

Well Groomed Hands Reveal the Woman as 'Thoroughbred'

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

It may be that we are letting the men in on too many of our conversations. It seems to us that they are becoming the severest critics and on things that would have escaped the eye of their masculine forbears. And we are not speaking of sissies, either.

Apropos, one gentleman of the rugged school, if ever there was one, was heard discussing women's hands with a wisdom beyond the ordinary observation of his sex. He wasn't talking of nail polishes, as you might expect. The polish was dismissed as neither here nor there. Said the rugged one: "A woman's hands tell me whether she is a thoroughbred or not, before she opens her mouth to say a word. They show character. They show sensitiveness. They show emotions. And there are certain fine skin quality and hand formation that mark the thoroughbred every time!"

We couldn't pin the observer down to a concrete exposition of what that skin quality was. But it is reasonable to assume that when he says a fine skin quality that's what is meant. We can take our cue from the definition of fine facial skin quality and what has to be done to keep it always presentable as such.

one was in holiday spirits and there were no cross words, just laughs and cries of "Merry Christmas."

Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Adams succeeded in getting a bobsled in which to take their Christmas dinner party riding and such a gay time as they had, young and old, all bundled up in everything warm that could be found in the Adams apartment in Lake Shore drive.

A group of boys, who go to the Francis Parker and the Harris schools and who are meeting every morning during vacation for supervised outdoor play, are to have a sleigh ride this afternoon, ending with hot chocolate at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Adams, whose son, Jack, is one of the group.

Miss Nancy Brown, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Edward V. L. Brown of Winnetka, has planned a sleigh ride for Sunday evening with a hot supper later at the Browns' home. She is entertaining for her guests, Miss Jane Quantrell of Bronxville, N. Y., who is a classmate of Miss Brown's at Sarah Lawrence college.

Several people are getting together groups of friends to go to the Dunham Woods Riding club tomorrow and Sunday for sleighing and skating.

Plans Winter Party at Glen View Club.

James S. Kemper Jr. was going to give a sleighing party on Sunday, too, in Barrington, but he decided yesterday that it would be more fun and not so cold to make it a winter sports party instead. He has invited a group of friends to meet at the Glen View club at 1 o'clock for luncheon and then they will skate, or toboggan, or perhaps play bridge by the fire. Young Mr. Kemper's sister, Miss Rosemary, is a debutante of the season.

All the country clubs that have skating ponds and toboggan slides are popular places now that there is plenty of snow and ice and the winter sports devotees are hoping that this weather will last at least through the holiday season. Through Jan. 19 would suit them even better, for that is the date the Norge Ski club has selected for its annual tournament on Norge hill at Fox River Grove.

Snow can be imported for the great ski slide, but it is much more pleasant for the spectators if the weather is wintry, too, and not unseasonably warm and wet as it has been for some of the meets at Norge hill.

Theater Benefit of Smith Club.

There will be dinner and after the theater supper parties galore tonight, preceding and following the benefit performance of "Anything Goes" at the Grand Opera house. The Evanston-North Shore Smith club is sponsoring the performance to raise money for its scholarship fund. Mrs. James T. Nicholson is chairman of the committee.

Mr. and Mrs. Pierce C. Ward entertained a group of subdebutantes and their beaux at dinner and dancing last night at their home in Indian Hill road, Winnetka, at a party they gave for their daughter, Peggy. Miss Ward is a student at Chatham hall in Virginia.

There are numerous parties planned for every day during the holidays, not for any one in particular, but just to extend a little holiday cheer to friends.

The Paget Cadys are giving a cocktail party at their East Division street apartment today, and tomorrow the Benson Dushanes will give an eggnog party in their Scott street residence.

Miss Peggy Hambleton will be hostess at a cocktail party today at 1530 State parkway, where she lives with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. F. Stanley Rickcords. Miss Hambleton is entertaining for the Otto Teegens of New York, who will be the guests until Monday of Mrs. Teegen's mother, Mrs. Frederick M. Schmidt.

Tonight the M. Patrick Geraghtys of East Division street will give a small dinner for the Teegens.

Walter R. Kirks Give Party Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Kirk and his son, Radcliffe, are giving a cocktail party today from 5 to 7 o'clock at the Kirks' apartment, 1500 Lake Shore drive, for debutantes of the season and their beaux. Young Mr. Kirk is a student at Harvard.

Mrs. John T. McCutcheon and her sister, Mrs. Clay Judson, will be dinner hostesses tonight in the latter's Aster street residence. Their guests will be a dozen friends of 14 year old Shaw McCutcheon and 13 year old Alice Clay Judson. After dinner the party will move to the Auditorium theater to see "The Great Waltz" opened.

Mrs. Samuel T. Chase will give a luncheon at her home in Lake Forest Sunday for the school girl and boy friends of her granddaughter, Miss Mary Boyden. Mrs. Chase's daughter, Mrs. Chase Boyden, has returned from New York, where she has spent the last two months.

A gay debutante party on New Year's day will be a buffet luncheon Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Hotz will give at their Lake Forest residence for Miss Adele Proxmire, debutante daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Proxmire. Mrs. Hotz is planning to have music so her young guests can sing or dance.

George A. McKinlock Goes to Florida.

George A. McKinlock joined Mrs. McKinlock in Palm Beach in time to have Christmas dinner with her at their beautiful villa there. Except for occasional short business trips to Chicago, Mr. McKinlock will be in Palm Beach with his wife for the rest of the winter.

The Fred A. Poors of Lake Forest already have opened their winter home at Miami Beach.

The John J. Mitchells left yesterday to spend two weeks in Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph W. Cremin are spending the holidays with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Perlitz [Genevieve Noel Cremin] in Houston, Tex. Mr. and Mrs. Perlitz have a little daughter, Noel Jeannette, who was born last Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Cremin will go from Houston to Colorado Springs for a little midwinter vacation before returning home.

The Carl Brickens and their two children are spending the holidays in California.

Mr. and Mrs. Horace B. Keeler of Cleveland and their four children are spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward M. Love, in Riverside.

The junior Alvin M. Ehrets have come from their home in Ithan, Pa., to visit her father, Clayton Mark, in Lake Forest, during the holiday season.

GASOLINE ALLEY—MORE HOME WORK

I HOPE YOU HAVE IDENTIFICATION AND SOME INFORMATION FOR ME TODAY.
I HAVE. BUT FIRST I WANT AN UNDERSTANDING.
THIS IS BETWEEN OURSELVES. IF YOU START THE POLICE OR ANY PRIVATE DETECTIVES TRYING TO FIND OUT THINGS FASTER THAN I TELL YOU, IT'S ALL OFF.
ALL RIGHT! I HEARD YOU.
DID YOU EVER SEE THAT BEFORE?
DID I? THAT'S THE IMPRESSION IN WAX OF AN INTAGLIO RING—AND IT LOOKS THE SAME AS THE DESIGN ON THE CAMEO RING THAT CAME WITH JUDY.
IT IS THE SAME. IS THAT PROOF ENOUGH FOR YOU?
YOU LET ME TAKE THIS IMPRESSION HOME. I WANT TO COMPARE IT WITH THE ONE I HAVE.

THROUGH THE LOOKING GLASS

It's with a definite "so-what?" feeling that we contemplate beach kits, anti-sunburn creams and oils that court the golden tan. There are a lot of people heading south, we suppose—but it seems too good to be true to concern poor creatures like ourself.

However, we did see one note in tips for those heading toward warm places that could apply to a lot of us any day. There is, you know, or maybe you didn't, a perfectly swell colorless liquid made by one of our great specialists in feminine beauty that absolutely puts an end to the shiny nose problem. The southbound girls will love it, since sun basking does encourage the gleaming nose—but there's no reason in the world why those of us who don't go places mightn't use it, too.

This has been created especially for the woman with a chronically oily, shiny nose—usually the problem of women with rather coarse skins that will ooze oil despite astringents. It's to be used sparingly—it even comes in a tiny bottle—but it's quite easy to use. You simply smooth a bit of it into the skin with a finger tip, then before it is quite dry dust powder on lightly. The finish thus achieved, smooth, and velvety and not at all mask-like will last for hours.

You'll find this enemy of the shiny nose in several shops, also in the beauty salon of the specialist whose inspiration it was.

WEDDINGS

Miss Susan Jane Tietgens, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernst A. Tietgens of Hubbard Woods, will be married to John Edwin Seyfried, son of Mr. and Mrs. John G. Seyfried of Evanston, at a ceremony at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Christ church chapel, Winnetka.

Kenneth Seyfried will be his brother's best man, and Miss Tietgens will have no attendants.

At 4:30 o'clock yesterday in the home of her brother and sister-in-law, State Senator and Mrs. Harold G. Ward, Miss Margaret Goodman Ward became the bride of Robert N. McCreary. The Rev. Ferdinand Ward, another brother of the bride, read the ceremony, and a supper followed for the families. The bride was given in marriage by her father, Albert J. Ward.

Dances, Still More Dances for Debutantes

The debutantes and their beaux did not stop dancing until an early hour this morning, and they will start dancing again this afternoon at teatime. But "they're only young once" is the reflection of their indulgent parents, so the merry-making goes on. The parties that occupied the young people's attention last night were a supper-dance at the Blackstone which Gen. and Mrs. Robert E. Wood gave to present to society their youngest daughter, Mary, and a dinner-dance at the Racquet club given by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hixon for Miss Frances Glore, debutante daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Glore.

The debutantes danced at teatime yesterday, too, at a party at the Indian Hill club given by Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Burnham to introduce their daughter, Miss Anne Burnham.

The Crystal ballroom at the Blackstone was not decorated elaborately for the Wood party, but it looked lovely in its simple decorations of wreaths tied with gold bows. Gen. and Mrs. Wood and the debutante received before a screen of greens flanked by American beauty roses, and Mrs. Edwin E. Tullis, Miss Wood's oldest sister, was on hand to assist in the receiving line also, because their mother unfortunately was suffering from laryngitis.

Miss Wood wore a charming gown of white taffeta brocaded in silver with silver straps across the shoulders, and she carried red camellias. Mrs. Wood wore pale blue crepe studded with brilliants. The debutante dined before her party at the Hixon dinner-dance at the Racquet club.

Because the Indian Hill club already is decorated appropriately for Christmas, and because it lends itself so well to such a party as a tea-dance, Mr. and Mrs. Burnham did not add much to the club's decorations. They placed a screen in front of the fireplace, before which they received, and the lounge was filled with flowers that had been sent to the debutante.

Miss Burnham wore a bouffant gown of pale peach moire made with a tight fitting bodice and a tiny Elizabethan collar. She carried Token roses, blue iris, and lilies of the valley. Mrs. Burnham wore cinnamon brown uncut velvet trimmed with gold metal cloth and a corsage of green orchids and lilies of the valley.

Several young women assisted at the tea tables, including Miss Esther and Miss Elizabeth Buchen, whose parents, the Walther Buchens, gave a small dinner at the Tavern club for their daughters before the Wood ball.

The Indian Hill club will be the scene of another tea-dance this afternoon when Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Harding Jr. will introduce their daughter, Mrs. Anne Dinsdale Harding. Tonight at the Blackstone Mr. and Mrs. George A. Ranney and Mr. and Mrs. James C. Hutchins will give a ball which will mark the formal debut of Miss Cornelia Ranney and which is being given for Miss Barbara Hutchins as well. Miss Hutchins' formal presentation took place at a tea at home earlier this winter.

Mrs. Robert Hall McCormick is giving a dinner-dance at the Casino tonight for Miss Ranney and Miss Pauline Palmer. The junior H. Warren Bucklers [Patty McCormick] and the Sargent Colliers [Eleanor McCormick] are here for the party, at which Miss Hutchins will be a guest also. Mr. and Mrs. Niblack Thorne are giving a dinner to which they have invited some of the young married people who will be attending the Ranney-Hutchins party.

Miss Harding and her parents will receive their young guests after 4 o'clock. Several friends of the debutante will assist at the tea tables, and a few young men, including her brother, Charles F. Harding III., will act as ushers. Miss Harding's assistants include the Misses Deborah Leonard, Mary Jean Bartelme, Julie Walcott, Katherine Bulger, Betty Crilly, Marjorie Stern, Babbs Burton, Marian Johnson, Elsie Earle, and Elizabeth and Esther Buchen. All of these young women attended school with Miss Harding, either at the North Shore Country Day or at Sarah Lawrence, where she is studying now.

Among the young men who will act as ushers are some who are students at Harvard with the debutante's brother.

Mrs. Theodore Rockwell is giving a luncheon for Miss Harding on Jan. 3 at the Indian Hill.

A group of the debutantes have been invited to a luncheon today which Miss Caroline Buck and Miss Georgina Anderson are giving for Miss Anne Burnham and Miss Evelyn Shuman.

According to CULBERTSON

CATASTROPHE.

My sympathy always goes out to the player who finds himself in that most baffling and provocative of bridge situations: opponent with a part-score makes a bid, he holds a fair hand—shall he defend or surrender?

Even with such a bidding yardstick available as the Culbertson "rule of two and three" governing defensive overcalls, it is difficult to hew strictly to the line when the opponents are about to sail blithely to a rubber on a miserable bid of one. The temptation to try and find a few useable cards in partner's hand is almost overpowering at such times. Certainly a catastrophe such as I am about to describe seems disproportionate punishment for the minor offense involved.

East, dealer.
East-West part-score 80.

SOUTH

♣ Q J 5 3

The bidding:

East	South	West	North
1 spade	Double	Pass	1 no tr'p
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

South's take-out double of the one spade bid was as good, or as bad, as any other bid he could make. Certainly, it appeared as safe as a two heart overcall with his four card suit. He could stand either a diamond or a club response from North. Whether he should have passed to East's double of the no trump is a moot point—he undoubtedly felt that the fat already was in the fire and that he might only make a bad matter worse by raising the contract.

The play was most interesting and exciting [except from the North and South point of view!]. East opened the diamond king and then made the excellent shift to the club ten. Dummy's jack covered and West won with the king, returning the spade ten. North covered and East's king won. Now the nine of clubs was led and, when dummy ducked, the seven put West in for two more club tricks. The low spade through North's 9 7 5 enabled East to run his entire suit. Meanwhile, the dummy was having considerable trouble discarding. When East laid down his fifth spade the situation was as follows:

NORTH
♠ None
♥ 7 4
♦ 6 5
♣ None

WEST
♠ None
♥ 10 9 8
♦ 7

EAST
♠ 2
♦ A J
♣ None

SOUTH
♠ None
♥ A K
♣ None

Obviously, at this point the South hand cannot discard safely. A diamond discard permits East to cash his two high diamonds. If the ace of hearts is blanked, East simply forces South into the lead, requiring a lead from the queen-ten of diamonds into his higher tenace.

Thus, North and South managed to take exactly one trick, for a penalty of 1,700 points!

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: North bid one spade. East [my partner] doubled. South bid three spades. I was vulnerable and held:

♠ 6, ♥ J 10 8 7 5 4, ♦ K 10 5 3, ♣ K 2.

I passed. Later my partner criticized me severely, saying I should have bid four hearts. Who was right?

Answer: Your partner was right. Your distribution demands a bid in response to a vulnerable take-out double. If your partner's double was sound—and you must assume that it was—you should make four hearts with ease.

Met Is Quiet; Ban Lifted on Paid Applause

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The Metropolitan Opera claque—banned by Edward Johnson, the new general manager, as perhaps the bravest gesture of the new administration, is back again, but only on a sort of semi-pro basis.

The claque, as it formerly operated, was an assortment of paid applauders.

Since the opening of the Metropolitan the silence has been golden. Too golden, it appears, for last night at the performance of "Traviata" with Charles Hackett, Elda Norena, and Lawrence Tibbett the claque was back—a little more discreet in prompting applause, perhaps—but just as noisy.

Johnson was asked about it today and he made a forthright justification, together with sundry explanations.

"The professional claque is not to be revived," said Johnson. "But if the artists themselves wish to make their own arrangements to bring in applauding parties of friends or whatever, that is all right with me."

Will the new claque pay its way?

"You bet they will," said Johnson. "This is a business institution, and there will be no passes for them."

The opera was Puccini's "Madame Butterfly," with Miss Fisher in the rôle of Cio-Cio-San, the hapless Japanese maiden who loved and lost an American naval officer.

A native of Sutton, W. Va., Miss Fisher—a petite miss in her twenties with black hair—was graduated from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music and received the fellowship of the Juilliard school in New York.

Studio Starts Work on Third by Shakespeare

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The ghost of William Shakespeare is traveling the film footsteps of the ghost of Charles Dickens, five of whose undying stories have been turned into movie successes within the last two years.

A third Shakespearean play is shortly to become a screen vehicle. This will be "As You Like It." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer is testing legs, voice, and smile for the girl who will play Rosalind.

The same studio is engaged in filming "Romeo and Juliet," with Leslie Howard and Norma Shearer. The Warner studio began the Shakespeare cycle with "Midsummer Night's Dream."

Metro studio announces that Jean Harlow's new long term contract signifies "public favor for Miss Harlow as a brownette, instead of a platinum blonde." Jean has just finished a five year contract there.

It wasn't that Mona Barrie was aboard a boat [a movie set] in a shipboard scene for "Black Gang" that made her ill, her director found out too late. The script directed that the Australian actress smoke a cigaret. She never smoked one before.

Clever Applique Quilt Achieved in 'Samoan Poppy'

Samoan Poppy.

By NANCY CABOT.

A clever applique pattern, "Samoan Poppy," is most attractive on a coverlet and not half as formidable as one would judge at first glance. The sharp fringes of the poppy are easily cut and appliqued. The alternate color arrangement of the flower is interspersed with a clever band of green simulating the leaves. The vivid color spot in the center is in violent but attractive contrast to the flower petals.

Good morning!

Well, hate to say it—but I don't think much of this one.

The whole fault lies with the banal story. The cast is a fine one and the director did his best—but there are yarns that just can't be risen above.

The action revolves round a young wife's sacrifice of herself that her husband and his family may live in the splendor to which they have always been accustomed. An influential acquaintance of the family has fallen in love with her. IF she will be his, he'll see that her husband succeeds. Her mother-in-law hounds her into selling herself—and developments develop much as you expect them to. It is all very dumb.

Miss Hopkins, Joel McCrea, et al. have my sympathy. May the new year bring them the sort of vehicles they deserve. Excellent ones!

Fears of Child Often Difficult to Understand

Especially in Near-Baby They Have Myriad Causes.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

You can't reduce human nature to a formula. Perhaps most elusive—least possible to pigeonhole—are the fears of young children.

Fears take many forms—have many origins. They are roused by one thing for one child—by another thing for another. That is to say, an experience which would frighten one child would have no effect at all upon another.

The fears that a child experiences—or I really should say, suffers—depend upon many things. The list would include such factors as his temperament; his physical condition; the conversations he hears at home and in school; the dark; noises; the situations he is involved in at home and in school and at play; the stories he hears, and books and papers he reads, and movies he sees, and radio programs he listens to.

It is our business as parents and teachers to prevent fear in our children. But that it is within our power to eliminate all sorts of fear it would be foolish to state. All we can do is our best. Prevent all the fears we can—cure others once aroused. And when we fail, wait for them to be outgrown, which they often are.

Curious enough to a mother who has not been through the mill is the fact that fears may be due to a child's physical condition. Look at this carefully as a cause if your child shows a general fearfulness—or even a specific one. Illness [chronic or violent], convalescence, operations with the use of an anesthetic, low tone, malnutrition—these things may have the indirect results of fearfulness in a child. So, in this, as in other difficulties, don't overlook the physical.

"Helping the Nervous Child" is a leaflet, fully written, which may be obtained on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope. It may help to overcome at least part of the fearfulness of your child.

12 RACKETEERS STRANGLE N. Y., DECLARES JURY

City's Business Throttled, Says Report.

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Declaring a dozen racketeers have a throttle hold on legitimate business in New York City, the special grand jury ordered by Gov. Lehman today recommended that two grand juries be set up to work simultaneously for two years if the underworld's grip on industry here is to be smashed.

The jury's report concluded three and a half months of investigation.

Real Leaders Hidden.

"Racketeering is centralized in the hands of a dozen or fifteen major criminals, most of them totally unknown to the public," the grand jury said in a report to Supreme Court Justice Philip J. McCook. "Our experience indicates that the real leaders rarely achieve public notoriety.

"They operate through lieutenants, who in turn operate through henchmen. Their activities are well disguised and the trail running to the leaders is often almost obliterated."

Because of legal advantages given them, labor unions form one of the chief instruments of the racketeers, along with fake trade associations and so-called protection organizations, the report said.

Members Forced to Pay.

Not only is legitimate business victimized by thieving leaders who have gained control of some unions but the members themselves must pay tribute in one form or another, the jurors found.

"The various legal immunities given to labor unions," the report continues, "have unfortunately made them, in a number of instances, a particularly attractive instrument for extortion and coercion by criminals.

"We have found that many labor unions and their helpless members are being mercilessly exploited by corrupt leaders and gangsters who run unions for their own profit, preying upon both business and union workers."

In three and a half months, the report pointed out, twenty-nine indictments and informations were handed up and resulted in twenty-eight convictions. Most of them were in the loan shark racket.

500 Witnesses Heard.

More than 500 witnesses were heard by the jury and several thousand more were examined by Special Prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey and his staf, the report declared. Most of this work was preliminary to catching the real heads of the preying rackets, it was explained. No effort was made merely to "harass" the rackets by bringing to trial the "small fry," who actually commit the acts of coercion through which money is extracted from business men.

Business men who are reluctant to reveal the facts of their victimization were taken to task in the report.

"Many witnesses have testified freely and have courageously done their part to further the work of the investigation," the report said.

"We have, however, been shocked by the reluctance of some business men, victims of racketeers, to give testimony.

Jury Protects Informants.

"Witness after witness has been interrogated repeatedly about matters obviously within his knowledge. Nevertheless these witnesses often have evaded questions and denied knowledge. Others who repeatedly testified they had no knowledge of the matters under inquiry finally admitted they first testified falsely and have given truthful testimony. Such witnesses have been protected and their identity kept secret."

SET 150 MILLION YEARS AS AGE OF PALISADES

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The rocks which make up the Hudson river palisades are 150 million years old, according to a scientific determination reported today to more than 500 geologists, mineralogists and paleontologists in joint annual convention here.

Rocks near Duluth, Minn., were found more than 500 million years old. In other parts of the world, rock specimens showed an age of 900 million years.

These determinations indicated that the age of the world as a planet must not be less than 2 billion years, according to Prof. Alfred C. Lane of Tufts college, chairman of a special committee on the measurement of geologic time which sat today to receive the results.

Bandit Asks for It and Gets It—Apple in the Eye

Rockford, Ill., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—"Gimme what you've got in your hands," a bandit told George Kelly, 19, early this morning as Kelly was walking home. Kelly did. An apple hit the bandit in the eye, then Kelly ran several blocks to telephone police.

CHURCH LEADERS OPEN SERIES OF MEETINGS TODAY

What religious journals are describing as "fateful days" for American Protestantism are scheduled to begin in Indianapolis today when three overlapping conferences of leadership in nearly all Protestantism convene. These meetings, which will attract many denominational leaders from Chicago, will begin with a two day national conference of theological students.

The students' meeting will merge to morrow into the opening of the quadrennial convention of the student volunteer movement which regularly attracts notables from various parts of the world. Among these notables this year are the archbishop of York, a primate of the Church of England, and Dr. Toyohiko Kagawa, Japanese evangelist.

The second day of the student volunteer convention will see the opening of a "seminar" by the federal council of churches on the Kagawa program of consumers' cooperatives.

WPA Flagman Is Killed by Train at Mishawaka

Mishawaka, Ind., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Because he failed to get out of the way of an eastbound New York Central railway train, when he signaled WPA trucks to stop, Bert Mollott, 55, a WPA flagman, was killed this morning at a crossing near here.

EDITH M'CORMICK ESTATE OFFICIALS SUED FOR $1,145,127

Suit for $1,145,127 against Newton C. Farr, as trustee of the Edith Rockefeller McCormick real estate trust, and the Chicago Title and Trust company, as executor of the Rockefeller McCormick estate, was filed yesterday in the Circuit court. The judgment sought, according to the bill, represents alleged losses to Edwin D. Krenn and Edward A. Dato, former business associates of Mrs. McCormick, through the lending of securities to the trust as collateral for bank loans.

Plaintifs in the suit are Maurice B. Rissman, representing the Sheridan-Brompton trust, and Carl M. Baldwin, a deputy for the receiver of the Columbian Building and Loan association of Cleveland, to whom Krenn and Dato assigned their interest in the trust in settlement of debts incurred during the operation of the Krenn and Dato realty company.

Against the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust the bill asks judgment for $1,145,127 and a lien on any property holdings in the trust. The bill also seeks an accounting from Mrs. McCormick's estate to determine to what extent the estate may be held liable for the losses.

Probate Judge O'Connell recently disallowed all but $73,000 of a claim for $1,261,128 brought by Rissman and Baldwin against the estate and an appeal from this ruling is pending in the Circuit court.

RED HOT BOWLDERS OF MOUNTAIN FIRE IMPERIL CAPE TOWN

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Red hot bowlders crashing down from a huge brush fire on Table mountain tonight endangered this city.

The fire, believed to have been incendiary, destroyed timber valued at more than $1,000,000 and also threatened the official residence of Prime Minister J. B. M. Hertzog. Starting on the Cape Town side of the mountain, the blaze quickly crossed to the other side and moved toward the prime minister's home.

PROF. LOVETT'S RETIREMENT SET FOR SEPTEMBER

Prof. Robert Morss Lovett of the department of English at the University of Chicago, who was 65 years old on Christmas, will not have to retire from the faculty until next September, university officials said yesterday. A university statute provides that any person reaching 65, who has been in the university service for 15 years in the rank of assistant professor or higher, must be retired at the end of the school year following his 65th birthday. Prof. Lovett's appointment does not end until September. Last spring a state senatorial committee investigating radical influences at the university recommended his dismissal. As in all cases of retiring professors, there is a possibility that Lovett may be named professor emeritus at the end of his appointment, but in that status he would not teach classes.

The Spanish Sailor

Is on the Crest of the Fashion Wave

Here's a hat that's new as new—to give a lift to spirits that are feeling an after-Christmas let-down. Note the smart square front of the crown—the satin binding that edges the brim—and the clever veil that almost persuaded us to name the hat "Domino." It's a type that's being worn at cocktail parties and for restaurant dining—and will top off the not-too-formal New Year's Eve costume with chic and distinction.

Millinery, Fifth Floor.

Vogue says—

COLLEGE MEN VOTE Slinky! Fluffy!

VOGUE sent a questionnaire to college men all over the country to get an idea how they like to see girls dressed at formals. Did Vogue reach a conclusion? No! Some said "slinky," some answered "fluffy"—so it's up to you to sound out your man and dress accordingly. Whatever type of evening costume you decide on, you'll find it here at Carson's—the very smartest and newest of its kind.

(4) The Grecian idea fits right in with preferences of the "slinky" voters. This sheer frock with its cross-over strap effect—and the pleated fullness in the waist and peplum might even win over the "fluffy" advocates. Black, red, green, white. 11 to 17. At $29.75.

(5) A black transparent velvet wrap with leg o' mutton sleeves. The men who voted "fluffy" on the frock question will go for it in a big way. Misses' sizes. Priced at $29.75.

(6) Many votes were cast for "plain . . fabric, high in front, but very low in back." This Teenya satin acetate adds a couple of long floating panels. Black, royal blue, green, white. 11 to 17. At $22.75.

(7) "Something soft and feminine," answered many. Like this chiffon frock with a ten yard skirt. Taffeta weave slip. Green, royal blue, flame, white. 12 to 20. At $19.75.

Evening Shop, Fourth Floor.

(1) "All over the country they like little jackets with evening clothes," sums up Vogue. Note the "jacket" formal shown at upper right. White with red or blue; green or red with blue. 12 to 20. At $19.75.

(2) Again the Grecian silhouette! The "Mr. Slinkies" will desert the stag line when they see this frock. A heavy sheer, in green, red, or black, with gold color. In misses' sizes. $29.75.

(3) "Nothing for us but both," replied a certain group when asked if they preferred smartness or prettiness. You'll look both in this imported print sheer. Blue or yellow predominates. 12 to 20. $29.75.

(8) A transparent velvet evening cape with shirred yoke is perfect over a slick and sinuous frock—yes, and with the fluffy type, too. Black or red, lined in white. 12 to 20. At $19.75.

(9) The Teenya bloused back wrap must be already well established in the masculine good graces—from the rate at which it has been selling. Black transparent velvet. 11 to 17. At $19.75.

PICK OLYMPIC TEAM IN GOLDEN GLOVE MEET

ASK CHECK ON ROWDYISM AT COLLEGE GAMES

Officials Give Views on Liquor Problem.

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The problem of the conduct of spectators at college sports, particularly at football games, was brought into the open today as college sport officials assembled for national conventions. Speakers at the tenth annual luncheon of the Sportsmanship brotherhood used this as their main topic and the consensus seemed to be that the only cure lay in educational work.

Dr. William Mather Lewis, president of Lafayette college; Dr. Marvin A. Stevens, football coach at New York university; Walter Okeson, chairman of the football rules committee, and Capt. Frederic Snyder, introduced as an authority on secondary school education, were the speakers and they touched on everything from excessive drinking to the departure from these shores of the Lindbergh family.

Conventions Open Today.

The latter came into the remarks of both Dr. Lewis and Capt. Snyder, neither mentioning Col. Lindbergh by name, but both using this recent development as an alarming indication that something should be done about the rising lawlessness in the country.

The luncheon was a preliminary to the start tomorrow of the annual conventions of the National Collegiate Athletic association, the American Football Coaches, the Student Health association and the physical directors, who are to open their conventions with a joint session tomorrow afternoon.

Dr. Lewis entitled his address "Drinking at Football Games" and discussed the problem from the admitted viewpoint that a noisy minority were making things unpleasant for the decent majority and even going so far as to invade the playing field under "artificial stimulus." In common with the other speakers, he laid most of the blame at the door of those who did not belong to either the graduate or undergraduate body of the colleges concerned and suggested that newspapers refuse in the future to deal humorously with such episodes as the entrance on the field during the Princeton-Dartmouth game of a spectator.

Dislikes Humorous Comment.

"Too many acts of lawlessness are excused as college pranks." He said in part, "much humorous comment was printed concerning a spectator who rushed into the line at the Dartmouth-Princeton football game last fall, and as a natural result it is reported that the same action was attempted by publicity seekers in various parts of the country the following Saturday. Public sentiment of the right kind can be created through the press; by means of well devised notices in football programs; by prominently displayed signs along the approaches to the stadia; and most of all by personal activities of those who recognize football for what it is—a great sport for red blooded people.

"The situation is not out of hand. The great majority of students, alumni and general public who attend football games behave themselves in a way that reflects credit upon their intelligence and courtesy. All that is needed is to stir up a positive attitude among them to the end that what we like to think of as American spirit of fair play and good sportsmanship may be protected and developed to the highest degree."

Okeson went back over the early history of the game, when there were no stands and no rowdyism of today's type. He said he felt this was due to the fact that the spectators of those days cared more for the game itself than do many of those of today.

SPEAKS FOR OFFICIALS

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Contending that the recognition of football officials has not been commensurate with other developments of the game, William R. Crowley, retiring president of the Eastern Association of Intercollegiate Football Officials, today suggested five steps toward improvement of the condition.

In the course of his message to the delegates at the annual meeting held at the Hotel McAlpin, President Crowley asked for representation on the rules committee, assignment of officials and payment by the official organization, a fifth official at games and a check on the so-called blacklisting of officials.

Pointing to the strides made by football as a revenue producer, the speaker said:

"Here in New York the meeting between Notre Dame and Army drew 80,000 to the Yankee stadium, and while the men who officiated received a total of $300 in salaries and $30 in expenses, the two schools divided a $350,000 purse.

"Thus far the recognition of the part played by officials in making the game the magnet it has become has been incommensurate with the expansion of the game."

PURDUE SCORES 44 TO 43 VICTORY OVER CALIFORNIA

College Basketball

YESTERDAY'S RESULTS.
Purdue, 44; California, 43.
Pittsburgh, 57; Vanderbilt, 32.
Colorado College, 23; New Mexico Mines, 25.
Puget Sound, 41; Gonzaga, 39.

Lafayette, Ind., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Capt. Bob Kessler, Purdue forward, after having a difficult time locating the basket almost all evening, came through in the pinch here tonight to score an amazing field goal that gave the Boilermakers a 44 to 43 victory over California in the closing minutes.

Kessler, who had missed eight of ten free throw chances and scored only two field goals, followed in one of Jewell Young's shots for the winning joints just when Purdue fans had settled down to accept defeat. Kessler took the ball in a wild scramble directly under the basket, shot with his left hand as he fell to the floor, and scored a seemingly impossible field goal.

Bears' Height Bothers Purdue.

Purdue did not look like the well-oiled scoring machine that routed Notre Dame last Monday, and the Boilermakers had difficulty in passing over the heads of the tall California players.

Jewell Young, sophomore forward, provided the spark that made Purdue's comeback possible after the Boilermakers had trailed, 43 to 38, with three minutes left to play. Young dropped in two field goals in rapid succession to cut the margin to one point, and then came Kessler's sensational follow-in of Young's attempt. Young captured high point honors of the evening with fifteen points on seven field goals and one free throw.

Boilermakers Lead at Half.

Purdue led at the half, 22 to 17, but California came back strong to grab a 26 to 23 lead with five minutes of the second half played. The Bears also were leading midway of the half, 33 to 28, and 41 to 36 with five minutes left.

Luce, a substitute forward, and Capt. Olson were the big shots for the Pacific coast quintet, scoring 10 and 9 points, respectively. The Bears lost three men on personal fouls late in the game when Olson, Carlisle, and Herwig were sent to the bench with four each.

LEAVENS WINS TWO MATCHES IN TENNIS TOURNEY

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Donald Leavens, top-seeded player from Northwestern university, led the parade of favorites today as the national junior and boys' tennis tournament got under way at the Seventh Regiment armory with more than 150 players competing in the two divisions. Leavens won his second-round match from William Cullen Fay of the University school, Pittsburgh, 6-0, 6-2.

Isadore Bellis of Central High school, Philadelphia, upheld his top ranking in the boys' tourney. Bellis disposed of Jack Townsend of the Lawrenceville [N. J.] school, 6-1, 6-2, in the first round match then came back in the afternoon to conquer Joseph Greenberg of New York, 6-0, 6-2.

The only seeded player beaten in the boys' division was Alan Fleming of East Orange, N. J., who was fifth on the list.

Young Skaters Must Report Early Jan. 11

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The hours during which all contestants must report for their preliminary Silver Skates races at Garfield park on Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 11 and 12, have been set by the committee in charge. Three age classes—the boys' midget [under 12 years of age]; boys' juvenile [12 and 13 years of age], and boys' junior [14 and 15 years of age], must report on Jan. 11.

These contestants should report to the clerks between the hours of 11 a. m. and 1 p. m. The first preliminary race will start approximately at 2 o'clock. These preliminary races will narrow the fields to the championship Derbies which will be held the next afternoon. All preliminary winners will receive gold medals and each contestant will be awarded a souvenir bronze button.

First Race Starts at 1 o'Clock.

On Sunday, Jan. 12, all contestants, in addition to the finalists determined the previous day, must report at Garfield park between the hours of 10:30 and 12:30 o'clock, and the first preliminary race will start at 1 o'clock. The age classes which report for the first time on Sunday include the following: Boys' intermediate [16 and 17 years of age]; men's senior [18 years of age and over]; girls' junior [under 16 years of age], and girls' senior [16 years of age and over].

These contestants also will receive gold medals if they win preliminary races.

Several letters have been received, with the early list of entries, in which contestants asked various questions. Several boys and girls in the younger age groups wanted to know the location of Garfield park. The lagoon where the races will be held is bounded on the west by Hamlin avenue. Washington boulevard's curving path through the park is the southern boundary, Madison street cars and the Lake street [Oak Park] elevated are the best forms of transportation, in addition to the Washington boulevard bus line.

Don't Forget to Register.

All contestants 16 years of age and over must register with the Illinois Western Skating association. This registration, however, can be made on the day when the skaters report. Younger contestants do not have to register. The Illinois Western Skating association has granted a sanction for these Silver Skates derbies.

Jacobs, Defamer of Cuba, Draws Fine, Suspension

HAVANA, Dec. 26. — (AP) — Mike Jacobs, New York boxing promoter, was suspended for six months today by the Cuban boxing commission for failure to fulfil contracts in connection with the canceled Joe Louis-Isidoro Gastanaga bout and was fined $500 for defamation of Cuba.

Louis and Julian Black, his manager, also drew six month suspensions for failure to comply with a contract signed on Nov. 25, 1935.

The commission took formal action today because its contract with Jacobs provided he present to the commission today a list of the participants to fight here Sunday. His failure to provide the list was considered a breach of contract.

Jacobs, who visited Cuba last week to see what the "political conditions" were, announced a postponement to Feb. 2, then after his return to New York announced the fight had been canceled. He said he had been met by men carrying machine guns when he arrived here "just to convince me, they said, that everything was harmonious and peaceful."

The charges against Jacobs were absenting himself from Cuba without fulfilling his agreements with the Cuban boxing commission, defamation of Cuba in his statements to American newspaper men, and lacking seriousness in his transactions as a promoter.

Four closely contested games and four of the one-sided affairs familiar to first rounds of tornaments marked the opening day of competition in the University of Chicago's holiday meet for prep basketball teams at the Midway fieldhouse yesterday. Three of the eight victories were scored by two point margins and another was by an advantage of four points.

Teams winning their way to the second round were Marshall, Austin, and Foreman of the west section of the City league; Farragut, Englewood, and Lindblom of the central section; Hirsch of the south section, and Lake View of the north.

Other Teams See Action Today.

Sixteen other teams, the lower half of the bracket, will swing into action today, and all winners will meet in the second round tomorrow. Outstanding teams in yesterday's round were Hirsch, third place winner last year, Englewood, Farragut, and Lindblom.

Marshall's victory over Sullivan and Foreman's triumph over Senn were hectic overtime affairs that had the crowd of 1,800 roaring.

Pelc, Bowles, Seaborg Connect.

Scoring leaders for the day were Pelc, Farragut; Bowles, Englewood, and Seaborg, Lake View, each with seven baskets and two free throws for 16 points. All of Austin's 32 points in its victory over Amundsen were scored by three men, Anderson, Hansen, and Vitacco.

Morris Marcus, Marshall High school forward, drew the biggest cheer of the day during the hectic overtime finish of the Marshall-Sulli-

IF WEIGHT DOES IT, DEAN'S NEW MAT CHAMPION

Has 100 Pound Edge on O'Mahoney Tonight.

The Card

Jim Browning vs. Ray Richards.
Pete Mehringer vs. Orville Brown.
Hans Steinke vs. Lou Plummer.
Pat Murphy vs. Andy Rascher.
Bobby Bruns vs. Big Bill Beth.
[Each of these bouts is set for one fall or 30 minutes.]

Dan O'Mahoney's well wishers will trek to Chicago Stadium tonight hoping for the best, but expecting the worst when the heavyweight wrestling champion meets Man Mountain Dean in a bout scheduled for one fall or 90 minutes. At the same time Dean's followers have reached the conclusion that the 317 pound bewhiskered challenger will win and everything is over except the shouting.

Whether or not the expressed fears of O'Mahoney's backers and the confidence displayed by partisans of the Man Mountain are based on fact or supposition will be learned tonight. Blasé wrestling authors appear deaf to these opinions, holding to the old saying that "seeing is believing."

You'll Be Entertained, Folks.

They doubt that O'Mahoney will bow in defeat for the first time in more than fifty bouts in which he has engaged since he arrived in this country from Ireland last December.

Much ado has been made over the fact that O'Mahoney will be outweighed approximately 100 pounds. To fans unversed in the ways of modern wrestling this disadvantage is expected to prove too great for the champion to overcome. It probably will do no good to remind these fans that Dean is, after all, a subordinate in the troupe which is headed by Dan. For these mat followers wish to be entertained. And they are fairly certain they will be entertained by Dean.

Stadium Expects 8,000.

Consequently Stadium officials are expecting 8,000 to brave cold weather to see the spectacle. A gathering of this size would net about $12,000, thus leaving a financial profit for all concerned. If this sum is realized O'Mahoney's 32½ per cent will earn him $4,100 while Dean will receive $2,400 for his 20 per cent. In that event both men will be paid at least 100 per cent more than the purses they received after their most recent Chicago visits. The champion got $1,677 for his match against Chief Little Wolf Nov. 25. Dean received $1,228 for his encounter with Hans Steinke Dec. 9. Both matches were presented at the Stadium.

Five Supporting Bouts on Card.

There will be five supporting matches, each of which is booked for thirty minutes. Jim Browning, who lost his claim to the heavyweight championship to Jim Londos last year, will meet Ray Richards, Chicago Bears' football player, in the semi-final. Pete Mehringer, member of the Chicago Cardinals, will tackle Orville Brown of Detroit. In other encounters Hans Steinke will oppose Lou Plummer, Pat Murphy is matched with Andy Rascher, and Bobby Bruns will hook up with Big Bill Beth.

O'MAHONEY PINS PLUMMER.

TORONTO, Ont., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Danno O'Mahoney, 222, of Ireland, generally recognized as heavyweight wrestling champion, defeated Lou Plummer, 232, South Bend, Ind., in two straight falls tonight after taking a severe jolting in a fall from the ring. O'Mahoney was on the bottom when both grapplers tumbled through the ropes trying for the first fall, but he came back to win the fall in 16:03, then took the second in 13 minutes.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

ALL-AMERICA TEAMS.

COMMENTING on the "First All-Americans" as published recently in The Wake, writes Helper Harry W. Wilson, "while it is true that Caspar Whitney was the originator of the All-America idea and released his first All-America selection [a full team with eight substitutes] in 1889, he was assisted by Walter Camp, who perfected the plan.

WALTER CAMP.

"That partnership continued until 1895," continues Mr. Wilson, "when Whitney and Camp disagreed and Camp joined the force of Collier's Weekly and his first All-America selection appeared in 1898. From that time until his death in 1925, he was accepted as the definit All-America arbiter as well as the "father of football" because of his early days of connection with the sport at Yale.

"When releasing his 1924 All-America, Camp remarked that 'since every section of the country now produces numerous football players of outstanding ability, it is useless to continue the All-America idea, as no one man, or group of men, can pick a satisfactory All-America selection.'

"Wholesale All-America selections now are common, with the result it is an empty honor and, as THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE has said, 'it serves only as routine reading matter for those who care for that sort of thing.'"

Mr. Wilson is of the opinion, however, that "there should be an exclusive All-American annual selection—first, second, and third teams—as an incentive to top off the football season."

"This arrangement could be brought about by the selection of an All-America committee appointed by the National Collegiate Athletic association, such committee to be the eight district members of the football rules committee, which would receive from the coaches applications of players whom they thought eligible for the high honor, between Dec. 1 and 15.

"This committee would then sit in convention at the annual meeting of the rules committee and make honor roll selection and release it to the press."

* *

Unusual All-Americas.

The Wake recalls at least two most unusual All-America selections. One was of a Nebraska star who had been graduated the June previous to his choice.

The other placed two Atlanta, Ga., high school boys on the roll. The picker knew Georgia Tech had two stars whom he wished to honor. He knew their position but not their names. In looking at an Atlanta newspaper for the names, a high school lineup was mistaken for the Tech lineup. At least, explanation at the time so stated.

Knew What It Contained.

An Evanston girl was married last summer ahead of schedule to the surprise of her family and friends. So this Christmas the family decided to send the chest of flat silver so often presented as a wedding gift.

In a long distance call of holiday greetings from Washington, D. C., the young matron informed her family, "The Christmas box came and we just knew what was in it so we've placed it in the refrigerator until tomorrow."

Dad's Christmas Gift.

A dad of our acquaintance is indulgent to his family and always very generous at Christmas. So Mrs. Dad decided to give him something really worth while. Hearing some friends talking of the supposedly swanky valets, she ordered one, sight unseen, made to order, at a fancy price.

A valet—if you don't happen to know and we didn't until we saw it—is a sort of glorified coat hanger with cross-bar for trousers, a place at bottom for shoes, standing on up-

TRIALS CLIMAX TRIBUNE EVENT OPENING FEB. 11

BY ARCH WARD.

The world's greatest boxing festival, the Golden Gloves tournament, has taken on new importance. Its winners this season will stand as America's representatives in the Olympic games.

THE TRIBUNE'S annual meet, which will begin in February and end in May, will be climaxed by nation-wide competition that will determine the personnel of Uncle Sam's fighting forces at Berlin.

The American Olympic boxing committee has authorized this department to conduct a national Golden Gloves tournament which will attract the strongest and bravest of the country's youth from the Atlantic to the Pacific and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian border. The Olympic trials will be held at the time THE TRIBUNE usually presents its international bouts.

Proceeds to Finance Trip.

Net proceeds of the national Golden Gloves tournament will be turned over to the Olympic fund to finance the trip of the American fighters to Germany. Only the best of the nation's amateur boxers will appear in the Chicago show. They will be the survivors of important tournaments, such as the national intercollegiate meet, the National A. A. U. eliminations, Army and Navy bouts and Chicago's own Golden Gloves tournament.

A young man who enters THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE tournament and wins a title will be eligible automatically to compete in the national Golden Gloves meet in May. He will not be required to prove his merit by fighting his way through any other competition.

THE TRIBUNE tournament, which last year attracted 9,500 entries in Chicago and 40 out of town centers, will begin in a few weeks. Among the newcomers in the Golden Gloves ranks will be the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, Cincinnati Post, Oklahoma City Oklahoman, Kenosha Evening News, Cedar Rapids Evening Gazette, Terre Haute Star Tribune, Evansville Courier and Journal and Huntington, W. Va., Advertiser.

Chicago Dates Listed.

Fighting in some of the out-of-town centers will get under way the latter part of January. Announcement of the dates of Golden Gloves is like touching off a powder mine because the boys want those gloves, they want the medals, a place on the Chicago team that fights New York and, above all, a trip to Berlin and the Olympic games.

Intercity Bouts March 23.

The survivors of Chicago's four qualifying meets will mix with the champions from all of the out-of-town centers at Chicago Stadium on Feb. 24, 25, and 26. This competition will reduce the field of four in each division. The boys who come through successfully will battle it out at the Stadium March 6 for the championships of that vast area known as Chicagoland. The ninth annual intercity matches will be fought in Madison Square Garden, New York, March 23.

Reports of increased enthusiasm for Golden Gloves are coming in from Cleveland, winner of the team trophy last year; from Detroit, Minneapolis, Nashville, Omaha, Indianapolis, Milwaukee, Davenport, Peoria, Grand Rapids and scores of cities which have been sending their champions to Chicago for several years.

It will be surprising if out of the tournament do not come rivals for the honors now held by Joe Louis and Barney Ross, who began their climb to fame and fortune in Golden Gloves.

JOCK M'AVOY SAILS FOR HOME TO VISIT CHILDREN

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—Jock McAvoy, British middleweight and light heavyweight champion, came down with a case of homesickness today with the result he and his wife sailed unexpectedly for home on the Ile de France.

The McAvoys plan to spend two weeks visiting their three children in England before returning to this country where Jock hopes to get a chance at John Henry Lewis' world's light heavyweight crown. In his only two appearances here, McAvoy outpointed Al McCoy and knocked out Babe Risko, the middleweight titleholder, in the first round.

STADIUM TO HOLD SECOND ROUND OF BOXING TOURNEY

Heavyweights Will Clash Next Thursday.

The second round of Chicago's heavyweight elimination tournament will be held at the Stadium next Thursday, it was announced yesterday. Plans to hold the tournament, which started at the Coliseum earlier in the month, on Jan. 3 were dismissed because a basketball game involving De Paul and Indiana is scheduled on that date.

Survivors of the first round, including Billy Treest, Harry Thomas, Art Sykes, Babe Davis, Johnny Erjavec, and Frank Androff are expected to appear, in addition to several newcomers. The newcomers include Hank Bath, Fort Morgan, Colo.; Al Stillman, St. Louis; Jerry Johnson, New York, and Frank Connelly, Boston. These candidates will be paired in eight matches which will comprise the card, two at four rounds and six at six rounds.

Ticket prices include a block at 50 cents, the first time fans will have an opportunity to see a professional show at the Stadium at that price. Ringside seats will sell for $2 each.

Elzie Green, Savoy Athletic club, and Joe De Pasquale, Madison Square loop gymnasium, will appear in two contests at five rounds which will top the amateur card tonight at the Madison Athletic club, 4711 West Madison street. Green will be opposed by Clifton Foy, Northwest gymnasium, and De Pasquale will clash with Phil Saeli. James O'Brien and Frank Notto are expected to meet in one of five preliminary engagements.

Everett Rightmire, the Sioux City boxer, was given a rest yesterday from drills for a twelve round featherweight elimination encounter with Winfrid Mullins, Vincennes, at Marigold Gardens Monday. Manager Tommy O'Loughlin ordered the respite when Everett weighed less than 126 pounds, the agreed weight for the bout, after a workout Wednesday. The fighter will resume workouts this afternoon.

Supporting bouts to the windup between Al Williams and Charles Grubmyer on the wrestling program at White City Monday were announced yesterday. . . . Rudy Kay is paired with Al George, Tiger Nelson will face Faro Renaldi, Charley Peterson is matched with Jim Landis, and George Schwab will meet Stanley Novak. . . . Hayden Stuhley, Kewanee middleweight, left yesterday for Round Lake, where he will establish training quarters for pending conflicts. . . . It is indicated that a proposed show at Cicero stadium New Year's afternoon will be canceled. . . . Otis Thomas, former Chicago Golden Gloves champion, is prepping at Trafton's gymnasium for a headliner against Frank Vogel, Rockford, at Janesville, Wis., Jan. 13. . . . George Engel, Plymouth, Ind., welterweight, has opened training at Madison Square gymnasium. F. M.

STEVENSON ADDS TO LEAD; RIDES 4 MORE WINNERS

New Orleans, La., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Charley Stevenson, 19 year old Boise, Idaho, jockey who a year ago was almost unknown to the turf, practically clinched 1935 riding honors today when he rode four winners at the Fair Grounds.

This enabled Stevenson to run his total number of victories for the year to 200. Meanwhile, his nearest rival, Wayne Wright of Rexburg, Idaho, again went without a winner at Tropical Park in Florida, and found himself trailing the young apprentice by eleven with only four days of competition remaining.

Stevenson was up on the winners of the first two and the last two races at the Fair Grounds today. He took the first with Mrs. H. Pearson's Miss Twinkling, the second with E. K. Bryson's Mullet, the sixth with Mrs. A. J. Schuetze's Sleepy Joe and final event with W. T. Lowe's Big Torch.

With the exception of Mullet, held at 2 to 1, all of Stevenson's mounts paid good prices. Sleepy Joe returned $9.60 straight, Miss Twinkling $14.20, and Big Torch $38.80. Stevenson also was in the money in two other races.

ROLLER SKATERS RACE ON AND ON AT COLISEUM

Nationally known roller skaters are listed in the 24 teams and three solo skaters going into their third day in the transcontinental roller derby at the Coliseum. The speedsters are dashing across the country from San Diego, Cal., to New York in an effort to break the record of 42 days. The skaters and the way they are paired follow:

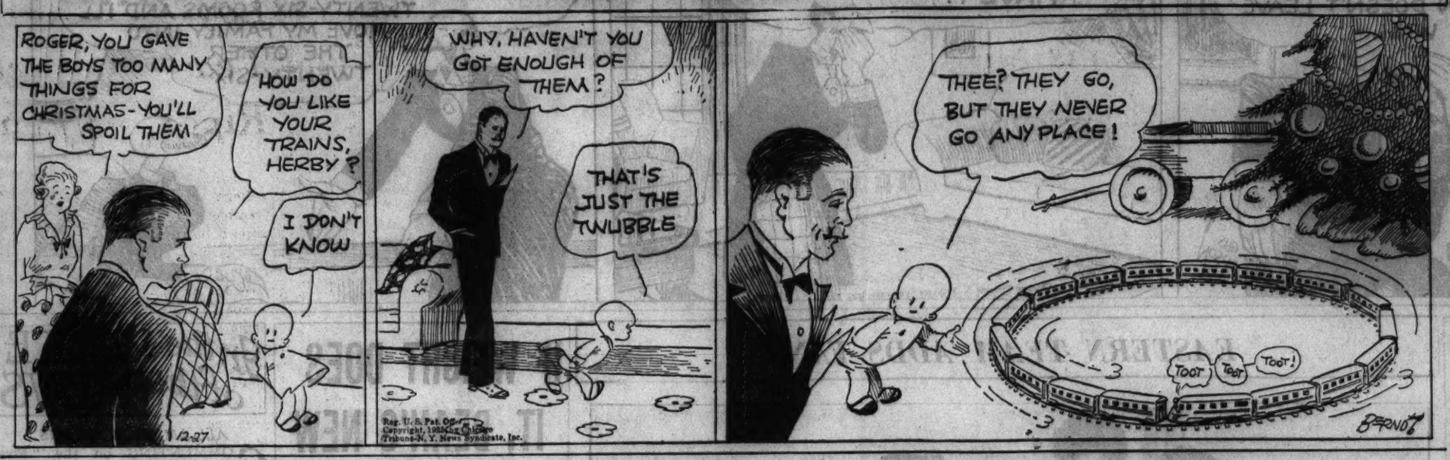
Coucci Suffers Eye Injury; Cancels Riding Dates

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Because his eye was injured when he was struck in the face by a flying clod during yesterday's inaugural race meeting at Santa Anita Park Jocky Sylvio Coucci canceled all engagements to ride today. Physicians said he might be able to resume riding tomorrow or Saturday.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES—FINE WAY TO TREAT A GUEST

SMITTY—ROUND TRIP



Charges Five Hocky Teams with Stalling

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Manager Jack Adams of the Detroit Red Wings, ire aroused by the unusual number of tie games his players have encountered this season, said tonight he had served notice on five National Hocky league squads they must play an offensive game here or the Wings will "cease to furnish entertainment" for their home game crowds.

Adams declared the Toronto Maple Leafs and the New York Rangers were the only members of the league that had played an open game on Detroit ice.

Notifies Five Teams.

"The rest of them just laid back and hoped for a break," he said. "From now on, we give the fans of those cities the same kind of hocky their clubs give ours."

He named the Chicago Blackhawks, Boston Bears, New York Americans, Montreal Maroons and the Canadiens as the clubs he had notified.

"They'll play open hocky or else," he declared. "We will play open hocky at home as we have all season. Anybody can play defensive hocky because it isn't hocky.

Easy Job for Goalie.

"If necessary," he added, "when we go to Chicago New Year's night, I'll put all six men in front of the goal and let them stand there and knock out pucks."

Adams was particularly incensed over the Blackhawk-Red Wing game here last night, in which Goalie Normie Smith of the Wings had only 12 saves, two of them long, looping shots from well up the ice. The Hawks converted two second period rushes into goals to beat the Detroit team, 2 to 0.

HAWKS DRILL AT DETROIT

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The Chicago Blackhawks, who handed the Detroit Red Wings their first home defeat of the season last night, remained here to make use of the Olympia arena ice for practice sessions today and tomorrow in preparation for their clash Sunday night in Chicago with the New York Rangers.

Despite the victory, the Hawks' first since they beat the Boston Bruins in Chicago on Dec. 8, they remained in third place. The Rangers, who also won Wednesday, tied Detroit for the lead. Unless the Rangers defeat the Maple Leafs, whom they play at Toronto Saturday night, Sunday's game in Chicago will be a battle for undisputed possession of second place, or perhaps a tie for first should Boston defeat the Red Wings at Detroit the same night.

Good Christmas Gift.

In commenting on the Hawks' victory over Detroit, Manager Loughlin said it was about the best Christmas package a club in a bad slump could possibly receive, and to shut out the Red Wings while the Rangers were shoving the Boston Bruins deeper into the cellar provided reason for a lot of rejoicing.

"The showing of Johnny Gottselig was a high spot of the game," Loughlin said. "The score Johnny made in the second period unassisted earned him a lot of applause. As a solo play, it was about the slickest stick handling seen in Detroit this season.

Praises Defense Lines.

"As the penalty box records show, the game was a rough affair and a lot of praise should be given the new defense lines. The Coulter-Wiebe and the Levinsky-Burke combinations had to take a lot of jolting to withstand the power plays of the Wings when the Blackhawks were shorthanded."

After tomorrow morning's workout, the Blackhawks will depart for Chicago, arriving at 8:40 in the evening.

Six Football Teams on 124th Armory Card Jan. 1

Six semi-professional football teams will play in the "Army Bowl tournament" on the only regulation indoor gridiron in the world, the 124th field artillery armory at 52d street and Cottage Grove avenue, on New Year's day. Our Lady of Grace, Cook county champion, will meet the Winkler Motors, Midwest league winners, in the feature game. The Oak Park Senators, suburban champion, play the Winiecki Packers and the Ringa Boosters from Elmwood Park oppose the Edgewater Roamers in the other games.

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The Montreal Maroons tonight defeated the New York Americans, 2 to 1, before 2,000 to gain sole possession of second place in the National Hocky league's international division. Both Montreal goals were scored in the second period.

Russell Blinco, Montreal center, opened the scoring when he broke away while his team was short handed and beat Goalie Roy Worters easily. Gus Marker took a pass from Allan Shields for the second Maroon tally.

Harry Oliver scored for the Americans early in the last period when he took Hal Cotton's short pass and slid the rubber past Goalie Billy Beveridge. Baldy Northcott, Montreal wing, was in the penalty box at the time.

The Americans played without Carl Voss and Tommy Anderson, who were injured recently. Lineups:

LEAFS WIN, 2-0

Montreal, Que., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The Toronto Maple Leafs, leaders of the international division of the National Hocky league, scored their third straight victory over the cellar dwelling Montreal Canadiens tonight, 2 to 0.

The brilliant goal tending of George Hainsworth kept the Canadiens scoreless while the Leafs, held in check most of the time, made their comparatively rare shots count.

An uproarious demonstration by the crowd held up the game for more than 20 minutes in the third period. The ice was littered with coins, empty bottles, and papers, and only an addition to the police guard in that sector made it possible to continue the game. The trouble began early in the third period when Referee A. G. Smith ruled off Walter Buswell, Canadien defense player, for tripping Bill Thoms.

BARNES TO MEET VINES HERE IN PRO TENNIS SHOW

After a lapse of two years, Bruce Barnes of Austin, Tex., will be back in the regular professional tennis lineup and will be a member of the troupe that George Halas presents to the public at the International amphitheater the night of Jan. 15.

Barnes has been a professional since graduation from the University of Texas. He was college champion in 1929. He joined with Bill Tilden the next year. Barnes is the hard losing type of player. He plays every shot to win and regards no placement as impossible.

Time, 1:12 2-5. Two dollar mutuels paid: Laughing Sun, $7.80 straight, $4.80 place, $2.60 show; Colonel Ed, $3.50 place, $2.40 show; Silver Fleece, $2.20 show. Winner, ch. g., 3, by Sun Edwin-Laughing Lady. Owner, Mrs. W. Plunkett Stewart. Trainer, G. M. Odom.

LAUGHING SUN handled his weight well, ran into lead early, showed excellent speed and held on gamely. COLONEL ED broke well in motion, followed pace and was nearer for the winner down. SILVER FLEECE, on the outside all the way, made a game effort. CHANCE KING made a good effort. FOREIGN LEGION came from far back.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Three year olds and up. Purse $500. Net value to winner, $375; second, $75; third, $40; fourth, $10.

FOXIANA much the best. She raced SCOTCH QUEEN into defeat early, drew away and was only galloping at end. HURRAY was kept well out in the middle of the track and finished fast. BELLE FILLE closed ground gamely. SCOTCH QUEEN had speed for half a mile, then stopped badly. CHANCELL ran well for five furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Three year olds and up. Purse $500. Net value to winner, $375; second, $75; third, $40; fourth, $10.

GALLANT MISS, displaying a world of speed, made DARK MISSION stop, then gamely stalled off the bold bid of TREASURE SHIP. The latter came with a rush on the inside. DARK MISSION had speed for seven furlongs, then tired. STAR FIRE closed a big gap.

STANFORD TEAM REACHES BOWL; MOSCRIP READY

Methodists Head West; Practice in Arizona.

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Stanford's football squad came back to the Rose Bowl gridiron today for the third successive year—resolved to break a New Year's day losing streak at the expense of Southern Methodist.

Coach Tiny Thornhill brought 20 players here this morning and united them with the 18 members of the squad who arrived for Christmas. With him came Monk Moscrip, star end, determined not to let a lame knee keep him out of the Mustang contest.

"Ive tried out my injured knee and I'm sure it will hold up during the game," he said.

Tiny Likes the Odds.

The fact his team was on the short end of the betting odds was anything but discouraging to Coach Thornhill. He liked it. His teams were unlucky as favorites in 1934 against Columbia and last New Year's day against Alabama's Crimson Tide.

Thornhill scouted the Southern Methodists in their Texas Aggies game the week after they were chosen for the Rose Bowl game.

"They have a fine, fast team and it is up to us to play better football than we have in other Rose Bowl games if we are to win," he said. "But don't get the idea that Southern Methodist is unbeatable."

S. M. U. HEADS WEST

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The Southern Methodist university football squad moved westward tonight for the Rose Bowl game with Stanford New Year's day at Pasadena.

Thirty-one players were aboard a train that departed at noon, with Coaches Matty Bell, Vic Hurt, and Charlie Trigg. "Barring illness, we'll take the field New Year's day with more playing strength than at any other time this season," Bell said.

Among the ex-cripples is Harry Shuford, full back and signal caller, who, before a twisted knee put him on the sidelines, starred as a blocker and ground gainer. Bobby Wilson, the 147 pound broken field runner, who piled up 72 points during the season and at the same time dodged injury, is rested and ready.

Tomorrow the Mustangs stop at Tucson, Ariz., for a few hours to work out at the University of Arizona stadium. They will pull into Pasadena Saturday morning and finish their pre-game practice at Occidental college.

Bell indicated he would start Johnny Sprague at quarter back, Wilson and Shelley Burt at the halves, and Shuford at full back. The line is certain to include Tipton and Stewart at ends, Orr and Spain at tackles, Wetsel and Stamps at guards, and Johnson at center.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Slugging percentage, a comparatively recent wrinkle in post season baseball statistics designed for the consumption of the most specialized fans, reveals that Arky Vaughan of the Pirates is the slugging champion of the National league as well as the old fashioned hitting king. Joe Medwick, who was runner-up to Vaughan in the straight batting percentages, also is runner up in slugging. To those who have forgotten how slugging is figured it may be said that slugging percentage is arrived at by dividing times at bat into total number of bases.

Vaughan's 192 hits were good for 303 bases and his slugging mark was .607. Medwick's 224 hits were good for 365 bases, the greatest total in the league, but his slugging percentage was .576 because Joe went to bat 135 more times than did Arky.

Berger's Record Remarkable.

Walter Berger of the Braves, who was fourth in the slugging percentages, turned in a remarkable record when he led the league with runs batted in, 130, the remarkable feature being that he kept going despite the fact he was associated with the worst team in the history of major league baseball on the basis of games lost. Wally's total was almost a fourth of the total driven by all the rest of the 1935 Braves, including Babe Ruth.

Figures released yesterday in connection with the slugging percentages point out that Augie Galan, Cub leadoff man in every one of the champs' 154 games, did not hit into a double play. Augie went to bat 646 times during the season.

Leiber Double Play Hitter.

Joint runnersup in this respect among the regulars were Mel Ott and Joe Moore of the Giants, Virgil Davis of the Cardinals, Lou Chiozza of the Phillies, and Ralph Boyle, Stanley Bordagaray and the late Len Koenicke of the Brooklyn Dodgers. Each hit into four double plays. Hank Leiber of the Giants hit into the most double killings, 20. Leiber was hit by ten pitched balls, high for the season.

To Dolph Camilli of the Phillies went the doubtful distinction of setting a strikeout record. Camilli fanned 113 times to break the old record he shared at 94 with Hack Wilson. Ernie Lombardi, husky Cincinnati catcher, fanned only six times to lead all the regulars in that respect.

Vaughan Draws 97 Walks.

Vaughan was walked the most, 97 times. Floyd [Pep] Young of the Pirates tied the modern league record by striking out five times in as many times at bat in a game against Cincinnati, Sept. 29.

The Giants hung up the best team slugging percentage, .416, with the Cubs two points behind. Chicago batted in 782 runs, drew 464 passes and had 33 batsmen hit by pitchers, all highs for the season. The Braves hit into 139 double plays and the Phillies into only 91. The cards, winning 10 games and losing four by shutouts, had the best average in that department, although Pittsburgh's pitchers accounted for 15 shutouts. The Pirates were blanked in 14 games.

Loyola Basket Team to Meet Ripon Tonight

Loyola university meets Ripon college tonight at Loyola as the Ramblers make preparations for the second half of the season's schedule. Loyola plays Vanderbilt and Western State at Loyola before taking to the road for four games.

Coach Lennie Sachs will start the same team that has won games from Arkansas State, Grinnell, and Beloit, while holding the strong Indiana and Iowa quintets to seven point victories. Ed Murray, center, who sprained his ankle in the Beloit game last Friday, will be at his regular position. Marv Colen and Bobbie Brennan will be guards, and Gart Winkler and Ed Calihan forwards.

The Ripon lineup will contain Co-Captains Earl Christ and Ken Smith, Art Fallon, and Carl Lyle, who started against Loyola last year, while the other monogram men who saw action include Angelo Giaudrone, Mac Simpson, Kurt Radtke, and Orvil Granesse. The game will start at 8:15 p. m.

KRUEGER CARDS 68 AND LEADS PASADENA GOLF

Pasadena, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Alvin Krueger of Beloit, Wis., hung up a 68, three strokes under par, to capture the lead in the first round of the fourth annual $4,000 Pasadena open golf tournament today.

Krueger's sensational putting paved the way for his out round of 34, two under par, and a 34 in, one under par. He ran down putts of 20, 25, and 30 feet.

Britton to Be Assistant to Neyland at Tennessee

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Maj. W. H. Britton, head football coach at the University of Tennessee the past season, was signed today as an assistant to Maj. Robert R. Neyland, who is returning as head coach in 1936 under a five year contract. Britton served as end coach under Neyland from 1926 through 1934.

Marshall and Foreman Win in U. of C. Meet

Marshall was the second west section team to come through the initial bracket, as Austin downed Amundsen in the tourney opener, 32 to 28.

Foreman managed to defeat Senn, 29 to 27, in a fast game that went an extra period. At the end of the first half, Senn led 14 to 13.

C. Y. O. Skating Derby Attracts Host of Stars

When the C. Y. O. skating derby is held Sunday afternoon at Garfield park some of the best skaters in the central states will be in action, Pete Miller, director of the meet, announced yesterday following the receipt at the derby headquarters, 31 East Congress street, of entries from stars in the Chicago area. The meet is scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock, with 19 events scheduled.

Heading the list of well known stars are Eleanor Thiel, women's state champion; Vic Roachetti, men's state champion; Marvin Thomson, juvenile state champion, Kenneth Kisselburg, national junior champion; Al Kucera, tri-state titleholder; Lowell Miller, former holder of the United States juvenile honors; John [Honey] Flickinger, one of the fastest sprinters in the country, and Merle Newman, twice runnerup in the Silver Skates in the girls' division.

Competition for team honors is expected to be evenly divided between the Northwest Skating club and the C. Y. O. Skating club, which will have the largest delegations in the meet. Fifty boys and girls will represent the C. Y. O. club, while 41 will be in the field for the Northwest S. C. Leading the Northwest S. C. title seekers are Marvin Thomson, Wallace Fee Jr., and Shirley Jamison.

In addition to the C. Y. O. and Northwest representations, the Norwegian-American Skating club, the Sleipner A. C., the Olympic S. C., and the T. J. Bowler A. C. will also have teams competing for trophies and cups to be awarded winning clubs. Individual medals also will go to the winners.

Frankie Pytlak Regains Health; Signs with Indians

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Ten pounds heavier than this time last year, Frankie Pytlak returned a signed contract to the Cleveland Indians today. Last July Pytlak was returned home here for rest and medical attention after losing weight and becoming ill. By November he had added 18 pounds to his small, 140 pound frame and he believes he now is ready to hit his 1933 stride. That year he was rated the most promising catcher in the league.

Virginia Hollinger Goes to Girls' Net Quarter Finals

Brookline, Mass., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The defending champion, Miss Virginia Hollinger, Dayton, O., today reached the quarter-finals of the girls' national indoor tennis tournament by scoring a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Betty Albers, Brookline.

Cardinal End Ties for First in Pro Kicking

BY GEORGE STRICKLER.

Forty-three field goals were kicked in the National Professional Football league's championship race this year, an average of nearly one per game, according to official records released yesterday.

Bill Smith, the Chicago Cardinal end, tied with Nick Niccolai of Pittsburgh for the most goals. Each kicked six. Niccolai's successful attempt from the 47 yard line was the longest placement of the season. Dutch Clark, Detroit quarter back and captain, drop kicked 43 yards for his only field goal in 12 games. Only one other drop kick was made. It was by Paul Pardonner from the 17 yard line to give the Cardinals a 3 to 0 victory over Green Bay at Milwaukee.

The average distance of all successful kicks was 27.37 yards. Niccolai's six attempts averaged 33 yards, and Smith's, 28.8 yards.

Only One for Manders.

Jack Manders, the Bears' full back, who led the league in 1933 and 1934 to establish himself as the greatest place kicker in football, made only one successful kick this year. It was a 12 yard kick. Manders' failure on repeated attempts eliminated him from the running for the high scoring championship, which he won last year. In 1934 he kicked 10 field goals in addition to 32 extra points.

Manders' reversal of form was attributed by rival coaches to greater responsibility in the Bear back field and overanxiousness to make good as a successor to Bronko Nagurski.

Eighteen Kick Field Goals.

Manders' eagerness to make good as a ball carrier and blocker, following his complaints of the year before that he was not being used enough, reacted against the customary unfailing accuracy with which he kicked goals from all angles and distances in 1934, when he did little else but kick.

Niccolai, Pittsburgh	6	Place.	47	198
Smith, Cardinals	6	Place.	44	173

EAST AND WEST FOOTBALL STARS GET ACQUAINTED

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Eastern and western football stars who will meet in the annual East-West charity game here New Year's day, enjoyed a brief respite in their vigorous training programs today to break bread together over the banquet table.

They were guests at the Shrine football luncheon, an annual affair to get the players acquainted. Brief practice sessions were held later in the day.

Belief that Walter Cruice, 185 pound half back from Northwestern, would recover from a knee injury in time for the game was expressed by eastern coaches, Dick Hanley and Andy Kerr.

Cruice twisted his left knee in the first eastern scrimmage yesterday. At first he was thought to be definitly out of the game, but an examination disclosed the injury was not as serious as had been supposed.

Entries Close Today for Sleipner Derby

Entries will close today for the 43d annual skating Derby of the Sleipner Athletic club which will be held at Humboldt park New Year's day. There will be competition in thirteen classes. The first race will start at 1:30 o'clock.

New York, Dec. 26.—United States government loans moved upward sharply today in the heaviest trading of the month in those issues. Gains ranging from 1-32 to 9-32 points ruled throughout the federal list with activity centered on the treasury 2¼s, ⅜s, 3½s, and Home Owners' loan 2½s. Sales of government issues totaled $2,661,100, as compared with $651,000 on Tuesday.

The main body of corporate bonds displayed an unusually strong undertone for a post-holiday session and total transactions on the exchange reached $12,862,100, as compared with $11,144,000 on Tuesday.

Prices Average Higher.

Special movements in a few of the more speculative railroad bonds featured trading in the domestic corporate section and carried the price average higher. Prominent in the advance were the issues of Alleghany corporation which rose 1⅝ to 3 points; Missouri Pacific bonds, up fractionally to 1⅜ points, and Southern Pacific bonds which recorded gains of fractions to over a point.

Speculative interest in the bonds of Great Northern and Nickel Plate had subsided and only minor fluctuations developed. Illinois Central 7s of 1937, listed on the curb exchange, rose 1¼ points to 83¾.

Utility Group Firm.

Except for special moves in a few individual issues the remainder of the corporate division was featureless. Utility bonds, as a group, were firm to moderately higher. Warren Brothers 6s and convertible 6s were in brisk demand and rose 2¾ and 2¾ points respectively, while R. K. O. 6s responded to a good demand with a gain of 2½ points.

Little interest was shown in the market for foreign dollar obligations and, with the exception of a few isolated moves by inactive issues, the group maintained a firm tone.

American Airlines, Inc.

Investors' Guide: Please send me information concerning American Airlines, Inc., stock. Your comments appreciated.—J. C. J.

Answer: American Airlines, Inc., was formed on April 11, 1934, by Aviation corporation to acquire the assets of American Airways, Inc., in order that Aviation corporation could comply with the air mail act of 1934. On July 1, 1935, stock of American Airlines, Inc., was issued to Aviation corporation's stockholders on a one for ten share basis.

The company carries passengers, mail, and express over a 6,660 mile route. It contacts 54 cities in 22 states. Its route extends from Boston to New York, Washington, D. C., Cleveland, Detroit, Chicago, Dallas, Fort Worth, and Los Angeles.

On Nov. 20, 1935, the company announced placement of an order for 10 new type Douglas transport planes costing $1,700,000, the largest transport planes ever operated on a domestic airline.

In October, 1935, the company carried 85,461 pounds of air express, a new high record.

During the first nine months of 1935 operating revenues were $4,368,000 and net loss was $398,000. In the period of May 13 to Dec. 31, 1934, net loss was $1,371,000. On Dec. 31, 1934, current assets, including cash of $923,000, totaled $1,657,000, and current liabilities were $489,000. Profit and loss deficit was $1,371,000.

Comparison of results in the first nine months of 1935 with the last eight months of 1934 indicates that the company made substantial progress this year. Absence of profitable operations and the lack of any near term prospect of dividends on the 277,175 shares of $10 par capital stock make the shares just a speculation at the present time.

Board of Trade Visiting.

Investors' Guide: Please let me know if it is possible for a woman to go to the Chicago Board of Trade and watch the transactions. I should like to watch this, but do not know where to go. Thank you.—H. G.

Answer: Yes, all the leading exchanges have visitors' galleries where visitors may watch actual trading on the floor of the exchanges. They are open during trading hours.

Trading hours on the Chicago Board of Trade are from 9 until 2 daily and from 9 to 12 on Saturday. From 1:15 until 2 on week days trading is confined only to bids and offers.

DEFICIT OF U. S. $1,786,000,000 FOR HALF YEAR

Spend $1.95 for Each Dollar Collected.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The treasury approached the midpoint of the 1936 fiscal year today with receipts lagging far behind increasing expenditures for a deficit of $1,786,000,000.

For every dollar collected in taxes and other revenues since the financial year began July 1, $1.95 had been spent. Of the latter, $1.10 went for the regular general expenditures of departments and bureaus and 85 cents was for relief and other emergency purposes.

These factors, coupled with prospective expenditures, caused an increase of $1,843,000,000 in the gross federal public debt. The debt rose from $28,700,000,000 last July 1, to $30,543,000,000 on Dec. 23.

Nearly All Classes Gain.

For the same period, all categories of receipts, except processing taxes, showed increases over a year ago. Total receipts were $1,865,000,000 compared with $1,811,000,000 in the same period of the 1935 fiscal year.

Among the major categories, income tax collections were $551,000,000 compared with $416,000,000 last year, miscellaneous internal revenues $949,000,000 this year and $827,000,000 last year, and customs receipts $184,000,000 against $162,000,000.

Processing taxes on farm products by which the agricultural benefit payments are financed, dropped from $264,000,000 to $65,000,000. Large sums have been impounded by the courts this year, pending determination of the constitutionality of the tax.

Expenditures Above Year Ago.

On the other side of the ledger, general expenditures were listed at $2,052,000,000 so far this year and $1,675,000,000 last year, while outlays for recovery and relief aggregated $1,599,000,000 for the period and $1,791,000,000 a year ago.

Against the public debt total, the treasury had a balance of $2,291,000,000 in cash on hand, which included $143,000,000 of its gold profits resulting from the revaluation of the dollar, and $252,000,000 from seignorage charges on the coinage of newly mined silver.

The working balance totaled $1,895,000,000, much larger than usual because a week ago some $900,000,000 was borrowed to meet the wintertime costs of the relief and recovery programs. Since the fiscal year began the general fund balance increased $450,000,000.

Deficit Also Is Larger.

The deficit of $1,785,000,000 was larger than for the corresponding period of last year, when the balance sheet showed excess expenditures of $1,655,000,000 and a total outlay of $1.91 for each dollar received—92 cents for general expenditures and 99 cents for the recovery program.

A condensed balance sheet of treasury operations for the first half of the current fiscal year with one week still to be reported, follows. [Figures are given in millions of dollars.]

U. S. STEEL UNIT MAY BUILD NEW $35,000,000 PLANT

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Plans for erection of a $35,000,000 plant at Clairton by the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, a subsidiary of the United States Steel corporation, were reported today. Officers of the subsidiary refused to discuss the report. It was indicated any announcement would have to come from the United States Steel offices in New York.

The reported move is in line with recent evidences of a more aggressive policy on the part of the steel corporation. Work is under way in Homestead on a $10,000,000 plate mill for the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation, largest of the parent organization's subsidiaries. A continuous hot strip mill is under construction at McDonald, O.

Officials Not Available.

New York, Dec. 23.—[Special.—Officials of United States Steel corporation here could not be reached tonight for confirmation of the reported plans for construction of a plant at Clairton, Pa.

Anheuser-Busch, Inc., Will Distribute Borden Shares

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Anheuser-Busch, Inc., today announced stockholders of record Dec. 24 will receive a distribution of stock of the Borden company on the basis of one share of Borden for each 20 shares of Anheuser-Busch. Stockholders entitled to fractional shares will be paid at the rate of $1.25 for each share of Anheuser-Busch on the basis of 25% a share for Borden. The dividend follows one of $1 a share declared Oct. 22.

Business Hope, Fear Centered in Washington

BY HOWARD WOOD.

With the next session of congress due to begin a week from today business hopes and fears are centering more than ever in Washington. Although most observers anticipate a tendency on the part of President Roosevelt to extend the "breathing spell" for business into the election year, a number of issues are coming to a head which are bound to have a profound effect upon business sentiment.

In financial circles the consensus seems to be that the veterans' bonus will be passed in some form, with or without the President's approval. No provision for payment of the bonus, however, is expected to be included in the President's budget estimate for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1937.

* *

If the bonus is to be paid by additional government borrowings such action would further inflate the nation's bank deposits, which are already above 1929 levels as a result of huge federal borrowings from the banks during the last three years. It would not, however, increase the idle excess reserves of the banks. There is little doubt that most of the government's borrowing during the coming year will be from banks.

It is not generally believed that the attempt to force payment of the bonus in greenbacks or silver certificates will be successful, but if it should happen that way not only bank deposits, but excess reserves of banks would be increased, thereby adding to the pressure of idle bank funds seeking employment.

In either event the payment of a bonus would be inflationary, unless provision should be made for the imposition of additional federal taxes sufficient to cover such an expenditure. Because 1936 is an election year, however, it is believed that the administration will be exceedingly slow to urge tax increases.

* *

President Roosevelt's budget message a week or so hence is expected to contain figures that look good. Estimates for tax receipts will probably be higher with estimates for expenditures somewhat lower. In this way the administration will probably seek to deflate the arguments of critics who have been pointing to the steady rise in federal expenditures since 1933 and demanding a gradual tapering off of the yearly deficits.

The figures in the budget message, however, will merely represent preliminary estimates. If the bonus advocates win their battle these figures might quickly become meaningless. Furthermore, it is generally suspected that actual expenditures by the government for relief during the next fiscal year will run much higher than the President's estimates. The administration has undertaken to transfer the direct relief burden back to states and communities, keeping for itself only the "make work" projects. Political expediency, however, will probably prevent Washington's abandoning direct relief entirely during an election year. Many states and communities will insist that they cannot carry their own loads.

* *

Another development that would throw early estimates of next year's deficit into the ash heap would be a decision by the United States Supreme court holding the AAA processing tax unconstitutional. Such a decision would immediately stop all revenues from that source and send the politicians scurrying to discover some other source of funds for handouts to producers of cotton, wheat, corn, hogs, and other commodities now covered by the processing tax revenues.

Townsend plan advocates are not expected to get congress to go for their scheme, but the constant pressure upon congressmen by these and others who demand that the government "do something" for somebody exerts much pressure for political liberality in general. The spending habit is not easy to cure.

CHRISTMAS MAIL SHOWS 10% GAIN OVER LAST YEAR

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—10 per cent increase in the volume of Christmas mail over last year was indicated today at the postoffice department.

Postmaster General Farley announced that reports received from the 55 largest postoffices in the nation disclosed an average increase of 10.21 per cent. The estimates were based on business for the first 23 days of December.

Overseas Messages Set Record.

New York, Dec. 26.—(AP)—The American Telephone and Telegraph company reported tonight that its radio telephone service did a record overseas and round the world business on Christmas day with 360 conversations between the United States and various points on the globe.

The previous high for radio telephone overseas service was in 1933 when 284 calls went through. The day before Christmas likewise set a record this year with 148 calls.

FLORSHEIM SHOE REPORTS SHARP GAIN IN PROFITS

The Florsheim Shoe company yesterday reported sharply improved earnings during the year ended last Oct. 31, when net income was $591,349, equal to $1.48 a share on the class A stock and 74 cents a share on the B stock. This was the largest income figure since 1931, and the best per share earnings since 1930. Retirement of preferred stock early in 1934 was reflected in increased equity for the junior stocks.

Net for 1934 was $402,336, which was equal to $1.01 on the A and 50 cents on the B. Gross profits were $2,220,078 last year, compared with $1,929,689 in 1934.

POWER BOARD TAKES FIRST STEP TO RULE ELECTRICITY RATES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The federal power commission today issued orders requiring all companies owning facilities for the sale of electric energy in interstate commerce to file a schedule of rates.

The action was announced as the "first step toward control of rates, charges, contracts, and agreements relating to the movement of electric energy in interstate commerce subject to the jurisdiction of the commission under the federal power act." The schedules must be filed by Jan. 15. The order applies to "sale of electrical energy at wholesale."

At the same time the commission directed attention to a provision of the act which forbids "any changes in rates, charges or contracts or agreements filed with the commission under the act except on approval of the commission."

"The federal power commission has not yet made a determination as to all electric public utility companies subject to its jurisdiction under the federal power act," the commission said. "For that reason, notice of the requirement for filing of the rate schedules and reports has been sent by registered mail to nearly 2,000 operating companies and also to companies producing electric power primarily for industrial purposes, but which, in some instances, is sold for transmission in interstate commerce subject to federal regulations."

I. C. C. TO PROBE VAN SWERINGEN RAIL CONTROL

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The interstate commerce commission decided today to leave no stone unturned in its quest for the truth about the Mid-America corporation, big Van Sweringen holding unit that was recently formed for the purpose of recovering from J. P. Morgan and company actual control of the Van Sweringen railroad empire. The commission apparently is determined to learn the extent to which the Van Sweringens' control of various railroads is effected through the corporation.

The medium for the commission's action was an application by George A. Tomlinson, a Mid-America director, for authority to hold a similar position on the Fort Worth Belt railroad, a carrier controled by the Van Sweringens through the Missouri Pacific and the Texas and Pacific railroads.

Not only was a public hearing called by the interstate commerce commission to consider the Tomlinson application, but all past proceedings that resulted in his being authorized to hold important posts in the Van Sweringen railroad network were simultaneously reopened "for further consideration," and the implication was that such past orders might be revoked or seriously modified.

R. P. BOARDMAN IS PROMOTED BY MARSHALL FIELD

Promotion of Ronald P. Boardman from manager of the basement to assistant to the general manager of Marshall Field & Co., retail store was announced yesterday by Frederick D. Corley, first vice president and general manager. Boardman will have charge of sales promotion. Previously he had been manager of the three suburban retail stores, being credited with having first tried out the idea.

Succeeding Boardman as main store basement manager is Edgar B. Leighty. Egil E. Krogh will be general assistant to Leighty. Gilbert H. Robinson succeeds Leighty in charge of the sixth floor ready to wear division, and will be assisted by W. C. Stetson.

Another change not previously announced was the promotion of Arthur E. L. Westphal to be operating manager and personnel director of the retail store to relieve Corley of part of the detail work.

McCarl Bars Customs Fund in Relief

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—An order by Controler General J. R. McCarl today halted plans for the Federal Surplus Commodity corporation to buy surplus farm products for relief distribution.

J. R. McCARL.

McCarl held that the administration could not use the 30 per cent of gross customs receipts set aside for the AAA to buy farm products to be given to relief clients. In a letter to Secretary Wallace, McCarl held relief legislation and relevant statutes provided another way to handle such purchases.

Plans had been launched, AAA officials said, for the corporation, now closely connected with the farm administration, to buy specialty crops, such as cabbage or apples. A large part of the customs receipts fund has been pledged for payment of the 1935 cotton subsidy.

Must Find New Revenue.

The customs receipts money may be used to encourage farm exports and domestic consumption. Officials said no other funds now are available to finance purchases by the Surplus Commodity corporation, and that purchases cannot be made until a new source of revenue has been found.

It was believed McCarl's ruling would not affect AAA plans for purchases for diversion purposes and not for relief distribution. An offer has been made for purchases of surplus potatoes from the 1935 crop, to be diverted into industrial channels. Officials said, however, they did not expect growers to take advantage of this offer because of recently advanced prices for potatoes.

Wallace and McCarl Disagree.

In a letter to McCarl, Wallace said purchases for relief distribution would mean diversion, because the products would be donated to individuals "who are not an effective factor in the marketing of such commodities." McCarl replied that purchase for donation would "in no sense of the word accomplish the manifest purposes of the act."

When the Surplus Commodity corporation was transferred from FERA to AAA several months ago officials said purchases might be made for relief distribution.

Continental Bank Official Resigns to Take New Post

Arthur H. Evans, vice president of the Continental Illinois National Bank and Trust company, has resigned, effective Dec. 31, to become associated with Mercer-Allied corporation of New York, investment managers. Evans received his early banking training with the National City bank of New York. He was acting commercial attaché and advisor to the international customs conference in Peking on joining the United States department of commerce after the Washington disarmament conference. Evans was associated with the American International corporation from its formation until 1923.

MANUFACTURERS!

We are a daily cash market for all grades of waste products produced in your plant operations.

There is value in fibre content waste products now being destroyed every day in many industries.

Particularly, at this time, we are interested in Wool, Cotton, Silk, Rayon, Celanese, or other waste produced in the cutting rooms of manufacturers in the Ladies', Men's, and Children's Clothing lines.

ELECTRICITY OUTPUT IN CHICAGO IS THIRD HIGHEST ON RECORD

Electricity production in the Chicago district last week was the third highest on record, the Commonwealth Edison company announced yesterday. Colder weather and improved demand for holiday lighting accounted for the rise.

The total of 121,686,000 kilowatt hours compared with 117,630,000 in the preceding week and 11,927,000 in the corresponding week of last year. The increase over last year amounted to 8.7 per cent, against a gain of 5.5 per cent in the preceding week over 1934. The total for the week was surpassed only by two weeks in December, 1929.

Week ended.	1935.	1934.	Per cent. Increase.
Dec. 14	117,630	111,468	5.5
Dec. 7	116,978	109,583	6.7
Nov. 30	100,688	101,028	8.6

The Edison Electric institute had announced on Tuesday that the national total last week set another new all-time high and crossed the two billion kilowatt-hour mark for the first time at 2,002,005,000.

BALDWIN QUITS AS CO-TRUSTEE OF MISSOURI PACIFIC

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 26.—(AP)—L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific Lines since 1923, resigned today as co-trustee in bankruptcy for the railroad because of disagreement with legal action impending over its purchase of terminal properties in 1930.

United States Circuit Judge Charles B. Faris, before whom is pending the railroad's petition for reorganization under the amended bankruptcy law, accepted the resignation and directed Guy B. Thompson to continue in office as sole trustee. Thompson immediately appointed Baldwin as chief executive officer for the railroad.

STOCK MARKET SWEEPS HIGHER; AVIATION LEADS

Douglas Climbs 17 Points in 10 Days.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 26.—Stock traders returned to the fray in a somewhat happier frame of mind today and bought enough assorted shares to boost price levels irregularly all along the line. Aviation issues were favored and quotations were marked up a fraction to more than 5 points. Some effort was made to resuscitate the utilities, and the silvers returned to favor on reports that the treasury may take more interest shortly in foreign markets The gold mines also attracted interest, Homestake racing ahead 7 points to a new high just under 500.

Business was brisker in keeping with the improved order of the price list. Volume topped the 2,000,000 share mark for the first time in more than two weeks. A good proportion of the total was said to represent adjustment of speculative accounts.

Short Interests Concerned.

It was evident that shorts were showing more uneasiness and that sold out longs, who had been watching proceedings from the side lines, were reentering on modest scale. European political unsettlement was ignored. Optimistic estimates of fourth quarter earnings and prospects for the initial three months of the new year did much to stimulate constructive sentiment.

The outstanding feature was Douglas Aircraft, which climbed steadily to a new high of 54½, giving it a rise of more than 17 points in the last ten days. The ever present "war scare" and comment on the substantial new government business that important manufacturers have been receiving made the aviation section more attractive than it has been in years. Wright jumped more than 6 points, Boeing rose about 3, United Aircraft and United Air Lines gained a point or so, and Curtiss-Wright was active at higher figures. Sperry was shoved along rapidly. The group as a whole reached new highs for the year or longer.

Electric Boat Advances.

Electric Boat, classed betimes as a "war baby," plugged in on the war buying movement and rose the better part of two points. Renewed activity came into Radio, the common advancing a major fraction and the B shares more than 2 points.

Fertilizer stocks showed more life and some of the tobaccos were given a fling, notably Philip Morris, which stepped up some $2 a share to a new high.

Shares of the heavy industries attracted increasing demand on indications that total spending of the country's leading corporations will run up to $1,500,000,000. Fairbanks Morse spurted more than 2 points, and International Harvester a point.

The motors and rails, leaders in last week's market, were inclined to take a rest today. Chrysler gave up more than a point and General Motors eased a major fraction.

Silver Halts Long Decline; Price Steady

It was "news" yesterday when the New York price of silver stood unchanged from the pre-holiday figure of 50 cents an ounce after a turbulent two weeks' collapse from the high levels caused by purchases of the United States treasury over the last two years.

Dealers, however, were not ready to say whether the standstill is a natural one because the white metal now has settled back to the price at which it stood when the nationalization order was proclaimed Aug. 9. Some wondered if the standstill might not be merely temporary because the London market remained closed, taking a two day holiday.

New York Firm Sets Price.

The quotation of 49¾ cents an ounce, fixed by Handy & Harmon, bullion dealers, was the only price posted in leading world centers. The extra fraction is allowed for handling charges in figuring a cost of 50 cents an ounce on treasury purchases. Some opinion was held that the American treasury intends to peg the price at the present level for a time.

The value of treasury silver holdings acquired in the last two years is figured to shrink at the rate of $7,610,000 for each 1 cent drop in price. The fall in the last two weeks or so has amounted to 15¾ cents.

One theory advanced yesterday is that the treasury may resume its boosting of world prices after China has had a breathing spell to carry out its currency reforms. The recent decline is seen as a squeeze to cut off smuggling of Chinese silver through Japan by making it unprofitable. It is thought a possibility, however, that the United States will work out an agreement with China on silver's future as a Chinese currency standard before the price boosting purchases again take place.

PITTMAN URGES DOMINATION.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—Use of the treasury's gold and silver hoards to give the American dollar a dominating place in the world money market was projected today by Senator Pittman [Dem., Nev.]. Unruffled by criticism of the American silver policy, the Nevadan asserted:

"Pending the time when political and international conditions permit stabilization of currency, it is wise for the United States to keep in possession as much gold as possible. The power to lend this gold to other nations will be one of the strongest influences to establishment of the dollar's strength in other countries."

The same, he said, would be true of silver when silver-using countries such as Mexico, South American republics and China decide to stabilize their currencies.

Blames China for Trouble.

Pittman, who is chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, said the national government of China is largely responsible for its difficulties. He asserted the high price of silver engendered by the American policy was less harmful to China than instability of its price. Asked if the treasury policy might not now be contributing to an unstable price, Pittman replied that the Chinese had demanded a lower price of silver and should not protest that it was going down.

Pittman said he did not believe this government should "show its hole card" in the monetary market by indicating what it planned to do.

TWO RAILROADS' PROFITS SET SIX YEAR HIGH MARK

Many Report Sharp Gains in Month.

Both the Chicago and North Western and the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroads had the largest net operating income for November since 1929, company reports disclosed yesterday. The Great Northern had the highest net operating income in five years, and the total for the first 21 carriers to report for the month was 63.8 per cent above a year ago.

The North Western's net operating income of $743,644 for the month was more than four times larger than the $166,402 for November, 1934, a year to year gain of $577,242. Gross operating revenues also rose sharply, amounting to $6,621,464, compared with $5,566,027 a year ago.

Figures for Milwaukee.

The Milwaukee's net operating income of $1,404,962 for the month compared with $1,634,230 in October and only $398,432 in November of last year. Gross revenue of $8,267,847 was $1,006,480 above a year ago.

Great Northern's new high for November was reached on a net operating income of $1,810,711, compared with $1,233,677 a year ago. Gross operating revenues of $6,680,464 compared with $5,828,318 for November, 1934.

Other carriers that also showed sharp increases over a year ago included the Wabash, the Lackawanna, the Minneapolis and St. Louis, and the St. Louis-San Francisco.

Results Best Since 1930.

Combined returns for the first 21 reporting carriers indicate the best results for November since 1930 for the railroads as a whole, a combined net operating income of $19,932,500 compared with $12,163,619 a year ago. Gross revenues rose 18.5 per cent to $87,367,967 from $73,696,680 in November, 1934.

This brought the total net operating income of 21 carriers to $155,728,109 for the first eleven months of the year, against $151,474,828 in the corresponding months of 1934, a rise of 2.8 per cent. Gross revenues mounted 4.1 per cent from $855,911,258 a year ago to $891,205,367 this year.

Freight trafic announcements for last week indicated that a five year high was again established for the particular week. Total car loadings reported yesterday were:

MORE MONEY PUT IN CIRCULATION FOR CHRISTMAS

Reserve Report Also Shows Increase in Gold.

A sharp rise of $89,000,000 in volume of money in circulation to meet pre-Christmas demands for cash and a $16,000,000 gain in monetary gold stocks which sent the total to a new record high of $10,114,000,000 were disclosed last night in the statement of the federal reserve system for the week ended Dec. 24.

This year's rise in money in circulation was slightly less than the normal holiday expansion of about 107 millions, reflecting the fact that banks are carrying unusually large amounts of cash in their tills and could meet part of the seasonal demand without drawing from the reserve banks. The total of $5,991,000,000 in circulation is $363,000,000 more than a year ago. Monetary gold stocks are $1,886,000 more than a year ago.

Excess Reserves Decline.

Because of other factors which increased reserves by 81 millions, the member bank reserve balances dropped only 8 millions last week as a result of the expansion of money in circulation. Excess reserves were estimated at $2,700,000,000, a decline of 10 millions.

Total reserve bank credit was up 40 millions, treasury and national bank currency was up 6 millions, treasury cash and deposits with reserve banks declined 5 millions and nonmember deposits and other accounts receded 14 millions.

Note circulation increased 70 millions and deposit liabilities were off 41 million. Virtually no change was reported in gold certificate reserves. Other items showed only minor variations from the previous week.

Federal Reserve Notes Expand.

The Chicago federal reserve bank reported a $16,500,000 increase in federal reserve notes in circulation, while the increase at the New York bank was $17,400,000. Total deposits fell $13,100,000 in Chicago and $12,800,000 in New York.

Loans and investments of Chicago member banks were down 7 millions, brokers' loans being off 3 millions. In New York, brokers' loans expanded 9 millions, though the investment total was down 38 millions. Commercial loans shrank 17 millions in New York and 2 millions in Chicago. Holdings of governments, either direct or guaranteed obligations, fell 31 millions in New York banks and 3 millions among Chicago member banks. There were slight gains in holdings of other securities. Demand and time deposits declined 21 millions for Chicago but rose 7 millions in New York. Interbank deposits were off 46 millions in New York but up 10 millions in Chicago.

WHEAT PRICES RISE ON EVE OF DELIVERY DATE

December Grain Option Is Up to $1.06¾.

Congestion in the December delivery of wheat on the Chicago Board of Trade yesterday advanced the price 1½ cents over Tuesday's finish to $1.06¾, a new high since early in October, and to 7 cents premium over the May option, compared with a fractional discount about two weeks ago. Distant futures finished fractionally higher, largely in sympathy with the December delivery.

Trading in December wheat contracts will cease at the close today and the uncertainty as to what may happen was shown by the spread of nearly 10 cents at the extreme in the price of bids and offers. The offers sold at $1.11¾, which was 5 cents above the regular close on the future, the maximum upturn permitted for one day under exchange regulations. Contracts remaining open after today must be satisfied by a delivery of cash grain.

Trading in Wheat Is Quiet.

With the exception of the strength in December wheat the market was devoid of feature and the aggregate trade was extremely small. Houses with eastern connections were moderate buyers of May wheat and there were some purchases of the latter against sales of July wheat, which widened the premium of the former to 10⅝ cents at the last, the greatest difference of the season.

Foreign markets were closed for the Christmas holidays, but will reopen today. Nothing was heard regarding European demand for overseas cash wheat.

At the close of the market on Tuesday there was a total open interest of 3,925,000 bushels in December wheat, a drop of 1,350,000 bushels compared with Monday. While it was asserted that there was a further reduction as the result of yesterday's operations, considerable evening up is expected today.

2,841,000 Bushels in Store.

There was a total of 2,841,000 bushels of No. 2 red winter wheat in local public elevators at the close of business on Dec. 21, which included about 1,000,000 bushels involved in the recent controversy between the Farmers' National Grain corporation and the Cargill Grain company.

No. 2 red in the sample market sold yesterday at 10½ cents per bushel over the May delivery for country run grain.

Closing prices on principal May futures here, with comparisons, follow:

	Yesterday.	Tuesday.	Wk. ago.
Wheat	$ .99⅝	$ .99½	$ .99¼
Corn	.59⅜	.59⅝	.59⅜
Oats	.28⅛	.28	.27⅝
Rye	.52⅝	.52½	.52⅛

Scattered liquidation by longs developed in December corn and caused a fractionally lower close, while the distant futures were unchanged. Scattered buying lifted December rye nearly 1 cent over Tuesday finish, but trade in all grains was small.

Grain Trading in Chicago Market Near Low Record

Volume of grain trading on the Chicago Board of Trade in 1935, which reached a total of 10,061,000,000 bushels through Dec. 24, was the second smallest since the grain futures administration started keeping records in 1921, government officials disclosed yesterday. During the remainder of this year it is estimated about 100,000,000 bushels will be added to the total.

The total for 1935 is more than 15 per cent below the 12,084,404,000 bushels of futures traded last year. The 1935 decline is attributed to the smaller grain production in the last two years and to decreased activity by speculators.

Previous Low Mark in 1932.

The previous low volume took place in 1932, when it was 10,006,296,000 bushels traded, while the high volume of 26,895,040,000 bushels was reached in 1925.

Wheat trading volume this year to date was 6,970,127,000 bushels, compared with 7,500,397,000 bushels for all of 1934. It was explained that in a year of grain shortage, the smaller volume of the commodity has a tendency to decrease the amount of "hedging" on the exchange. The grain futures market is used by many producers, handlers and processors for hedging purposes as a protection against losses by price fluctuations.

U. S. Policy Cuts Production.

Production of grain has been decreased in recent years by the crop reduction program of the Agricultural Adjustment administration and by severe drouth. In 1934 the worst drouth in many years cut into the nation's grain supply.

This year the major bullish factors were the discovery of black rust in the spring wheat belt and European political developments, which centered about Italy's war with Ethiopia. Despite all this the volume of trading continued to be disappointingly low.

PERMIT REFUSED FOR BUILDING NEW MISSOURI ROAD

Washington, D. C., Dec. 26.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today denied an application of the St. Louis-Kansas City Short Line railroad for authority to construct a 236 mile line between St. Louis and Kansas City. The commission said it was clear "that the territory is reasonably well served by existing railroads and other means of transportation."

"The lines serving the territory have had heavy losses in recent years, have ample capacity to handle an increase in business, and could ill afford to lose the trafic which would be diverted by the proposed operation," the commission said. "The record fails to show that there is a substantial need of another railroad in the territory, and it has not been shown that the applicant has any funds available for the construction of the line."

The railroad admitted, the ICC said, it could not get funds from the general money market, but hoped to finance construction of the road through a reconstruction corporation loan. The commission recalled that an application for a $35,000,000 RFC loan to the company was dismissed in 1933.

LIMITED TRADE IN COTTON; PRICES UNSTEADY AT CLOSE

Trading in cotton was limited yesterday. After a small advance early there was increased pressure from the south, and at the close Chicago was 2 points higher to 2 points lower on the active deliveries and other markets 2 to 9 points lower.

Trading in a new future contract will start in Liverpool Jan. 2 which permits the delivery of cotton other than American. This is said to be the direct result of the AAA efforts to bring about a high price for the American product. Heretofore only American staple could be delivered on Liverpool contracts.

Spot cotton closed unchanged to 10 points lower with New Orleans at 11.75 cents and New York 11.90 cents per pound. Prices in cents per pound:

FIGHT ON CLASS LAWS IS URGED BY PROF. SIMONS

Economic Association Opens Annual Session.

BY REUBEN CAHN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Dec. 26.—University of Chicago professors took a leading part in today's opening program of the forty-eighth annual meeting of the American Economic association.

H. C. SIMONS.

In a paper on the "requisites of free competition," Prof. Henry Simons discussed the importance of tarif reform. He said, "so long as internal trade was substantially free, tarif legislation might be regarded as a somewhat harmless outlet for all the anti-social, pork-barrel, log-rolling propensities of our political leaders and representatives.

Urges Broad Fight.

"Now that the whole field of internal prices has been opened up to orgies of political manipulation and corruption, the practice of special legislation on behalf of particular producer groups must be attacked on the whole front. The open season on consumers must be abolished. The NRA is now, I hope, only an unpleasant memory; but we cannot rely upon the Supreme court as our only protection against the suicidal proclivities of representative government."

The continued dependence of business upon emergency spending of the government was characterized as "a unique and disturbing feature" of the economic recovery now in progress by Dr. Garfield V. Cox, professor of finance at the University of Chicago.

Recent Gains Best.

Prof. Cox declared that while recovery during the period of NRA had been erratic and marked by reversals," the advance which has followed the Schechter decision against NRA is the broadest and best sustained rise of the recovery to date."

Asserting that price control will exist in one form or another, Rexford G. Tugwell, undersecretary of agriculture, who presided over a section of the meeting devoted to the discussion of rigid and flexible prices, declared that the question before the nation is who shall "sit on the throne" of control.

A total of 490 professors will read papers at these sessions. At these meetings a sort of slave market is conducted where college prexies and department heads look over unattached Ph.D's. and arrange for the manning of social science courses in coming semesters. A good volume of business was said to have been done today, with active bidding at advancing prices for the fancier grades.

FOREIGN MONEY DEALINGS QUIET; GUILDER RISES

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—The foreign exchange market was quiet today as the London markets remained closed for the holidays. The only change in the gold bloc moneys was a rise of 5 points in the Dutch guilder to 67.83 cents.

French francs remained at 6.59 cents, which still makes it profitable to ship gold out of France and places the dollar at $1.0066 against francs. The weekly statement of the Bank of France today showed a net gain of 386,000,000 francs in gold stocks during the week ended Dec. 19 when the franc could not be shipped from the country at a profit.

Belgian belgas improved 1 point today to 16.85 cents and German marks gained 3 points to 40.23 cents. Far eastern currencies weakened slightly although silver prices were unchanged. Hongkong dollars dipped 10 points to 32 cents and Shanghai dollars dropped 12½ points to 29.62½ cents.

STRAUS BONDS TO REPAY 15 CENTS ON EACH DOLLAR

New York, Dec. 26.—[Special.]—Holders of bonds of S. W. Straus & Co., Inc., were told today in the Supreme court in Brooklyn that they may expect to recover not more than 15 cents on the dollar. The announcement, made by counsel for the receiver, was heard by more than 250 bondholders with audible disappointment. Justice Charles C. Lockwood reminded them, however, that from the outset of the receivership proceedings, there had been no reason for optimism.

The disclosure was made in the course of an argument before Justice Lockwood on a motion to confirm the report of Harry A. Gordon, official referee, on 1,400 fraud claims. The report, made public on Sept. 6 last, recommended awards of $958,878 on claims which totaled $5,000,000. The court reserved decision on confirmation of the report.

Election of Lester Roth and Irving N. Sherman as vice presidents and Edward F. Curran as treasurer was announced by A. G. Becker & Co. yesterday.

LARD PRICES MOVE LOWER WITH HOGS; TRADING LIGHT

Trade in lard futures was light yesterday, with prices lower in sympathy with the decline in lard type hogs at the stockyards. Hedging sales by packers had some effect on the market, with the close unchanged to 15 cents lower. There were no deliveries on December contracts.

Cash lard closed at $11.97; loose, $11.37; leaf, $11.50, and clear bellies [salt pork], at $18.00 per 100 pounds. Prices in dollars per 100 pounds:
